How To Stop Accidents Before They Happen

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

WOMEN'S GROUPS can help check accidents this Spring through their support of the national Safety-Check program.

The voluntary program, conducted each May immediately preceding summer and vacation travel, gives motorists tangible proof that they need to keep their cars in safe driving condition.

Miss Smith

Last year, one out of every five of the two-and-a-half million vehicles inspected in 1300 communities needed immediate attention. At least one of these major items was faulty: brakes, front and rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

The Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee, which sponsors the program, hopes that in 1958 we will increase the number of free community Safety-Checks. Here are two important ways in which women's groups can support the program:

1. Find out if a community safety-check is being planned in your area. If not, contact public officials, key civic leaders, police and others to offer your help in getting one under way. Serve on community committees to get your neighbors interested in the project.

2. During the Safety-Check program, be sure that your family automobile is inspected and encourage your friends and neighbors to do likewise.

More than 48 million, or two out of every three registered vehicles, are now being driven without any official inspection for safe operating condition. According to M. R. Darlington, Jr., managing director of the program, Safety-Checks can help stop accidents before they happen.

For additional information on how to participate in this important traffic action program, write: Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee, 1200 Eighteenth St., N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

I have at all times given freely of my means and experiences to aid any worthy program or person or to promote any project that would better in any way our living or educational conditions; our religious affairs, etc., county or community-wide as the objective might be.

Having farmed all my life and having been in business gave me an opportunity to have had similar experiences as pertain to most of the people of this county. It has been my privilege and opportunity to serve you at several times as a member of your Chilton County Fruit Growers Association, having served on the Board of Directors two terms; have served over ten years as president of your Purchasing and Marketing Association, having served and returned to you over $100,000 in this alone. As one of the first peach growers of the past thirty years, it has been my privilege to personally select and recommend varieties and methods of care to many of you. During this time there has been over 2,000,000 fruit trees grown or growing that I selected or recommended to this great industry of Chilton County. I have aided in or personally marketed over $7,000,000 worth of Chilton County farm produce.

I am a stockholder in both your Fruit Growers Association and in Thorsby Manufacturing Company, your new industry in this county. I am a member of Chilton County Chamber of Commerce your County Farm Bureau, Centrala Farmers Cooperative and a member of Methodist Church since I was eighteen years old. At present I am serving as your trustee from the 9th District Central Alabama Electric Cooperative; on the Collins Chapel Church building committee and for the past five years have been one of the trustees of the Collins Chapel School.

I am 49 years old, married, and the father of five girls and two boys. I am a graduate of Isabella High School in the class of 1936 and have spent one summer at A. P. My family and I attend and support the Collins Chapel Baptist Church. To this and to local charities I contribute the 10th of our earnings.

I have had experience as a small business man, having operated the Thorsby Tractor & Implement Company for six years. I know the small business man's problems. My credit report at the end of my active business career in this operation was tops and is available now to any who might be interested. [illegible] this business my credit was established through the [illegible] business district. Many hundred thousands of dollars were handled during my operation of this business. These funds were properly handled and disbursed without criticism. I have served as an appraiser, either for Lender-Seller, or Purchaser for over $1,000,000 worth of your county property. My judgement on these [illegible] mended by authorities. I have served over two years [illegible] ferent occasions with the Departments of Agriculture [illegible] on these occasions were good.

If I am elected to this position for which I am asking, my objectives will be to cooperate and work orderly and progressively with whoever you people have elected, or do elect for any or all other offices of this county Each and every candidate in this race is my friend and are loyal Democrats and good citizens. I will in no case speak for or against any other candidate in any of the races now being made. I am and will make this race strictly on my own merits. I feel sure that each other candidate is doing likewise.

I will strive to set policies and establish programs that are workable and to the best interest of the people of this county. I will give special care to our physical inventory. I will make a careful survey of our business institutions always keeping in mind their needs. I will recommend tax cuts at such time as the needs of our institutions will permit. I will abide by the vote of the people in regard to building a courthouse or any other matter that will place your county heavily in debt. My program will be tailored to meet the area needs, not necessarily just one district or locality. I will aid in keeping employed or help employ a capable, hard-working staff to do your county jobs. I will see that they are paid a living wage, and one that will create initiative to do the job well. Loafing on the job, whether working for the county or in private enterprise should equal the same—No Job. I will render to our county a high quality of service, ever mindful of long-range objectives, plans and needs. I will seek counsel from the masses of people of this county. I will not become a rubber stamp for anyone but by the help of God and many of you good people, I will strive to make you the best Board Member you have ever had. We cannot row a boat upstream without paddling. Neither can we achieve these goals without hard work With these statements and a sincere desire to serve you, I humbly solicit your vote and influence May 6th. Thank you.—A. D. Headley

Clanton Telephones Increased in Feb.

The number of telephones serving Clanton continues to increase. J. M. Commander, local Southern Bell manager, reports that 20 more telephones were in service here at the end of February than at the end of last month. The increase raised the total to 3108

To obtain the month's gain, the telephone company connected 45 telephones for applicants and disconnected 25. During the same period, higher grades of service were provided 10 subscribers who had requests on file at the utility's business office.

At the beginning of February, the company had 59 requests on file from subscribers for higher grades of service and 30 applications for new service.

Mr. Commander said applications are being filled as quickly as facilities can be made available.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It has already been covered in many reports that the administration's request to extend the reciprocal tariff act for a long period, with presidential powers to cut protective tariff rates, is in for a tough Congressional battle.

C. W. Harder

And it is quite proper that it should be. For over 20 years the executive branch of government has usurped the responsibility of Congress in the matter of setting protective tariff rates.

When first launched, the announced purpose was to have America lead the way in world wide abolition of tariffs so that all nations could trade on an equal basis. That is still the argument. There is only one flaw to it. Only the U. S. cuts tariffs; other nations raise theirs.

On several occasions, the nation's independent businessmen voting through the National Federation of Independent Business have opposed tariff cuts.

In a year end report beating tom toms for increased tariff reductions, Henry Kearns, assistant Secretary of Commerce, said that both U. S. imports and exports were at a high level in 1957, predicted even higher 1958 level.

His figures showed exports totalled $19.5 billion, or an increase of 13%. U. S. imports were less, standing at $13 billion for an increase of 2%.

However, this comparison between U. S. imports and exports is somewhat akin to comparing persimmons with watermelons. In many areas, the only similarity is that both the exports and imports crossed over U. S. national boundaries.

Whatever the U. S. imports are paid for with dollars. But included in the U. S. export figures are all the shipments of give away goods, and also the farm surpluses, and other commodities that are "sold" far below the prevailing price. In other cases the products are paid for by cheap foreign currency on the basis that it is worth the same as U. S. currency.

Thus, striking a true trade balance figure between exports and imports is about like taking a gunnysack of old match book covers into a local bank and convincing the banker that this entitles one to draw against an equivalent quantity of $20 greenbacks. This would be a nice trick if you could do it, and seemingly bureaucrats can.

In addition, in the entire controversy over this matter, one important element is constantly brushed aside. It does not take, for example, many millions of dollars worth, not to mention billions, of Japanese textiles, made with 7 cent per hour labor, coming into U. S., to demoralize the entire domestic textile market.

There are growing indications that the increasingly heavy imports of foreign cars produced by cheap labor is having its affect on employment in Detroit. It is also of note that a large share of these cars are being shipped in by foreign subsidiaries of the biggest U. S. auto corporations.

And recently, one of the strangest paradoxes of all occurred. To meet competition a well known American watchmaker embarked on a plan to have a large share of their movements made in Switzerland. The Federal Trade Commission has now jumped on the company for promoting American made watches on the basis they are made abroad. Many Congressmen feel power to set tariff rates should be restored to where such power was delegated by U. S. Constitution which is the U. S. Congress.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD IS AS NEAR AS YOUR NEED

In what direction would you point if you were trying to point to Heaven and God? The truth is—God is everywhere. One man said, "As a sponge is in the ocean and the ocean is in the sponge, so we are in God and he is in us." St. Paul said, "God is not afar off, for in him we live, and move, and have our being."

Have you ever heard the story of the two little fish who met a frog beneath a rock? "Don't you know you are in great danger, little fish?" croaked the frog.

"No!" cried the fish, much frightened.

"You mean you didn't know that fish can't live without water?" teased the frog. "You'd better find some water quickly or you will die."

And so the little fish swam to their mother in great distress. "Oh, Mother, Mother! The frog says that we will die if we don't find water quickly! Mother, what is water?"

"I don't know," confessed the mother fish. "I have never heard anything about it. Let's go ask the beaver."

"Water, my dears?" laughed the beaver. "Why, you live in water! That's what you breathe!"

And that is the way we are with God. He has a certain personal relationship with us that is even closer and more intimate than our breath. We are not to look for him somewhere far off. He is with us and in us.

Some people look skyward when they speak of God. But God in his relationship to our needs is not somewhere in the sky. He is immediately near us. And if you need him, you must realize that he is very intimately near. The Bible tells us that the Kingdom of Heaven is within you.

Mrs. M. J. was suffering from an abdominal cancer in an advanced stage. She had lost a great deal of weight. She was in constant pain and the outlook was bad. In an effort simply to prolong her life (for it seemed certain her life could not be saved), it was decided to operate.

At this time she first learned that God was able to heal her. She was carried to a church in which prayer was offered for her healing. She claimed that she had received healing from God, but her family insisted that she should undergo surgery.

When her abdomen was opened, the surgeon's fears appeared to be correct. The growth had invaded and already partially destroyed certain vital organs. And yet when the biopsy was brought back from the lab, the physician was utterly amazed to find the report was "no sign of malignancy."

Yet unmistakable evidence of cancer lay before him. He repaired the damage as well as he could and sent her back to her room.

Today, five years later she is in good health. The supposedly damaged organs are functioning well. There are no signs of cancer.

How close is God? He is just as close as you need him to be.

. . . And Easter Is Here Again

By Dr. Henry Edward Russell
Minister
Trinity Presbyterian Church
Montgomery, Ala.

Easter comes each year. It is the first Sunday following the first full moon after the vernal equinox. Thus Easter has a definite date on the calendar. However, it is easier for Easter to have a definite place on the calendar than to get a proper place in our hearts. Too frequently Easter is in the heart as a sentimental emotion which, though it may have Christian implications it is often only an ecstatic interest in haberdashery ,new hats, new shoes, dresses, suits and the fact that it is spring. As it is Easter again, let us look at the central fact which brought this day to mankind.

The day really began in the fullness of time when the Almighty God sent His Son because He loved every individual man so much that He gave Christ in order that we might believe on Him and have eternal life rather than death. The angels who sang Gloria In Excelsis at Jesus' birth were high enough to gain a perspective which included the cross of Calvary and beyond that an empty tomb and a re-occupied throne in heaven. Little wonder that they sang. Here in God's redemption and our salvation Christ died for our sins rose again for our justification and ever liveth to make intercession for us. Because He lives we shall live also

So again, we have come to a date on the calendar. The sun has again swung northward, spring is at hand, and it is Easter again. Easter gets its name from Eastre, a pagan goddess of light or spring. It gets its power form a risen and reigning Lord.

Neither the believer nor the modern pagan is very much concerned with the ancient character of well night forgotten mythology. Both are interested in Easter, however, though for different reasons. One may be interested in the implications for the cash register, for the new outfit and holidays and Lent-endings. Like children with bunny rabbits and Easter eggs, those with true insight see the hope of life eternal, of resurrection from the dead, of the triumph of the Lord of life over our chief antagonist, death.

As it is Easter again there will be a diversity of attitudes and of acceptance of that which we observe but it is well know that Christians are enjoined by Holy words to keep themselves unspotted from the world. And it is Easter again it is good for those who believe to know that they must be different from and better and finer than those who do not share their hope in Christ and that they shall live with them in love. The Christian is to pray and is to witness with the living purpose that all men may know, love and serve the Risen Lord.

Easter is more than a date on the calendar. It is an experience of faith in Jesus Christ as one's living Lord, Jesus came from the tomb on the first day of the week. We ,therefore, call it the Lord's day and in a sense every Sunday is a reminder of the resurrection.

Belivers will say that Easter is not merely here again, it is forever. We acknowledge that every calendar mark anno Domini is history's testimony that faith derived from knowledge and confirmed by experience is God's unspeakable gift to man.

It is Easter again. Look at it again. We may see it differently and with truer insight than ever before and how you receive this Easter, which has come again depends upon your faith for - "According to your faith so be unto you."

Lower Quality Eggs Are Good For Easter Sunday

When tots arise Sunday morning to hunt Easter eggs, they won't be concerned with the quality inside the gaily decorated shells.

This fact, homemaker can save yo usome money.

While lower grade eggs carry about the same nutritive value, they lack the delicate flavor of AA and A grade eggs. And since shell appearance is what counts when selecting eggs to color and decorate ,the lower grades will do as well and cost less, points out Dorothy Overbey, consumer education specialist with the API Extension Service.

"Because white shells dye in clear bright colors, white-shelled Miss Overbey. "This sometimes eggs are generally in heavy demand the week before Easter," said pushes up the price. On the other hand, many markets offer specials on eggs for coloring. Brown or speckled shells don't take color in quite the same way as do white shells, but you can get unusual color effects with them. And they are often a good buy for special decorating.

"If the hunter wants to eat his prize, a statement proclaiming that the coloring is harmless may be found on the package containing Easter egg dyes," assured the specialist. "Though they are hardcooked, it's best to eat eggs within a day or so after cooking. Keep them under refrigeration meantime."

Buy eggs that have been kept cool whenever possible. Then hurry them home to the refrigerator, storing with the large ends up in a covered container.

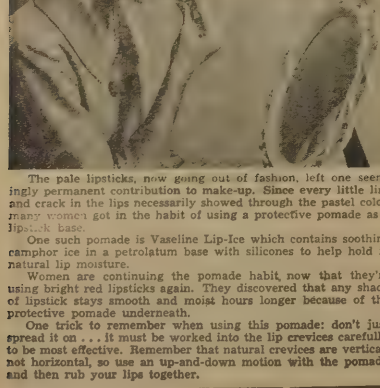
Lip Pomade Keeps Moist Look



The pale lipsticks, now going out of fashion, left one seemingly permanent contribution to make-up. Since every little line and crack in the lips necessarily showed through the pastel color, many women got in the habit of using a protective pomade as a lipstick base.

One such pomade is Vaseline Lip-Ice which contains soothing camphor ice in a petrolatum base with silicones to help hold in natural lip moisture.

Women are continuing the pomade habit, now that they're using bright red lipsticks again. They discovered that any shade of lipstick stays smooth and moist hours longer because of the protective pomade underneath.

One trick to remember when using this pomade: don't just spread it on . . . It must be worked into the lip crevices carefully to be most effective. Remember that natural crevices are vertical, not horizontal, so use an up-and-down motion with the pomade and then rub your lips together.

A BUILDER With a Head for Business

(THE FOLLOWING WAS TAKEN FROM A SERIES OF ARTICLES "BUILDERS OF CLANTON" PUBLISHED IN CHILTON COUNTY NEWS, 1950!)

"Some ten years ago a small boy hung around the back of what is now Moatts Market and Grocery hauling groceries passed out by the welfare department to needy families, at a dime a haul. He had a little wagon and was a very little boy for his age too, but he had a very large ambition and that was to be a merchant and businessman of Clanton.

Today, a little more than ten years later, Lewis (Pig) Headley owns his own store, his home, his mother's home which he bought for her, and several lots in his hometown.

Initiative and the will to make something of himself is all that little "pig" Headley had when he started hauling groceries at the age of fourteen. Since that time like most boys he got a newspaper route and sold the Birmingham News for Mr. E. R. McBee, who was agent here at that time. Soon "Pig" decided that the money wasn't coming in fast enough, so he had several jobs at one time, plus going to school. He was delivering The Birmingham News, delivering groceries at Piggly Wiggly, taking special Delivery letters for the Post Office, and had just rented a small frame, one-room building out the Maplesville Highway and started him a store. He called it "Pig's Place," and says the oil company let him have some oil and gas on credit and he had a few cans of sardines and a few boxes of crackers.

He ran his small store into a good business and by the time he graduated he was still "throwing papers", but he owned his little store, had paid cash for a motor scooter for deliveries, and had saved enough to buy two lots in a residential section of Clanton.

That was the momentous year of 1942. He turned his store over to his mother and joined the U. S. Marines.

After three years service, eighteen months in the South Pacific, he returned home. With money he had sent home during the war plus the sale of the little business he started in 1940, his mother had bought a better business in West End and also had bought some valuable property along on Second Avenue.

For a hustler like "Pig" Headley, with a bank account he had saved, a business to run, there was only one way to go----- and that was forward. When articles that were hard to get after the war couldn't be found anywhere else "Pig" got them. He would make trips to Montgomery and load his car down with mayonnaise, bananas, etc., that was practically impossible to get, and bring them to his store for his customers. The same customers remember that now and trade at "Pigs" Super Market.

Today "Pig's" Super Market is a brand new modern brick store with a parking lot next door, owned and operated by him for his customers.

The store fixtures are new and modern and his boast is that his retail business is as good if not better than any independent store in the county. A rolling store is also operated daily throughout the County. Allthis in ten short years with only his ambition to get ahead, to help him.

Lewis W. "Pig Headley married Miss Dot Wesson Patterson of Clanton after returning from service and they have two children.

His story is a perfect example of what can be accomplished in America, if one has the ambition and courage to "do something" or "Be Somebody".

Good News For Alabama's Hospital Bldg. Program

Things are now looking much better for the State's Hill-Burton hospital building program, Gov. James E. Folsom was informed this week.

The Governor ha dshown concern over President Eisenhower's proposed $50 million slash in the Federal Budget some time ago, which would have cut Alabama's funds for hospital construction almost in half.

State Health Officer, Dr. D. G. Gill, reported, however, that "about 10 days ago" he had received notice that the President had revised his budget recommendations "to restore hospital building funds to the same as that appropriated for this year."

Dr. Gill said that currently Alabama's share of this program is approximately, $3,300,000 for general hospital construction plus about $500,000 per year for nursing chnics, etc. The President's original and now abandoned budget proposal, would have "cut this sum to about $1,700,00 for general hospital construction."

The State Health Officer had a further note of encouragement in his report. He said "I have heard strong suggestions that Congress will possibly go ahead and restore the full $50 million cut, so that we may be able to assume we shall not get less than this year's $3,800,000 for hospitals, and may even receive additional funds."

Farm Housing Loan Expansion

An expanded farm housing loan program designed to speed up farm building construction and improvement as well as act as an additional anti-recession measure was announced today by Isaac C. Byrd, Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor.

Now an owner of a farm in agricultural production and of which the operator plans to produce at least $400 worth of farm commodities for sale or home use may qualify for the 4-per cent long-term housing loan provided that he meets other standard eligibility requirements.

Formerly, an eligible applicant had to own a farm that produced a more substantial part of the operator's annual cash income.

Borrowers may use loan funds to build, improve, or repair farm houses or other essential farm buildings, and to provide water for farmstead and household use. Mr. Byrd said that in addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help meet many other needs for farm and farm home modernization such as adding bathrooms, utility rooms, better kitchens, and many other improvements to the home as well as to farm service buildings. While tenants and farm laborers are not eligible, the owner may borrow to do construction work or make improvements for them.

The loans are made to farm owners who need credit to finance building improvements or repairs, but find that adequate credit is not available through banks or other regular credit channels. The interest amortized over periods up to 33 rate is 4 per cent and loans may be years.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

NEVER before, we believe, have the candidates in any election campaign conducted themselves more gentlemenly than they have in this campaign. There has been no back-biting or gossip to speak of going the rounds as is the usual case. It seems that each candidate is doing his dead level best to cause no friction among any of the candidates or in any race. We think the calabre of candidates we have in the campaign this election year is "tops" and we hope things stay serene and each runs on his own merits.

J. E. Easterling came out Monday morning in his summer clothes and his perforated shoes, as did many of the local gentry. But J E. seems to think he had one up on the rest of us. He says that his shoes aren't only perforated on the top -- the bottoms are perforated too.

THE old lady who had just reached her hundredth birthday was being interviewed by a reporter. "You must have seen a lot in your lifetime," said the reporter. "Well, I don't know", returned the old lady, "it seems that everytime anything was happening, by the time I found my glasses, it had done happened."

THE Science Club at Chilton County High School will hold a Science Fair on Thursday and Friday of this week. The students have been working hard on their individual displays and it promises to be of much interest. Take time ti run down and see what the kids are doing.

THE preacher met little Bobby in town one day. "I'm so pleased that your are going to Sunday School, Bobby," he said. "What do you expect to learn next Sunday?" Bobby answered brightly: "The date set for the picnic."

THE Mamas and the Papas are going to play Volleyball next Tuesday morning at the high school. It's all for the benefit of the Parent-Teachers Association and there will be fun galore. The papas are going to play the lady teachers and the mamas are going to play the men teachers. Boy oh boy, ain't there going to be some sore muscles and sore heads when the ball stops bouncing.

THE 4-H Club of the County have an exhibit at the National Guard Armory next Saturday. You'll get a line on what the 4-H Club stands for, as well as what they are doing if you care to take a few minutes and run out.

THE man had just completed a long prison term and on the great day when the gates opened and the whole world lay before him, his joy knew no bounds. "I'm free," he shouted, "I'm free." "That's nothing to shout about," said a little girl playing near by. "I'm four."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means to thank everyone who was so very kind over the years, especially the past several weeks to our mother, Mrs. Lee Gore. We want to thank Dr. Everett for all his patience and kindness, and others too numerous to mention, who carried food, flowers and other comforts to her during her long illness and death.

May God bless all who helped in anyway. — The Lee Gore Family.

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr and Mrs Hugh Frank Thompson was celebrated by a tea in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Mims in Birmingham, Sunday, March 31st. The guest list for this happy occasion included all members of the Goodgame and Thompson families, and during the afternoon around 150 called to express their good wishes.

Throughout the house were arrangements of lovely flowers all in tones of gold. Yellow and yellow. The tea table was covered with an ecru lace cloth over gold taffeta and floral center was a three tiered white cake encased in gold roses, lilies-of-the-valley and bells and topped by a bronze 50. Those serving at the tea and punch tables were Mrs. L. O. Zimmerman, Mrs. John Turner Garrett of Birmingham, Mrs. H. V. Robinson of Thorsby and Mrs. G. W. LIONS TO AGAIN SELL LIGHT BULB PACKS

Friday, April 11 has been named the date for the Lions Club Electric Light Bulb Sale according to Dr. Thomas Harvey, president of the Club.

The Electric Light Bulbs will be sold in a shopping bag canvass and will be packed six to the pack in three assorted size. Selling price will be $1.30, which is lightly below the regular retail price of the bulbs.

The group, at it's last business meeting chose to raise funds by selling bulbs. The group felt that this plan will give the public the greatest amount of value for their donations.

The sale of electric bulbs has been carried on in various ways with success by many organizations as a and raising media. Money raised from the campaign will be used for assisting needy persons whose eyes need attention, or who are in need of glasses.

IT'S ONE OF THOSE THINGS ! !

THE NEWS is short this week, but you readers will have to bear with us. The law only gives us until April 15, to publish a list of qualified voters and this is the last issue before that date in which they could appear and stay within the requirements of the law.

DUE TO the time element involved, it took all hands and night and day to make the deadline and we hope you can understand.

IT WAS humanly impossible to set 93 columns of names for the voters list and also carry the local correspondence that we usually consider a must.

WE WILL try to make it up next week by giving you twice as much news as ever before. However, they say that names make news, and if that's so, there's news aplenty in this issue. -- THE EDITOR.

Decision Reached on Site for Clanton Community Center

The Clanton Community Center Committee held their monthly meeting at the City Park, at noon on Monday, April 7th, for the purpose of deciding a definite location for the Community Center Building

The Committee decided the most logical place for the building would be on the Northern Side of the Park Grounds, parallel to the Tennis Courts.

The City Council had already assured the Committee that the property was to be cleared and filled in with the dirt from the garbage disposal plant and a proposed street opened on the North side of the City Park, making it possible for the necessary traffic to the disposal plant and also make the City Park property usable.

This will give plenty room for parking, and the problem of having the Community Center away from a busy street or highway will be solved. The safety of the children of the community is most important.

The location for this community Center biulding has been staked off.

The question now is, how much will each citizen do to help the committee make it a reality?

BURTON MULLINS

(Pd. Pol. Adv. by Burton Mullins, Clanton, Ala.)

Dear Voters

NO DOUBT, YOU REALIZE THAT THE SAFETY, BEHAVIOR AND THE GOOD NAME OF OUR COUNTY, FOR THE NEXT FOUR YEARS REST SOLELY ON YOUR SHOULDERS IN THE COMING ELECTION.

Why Take A Chance?

Look at the record and you can Judge the future by the past. I will not betray your confidence.

My record as Sheriff for four years shows that I answered all calls promptly and courteously.

I was the first Sheriff to keep the Sheriff's Office open during business hours.

I was the first Sheriff to bring Police Radio to Chilton County.

I was the first Sheriff to bring a Police Training School to Chilton County to better train all Officers of this Area

I was the first Sheriff to set up a Modern Filing System in the Office to better serve you.

Elect J. Luther Kendrick, Sheriff of Chilton County.

As a State Highway Patrolman, for over nine years, I served the people Hoporably. As a combat soldier in Europe during World War II, I served America Honorably. As Sheriff of Chilton County from 1951 to 1955, I served you Honorably. If elected, I will again serve you Honorably. Chilton County needs a worker that knows how and will do the job fairly, impartially, and inergetically. I will be obligated only to the Citizens of Chilton County, not to any Politician, Individual or Clique.

The following is a copy of the Grand Jury Report of January, 1954, after I had been Sheriff for three years.

"THE GRAND JURY WISHES TO ES PECIALLY COMMEND SHERIFF

J. L. KENDRICK

And His Deputies for the able and efficient manner in which They are discharging Their Official Duties. The Grand Jury observed that all Criminal Investigating Agencies of our State and Federal Government work in complete Harmony with Sheriff Kendrick, which We believe could not be possible unless our Sheriff was Endeavoring to Intelligently and Dilligently Enforce the Law. We observed with a degree of pride that we were not called upon to Investigate a Murder Case. The Grand Jury feels that the good people of our County should continue to give our Sheriff and His Deputies Their Cooperation and lend their Aid in Everyway possible to try to make Our County A Better Place In Which To Live And Rear Our Children."

Keep Chilton County a good place to visit, and a better place to Live by electing J. Luther Kendrick Sheriff of Chilton County. Your vote and support will be appreciated.

MOTOR MAIDS

Aerial Police Unsnarl Traffic

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

THE CARELESS MOTORIST who ran out of gas on the Los Angeles freeway system used to cause hours-long delays for thousands of motorists. Now, the problem can usually be handled in minutes because the Los Angeles police have taken to the air.

Miss Smith

Until recently, the police had difficulty locating the source of the problem. Now, the Helicopter Unit of the Los Angeles Police Department is always on the alert. Like a good natured big brother, the 'whirlybirds' seem to look over your shoulder as you drive.

Operating Monday through Friday during the peak morning and evening rush hours, the planes provide a three-to-five-mile view of traffic in either direction. As soon as trouble develops, the ground forces are contacted by radio and rush to the scene.

"Statistics indicate that both our population and our traffic problems will continue to increase," said Capt. C. E. Wolfrum, "and our experience over the last two years indicates clearly that the helicopter is the most modern and effective tool for traffic control."

In addition, the Helicopter Unit has also helped police by reporting fires, locating stolen cars, reported aircraft violations and reduced speeding just by casting the whirlybird shadow over the motorists below.

So, when you visit L. A. drive at your safety-best. It's safer, and cheaper too.

HORSLEY WHITE WRITES VOTERS

To carry on the work in the Office of Circuit Clerk properly it is necessary that I be there on the Job. I am seeing as many of you as I possibly can, but I find that I may be unable to see and talk to each of you as I have so wanted to do.

Your words and messages of encouragement are really appreciated. It warms my heart when so many of you come or send me assurances of your support and vote. I will see just as many of you as time will permit, but to any of you that I may miss and also to you who have come to make your home in our Chilton County during the past term, I herewith earnestly solicit your vote and influence and support. I assure you I will be appreciative at anything you can do for me in my campaign for re-election. During my term, I have worked tirelessly to make you a good Circuit Clerk and to perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability—many times working at night when necessary to serve your needs. If I can be of service to you do come in to see me.

Please take this into consideration when you vote in the Primary on May 6, 1958 and be assured that I will always put the business of the office first.

I humbly solicit your vote on May 6, 1958. — Sincerely, Horsley White, Candidate for Circuit Clerk.

Telephone Talk

By
IRVIN COMMANDER
Your Telephone Manager

We were discussing some of the advantages of a kitchen telephone last month. Now let's picture the comfort and enjoyment of a BEDROOM telephone. I know most of us don't like to get up out of bed to go stumbling through the house to answer that late - or early morning call --- but with a Bedroom telephone, you can just reach out and answer the telephone from the bed. Or when ill and in the house alone a bedside telephone can mean so much to you. Probably many of you ladies do your sewing in the bedroom, and with a Bedroom telephone at your finger tips you can continue your work and still enjoy that friendly chat. We don't like to think of unpleasant things, but in case of fire or burglar scare at night, police and fire protection would be right at your bedside. In addition to other reasons I've given that extra Bedroom telephone does give you a place that you can talk freely and undisturbed. So why not place your order today for that extra Bedroom telephone ---- just call Mrs. Parson or Mrs. McGee at our Business Office

"Incidentally, you may not be aware that 10 per cent Federal excise tax is added to your local service charges and an additional 10 per cent on your long distance bill. The excise tax is generally confined to luxury items, such as furs, liquors, tobacco, jewelry, entertainment, etc. There is no excise tax on such other necessities as electricity, gas, water, or local transportation. Yet the telephone carries the same 10 per cent "supercharge" as the various luxury goods.

"Like so many taxes, it began during an emergency and stayed with us after the emergency had ended. The excise tax on local service began in 1941, two months before Pearl Harbor, as a 6 per cent tax and boosted to 10 per cent a year later. Durng the Korean War it was raised again, to 15 per cent. It was cut back to 10 per cent in 1954 and remains there today. At the same time it was cut back, the excise tax on long distance service was cut back to 10 per cent from a high of 25 per cent.

"It should be remembered that none of this tax is used in any way to improve either your local or long distance service. It is a tax to raise additional revenue, and is not intended to benefit the subscriber or customer, so far as giving him better or faster communication service."

ANSWERS TO SAFETY QUIZ

1. Avoid jerking the wheel in the opposite direction or slamming on the brakes while your wheels are turned. If you must apply brakes, straighten your wheels before braking. Then let up on the brakes and turn the steering wheel to keep on the road.

2. Unless there are other cars or objects directly in your path, don't touch the brakes. Tap the accelerator to regain control. Ease your way to regain control & to grip the steering wheel tightly and let the engine slow you down. If it's a rear tire that blows, steer to keep it straight—but be careful not to oversteer.

3. Switch to your low beams, spot lights, fog lights or parking lights. If you have no lights at all, hold the wheel steadily, slow down and stop. To avoid such emergencies, have your car's wiring system checked frequently.

4. Continue straight ahead and maintain control and let the car roll evenly until stopped.

5. Try to peer under the hood or lean out the window to see ahead until you can steer safely off the road.

A BUILDER With a Head for Business

(THE FOLLOWING WAS TAKEN FROM A SERIES OF ARTICLES "BUILDERS OF CLANTON" PUBLISHED IN CHILTON COUNTY NEWS, 1950!)

"Some ten years ago a small boy hung around the back of what is now Moatts Market and Grocery hauling groceries passed out by the welfare department to needy families, at a dime a haul. He had a little wagon and was a very little boy for his age too, but he had a very large ambition and that was to be a merchant and businessman of Clanton.

In 1950, a little more than ten years later, Lewis (Pig) Headley owns his own store, his home, his mother's home which he bought for her, and several lots in his hometown.

Initiative and the will to make something of himself is all that little "pig" Headley had when he started hauling groceries at the age of fourteen. Since that time like most boys he got a newspaper route and sold the Birmingham News for Mr. E. R. McGee, who was agent here at that time. Soon "Pig" decided that the money wasn't coming in fast enough, so he had several jobs at one time, plus going to school. He was delivering The Birmingham News, delivering groceries at Piggly Wiggly, taking special Delivery letters for the Post Office, and had just rented a small frame, one-room building out the Maplesville Highway and started him a store. He called it "Pig's Place," and says the oil company let him have some oil and gas on credit and he had a few cans of sardines and a few boxes of crackers.

He ran his small store into a good business and by the time he graduated he was still "throwing papers", but he owned his little store, had paid cash for a motor scooter for deliveries, and had saved enough to buy two lots in a residential section of Clanton.

That was the momentous year of 1942. He turned his store over to his mother and joined the U. S. Marines.

After three years service, eighteen months in the South Pacific, he returned home. With money he had sent home during the war plus the sale of the little business he started in 1940, his mother had bought a better business in West End and also had bought some valuable property along on Second Avenue.

For a hustler like "Pig" Headley, with a bank account he had saved, a business to run, there was only one way to go------ and that was forward. When articles that were hard to get after the war couldn't be found anywhere else "Pig" got them. He would make trips to Montgomery and load his car down with mayonnaise, bananas, etc., that was practically impossible to get, and bring them to his store for his customers. The same customers remember that now and trade at "Pigs" Super Market.

Today "Pig's" Super Market is a brand new modern brick store with a parking lot next door, owned and operated by him for his customers.

The store fixtures are new and modern and his boast is that his retail business is as good if not better than any independent store in the county. A rolling store is also operated daily throughout the County. Allthis in ten short years with only his ambition to get ahead, to help him.

Lewis W. "Pig Headley married Miss Dot Wesson Patterson of Clanton after returning from service and they have two children.

His story is a perfect example of what can be accomplished in America, if one has the ambition and courage to "do something" or "Be Somebody".

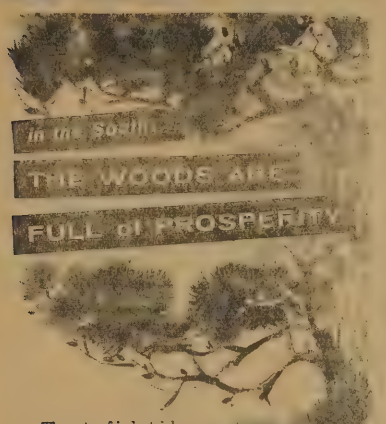
(Pd. Pol. Adv. By B. L. Adams, Clanton, Alabama.)



The rate of industrial growth in the South during the past 20 years has led the nation. The pulp and paper industry is a leader in this Southern progress.

Sixty-three primary pulp and paper mills are located in Dixie. They employ over 77,000 persons in the woods, mills and offices. Another 31,000 harvest pulpwood.

The pulp and paper industry annually contributes over one billion dollars to the South's economy at the rate of three million dollars a day. It also is giving new impetus to the region's agriculture because pulpwood has become a vitally important new cash crop to Southern farmers.

Farmers and other landowners are assured an expanding market for their trees since paper consumption is growing by leaps and bounds each year. It is predicted that 50 to 60 percent more pulpwood will be needed by 1967.

Growing trees—like growing any other crop—requires sound management. Forests that are cut properly go on producing trees generation after generation. Forests that are now non-productive can be converted into more money making areas.

PULP AND PAPER DAY—April 15

Pulp and Paper Day will be celebrated throughout the South on April 15. This event will focus public attention on the economic importance to the region of the pulp and paper industry, its role in the South's modern agricultural development . . . and the tremendous economic opportunities more productive forests offer in the years ahead.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

IT HAPPENED TO AN EPILEPTIC

One evening the Lord and his disciples took a little trip on the Sea of Galilee. A sudden storm swept down upon them. Soon the timbers of the boat were popping and the disciples were wild with fear. They rushed to where Jesus was asleep and awoke him. When he arose, he commanded the winds and waters, saying, "Peace, be still!" And the storm ceased.

People today still call upon him for help in the storms of their lives. And they find that he still has power to speak peace.

Vep E., a minister, had "come to the end of his row." He said: "About eleven years ago I was sitting alone in my church, playing the organ. At that time I was assistant pastor of that church and director of the morning broadcast. I had been working rather hard at my job. Perhaps the pressure of my work was largely responsible for what happened that day.

"As I sat at the console of the organ, suddenly I was almost overcome with a great weakness in my body. My strength seemingly oozed out of me and I began to tremble from head to foot. I had an overwhelming urge to weep. I staggered out of the church, got in my car and managed to get home. These symptoms didn't leave me; in fact, they grew worse. A severe pain stabbed at the base of my skull, and I experienced an uncontrollable twitching and jerking in my body.

"The doctor's diagnosis was the thing I dreaded most to hear. I had incipient epilepsy complicated by sugar diabetes.

"In the days that followed, I suffered untold agony. There was the agony of shame, of bodily affliction and of trying to hide the disease from other people. When the attacks began to come on me, I would quickly excuse myself from those around me and rush to a rest room, a garage or any hiding place. There I would stay until the fury of the attack had spent itself.

"After suffering for 5½ years with these afflictions, I became so discouraged that one night I came home and said to my wife, 'Honey, I am at the end of my row. I will have to give up my ministry.'

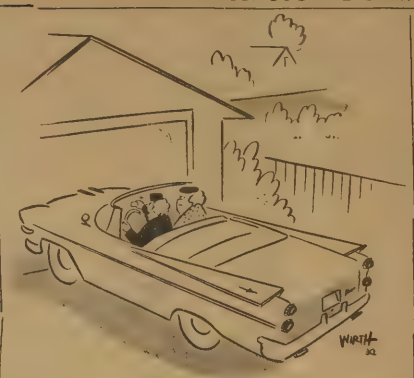
"In great desperation, I asked God to help me. I asked others to help me pray.

"One night, while a minister friend was praying for me, I looked up and said, 'Oh, God! Here goes everything! If you don't help me, I'm finished.'

"Then, in that moment of utter desperation—my faith reached out! Suddenly, a heavy load was lifted, and the pain and weariness were gone.

"It has been 5½ years since I prayed that prayer. There has never been a single symptom of the old trouble.

"My ministry has increased. I am busier than I have ever been in my life. God spoke a 'peace, be still' in my troubled life. I am completely healed."



"Henry always fixes this rear mirror so all you can see is the car behind."

Should You Be A Nurse?

Few professions offer a young girl as much security, choice of location, community standing and personal satisfaction as does nursing. Yet few others demand the same high qualities.

What qualities and abilities does a girl need to be a professional nurse? According to the National League for Nursing, she must have the desire to care for others, to be of service to humankind. She must be the type of person who can give sympathy and understanding.

She must acquire a thorough knowledge of scientific principles and learn to apply these principles in the nursing care of patients.

She must have a mature, well-adjusted personality, essential for establishing good relationships with patients, the doctor and other nurses.

She must be sound physically, for while nurses have been relieved of much of the manual labor of earlier times, nursing is still strenuous.

Will nursing schools take married girls? More and more schools of nursing accept married students, and allow those who marry during their course to finish. Many, however, still adhere to the traditional requirement that a nursing student be single. Others permit marriage in the final year, while others simply judge each case individually. Marriage is one of the leading causes of withdrawals from nursing school. Before you decide on a particular school you should inquire about its attitude toward marriage for student nurses.

The time to decide on nursing as a career is while you are still in high school, so that an academic program giving the required courses for admission to a nursing school can be planned. All professional nursing schools require a high school diploma for admission, and the usual age requirements are between 17 and 35 years.

If you do not qualify for a school of professional nursing, and you still have a strong desire to be a nurse, you should consider one of the schools of Practical nursing. Preparation for Practical nursing is shorter and less expensive. Because of the heavy demand, Practical nurses can also be assured of employment in a variety of fields.

Practical nurses are specially trained to care for patients who are not acutely ill, such as mothers and new babies, convalescents, the aged and infirm and patients with chronic or handicapping conditions. Just as the Registered nurse, the Practical nurse may work in hospitals, public health agencies, clinics, doctor's offices, nursing homes, institutions, among others, and in almost any part of the world.

Regardless of whether you study to be a Registered nurse or a Practical nurse, you will have the opportunity to serve your community with skill and understanding, gentleness and good judgment. You will gain security, personal gratification and an exciting new world.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

There was a fellow who was fretting because he wasn't getting as much salary as he thought he was worth so he went directly to the boss and asked him for a raise. The boss answered: "Now look here! You can't come in here and ask for a raise like this. You have to work yourself up." "I did work myself up," the employe answered. "I'm trembling all over."

Glad to learn that our friend Lester Carter is improving after a heart attack last week. He is at Chilton County Hospital and according to those who should know is having too much company. It isn't that company isn't appreciated by the sick, but in Lester's case it seems one can't be too careful. We're sure the family appreciates all the well-wishes etc., but let's corporate in getting Lester back on his feet then show our friendship and appreciation.

Deputy Sheriff D J. Cook is in a Selma Hospital where he underwent an operation on Tuesday of this week. Several friends went over Tuesday night to see how he was progressing, but could not report as to his condition. Hope he is up and about again soon.

The A. A. U. W. is sponsoring an Art Exhibit at the Chilton County High School Gymnasium next Saturday and Sunday. The exhibit will be open each of the two days from 1 until 5 o'clock. The public is urged to support the A. A. U. W. in this worthwhile undertaking.

Next Tuesday will be another big day at the Chilton County High School gymnasium when the Junior Class presents a Talent Contest. Three big prizes will be awarded to the winners and according to Minnie Wade there will be plenty of entertainment. Those wishing to enter the contest can call Minnie Wade or Billy Smith.

Saw where a judge in Montgomery fined a man for wearing women's clothes. It's a good thing ladies can't be fined for wearing men's clothes.

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE ELECTION.

"Penalty for failure of election officers. -- Any officers who, without lawful excuse, neglects, fails, or refuses to perform any official duty prescribed by this chapter, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor unless otherwise provided, and, on conviction, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars." Title 17, Sec. 314.

"Penalty of Manager or Clerk failing to attend election. -- Any manager or clerk appointed such by the appointing board who shall fail to attend an election without a lawful excuse shall, on conviction, be fined not more than one-hundred dollars." Title 17, Sec. 327.

About Candidates filing expenses of campaigns the Code says that a candidate must file statements itimized not more than fifiteen days before the election or less than ten days before the election. This would make next Monday a good time for you candidates to get your statements of expenses filed so there will be no mix-up. Remember that such statement requires the names of all contributors in amounts in excess of ten dollars. This statement must be sworn by a Notary Public.

Lee Gore and Herman Vinson recently left their Gulf Station here and opened a new station at Forest Hills in Montgomery. When the station was finally finished and opened guess who bought the first gallon of gasoline. Luke Blanton of course. Confidentially we like Lee and Herman a lot, but we doubt seriously if we would go that far for a gallon of gasoline.

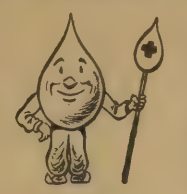
HELP!»

County Blood Program Faces Grim Reaper



Mrs. Maye P. Esco, Volunteer Chairman for the Chilton County Blood Program, wishes to thank each and every one who assisted in any way at the local Blood Center on Tuesday April 1st. We appreciate donations also that were given by Mr. Roy Traywick of the Coco Cola Company and sweet milk donated by Mrs. Ellen Brinker.

We regret to announce Chilton County fell very short this time on blood donations - as we only collected 11 pints of blood. We should do better in a large County our size.

We wish to also thank Rev. Griffin Lloyd for the use of the Methodist Church for the second time in a row. Miss Helen Parrish, Secretary of the church, is always very helpful.

We would like to also thank the County papers and our fine Radio station for announcing regarding our blood collection in advance

County Medical Society Endorses Blood Program

WHEREAS Chilton County is faced with the probability of losing the Red Cross Blood Program because of the complacency of the people toward the vital needs of Red Cross,

WHEREAS the goal of $5,000 to carry out the entire program of Red Cross is very small compared with the beneiits derived therefrom, and

WHEREAS this complacency has caused us to accept the attitude that the Blood Program is here and that it will continue whether or note we lend our efforts in every way to see that the entire program is continued.

NOW, THEREFORE, we the Chilton County Medical Society urge the people of Chilton County to realize the true need of the Blood Program and its benefits to the sick and needy at a time when money or time, or efforts, are not counted.

The Chilton County Medical Society goes on record as heartily endorsing the Red Cross Blood Program and with full knowledge that the citizens are repaid tenfold for their efforts in life-saving blood, with many other benefits too numerous to mention.

Within the past twelve months 2-8 pints of Red Cross Blood has been used at the Chilton County Hospital. Should we lose our Red Cross Program the same amount of blood would cost the citizens of this county $9,536.00 if bought through commercial blood banks, approximately twice our entire Red Cross quota which is only $5,000.00.

Again, we, the members of the Chilton County Medical Society, urge that every citizen and businessman in Chilton County, get behind this program that more lives may be saved and the County reap the many benefits offered through the Red Cross Blood Program. — Chilton County Medical Society. By Dr. Joe H. Johnson.

THE man who agrees with everything you say may not be a thinker, but he at least gets credit for having good judgement.

IF you wish to reach the top of the ladder you have to put your best foot upward as well as forward.

THE avearge man takes things as they come -- but it's better to let some of them pass.

If a man can afford to sit and wait for a golden opportunity to come along he doesn't need it.

SMILES or frowns may be little things, but they are a powerful force for good or evil.

THE man who knows and will admit his imperfections is just about as perfect as it is possible for anyone in this world to be.

WE all have a great future ahead of us, but too many of us let it stay there.

ONE man is ruined by his enemies where hundreds are ruined by thier friends.

SPRING CARPENTERS --

Had a very enjoyable week last week watching two contractors construct a home near us. It was a wonderful piece of work they did too.

One thing that amused us and angered the wife terribly was that the wife did all the work while "papa" sat in the front yard-of all t hings eating bugs & worms

Well, you see it was two red birds and they have built a very nice little one-room apartment right in front of our kitchen window. The home is finished and only awaits the arrival of the little ones to make it complete.

Of course, the story is as old as life itself. But it is also very interesting and very new. It is new with each new spring and mating season and it is true in every "kind", whether it be animal, fowl, or fish. It's is all God's plan.

KEEP REASONABLY COOL

As Tennyson so truly wrote: "In the Spring a young man's fancy lighly turns to thoughts of love"... and cars boil over, too.

And since it's pretty difficult to pursue a romance nowadays without a car, our advice to the young man is to keep his fancy under control and his thought on his cooling system. At least it should be the object of his affection until he has drained last winter's tired antifreeze, thoroughly flushed out the raditor, engine water jackets and hoses - and after he's sure the system is clean and unclogged and the hose connections are tight, has refilled it with fresh water and fresh inhibitor. It will then be time to harke n the meadow lark, consider the moon from its less scientific aspects and give a care to lipstick on his handerchief.

As for the ladies (of all ages) and the older men, we shall offer no advice. We are not sure the gentler sex cares for it. They prefer, year in and year out, to spend $50 million each summer replacing 700,000 neglected radiators - and still more money trying to boil them out, which sometimes works, but always costs $15 or $20. We might mention, however, that this much money would buy an awful lot of soda pop and roller coaster rides and bath houses and boating and hot dogs and gasoline and lodging.

Besides, we are all for romance. We think it is most important for youth to know that love can be permanent - but anti-freeze can't. "Permanent" anti-freeze is a misnomer. There's no such thing.. It should be called "All Winter" anti-freeze.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

After a ten-day Easter recess, Congress this week is continuing a session which may prove to be one of the busiest in recent years.

Prior to the Easter resess, which marks the traditional half-way point of the session, a number of important bills received congressional approval. Only one of twelve regular appropriation, measures for fiscal year 1959 has become law, but five others have passed the House of Representatives and are now pendiny on Senate. In addition to the regular appropriation bills, three supplemental measures have been approved by Congress and signed by the President. These include supplemental funds for various government agences, including the Department of Defense, for the present fiscal year.

BILLS ENACTED

In addition to the so-called money measures, Congress prior to the Easter races passed other legislation of importance. The national debt ceiling was raised by five billion dollars. An emergency housing measure became law. A bill freezing farm price supports and acreage allotments received the approval of both the House and Senate but was vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Two other measures of importance, passed by both the House and Senate, are now awaiting Presidential action. The first of these is the Rivers and Harbors Authorization Bill which includes funds to improve the tributaries of the Tombigbee Rver. The second authorizes additional millions for the federal-state highway construction program.

WORK AHEAD

There is every indication that Congress will be extremely busy during the remaining months of the session. Further consideratiin of pay increases for postal workers, military personnel, and other federal employees is scheduled. Extension of the Trade Agreements Act -- a measure empowering the President to negotiate with other nations for mutual lowering of tariffs -- will be considered. Reorganization of the Department of Deefnse is being urged by the President, and will undoubtedly be debated before adjournment. The authorization and appropriation of funds for the mutual security program is scheduled for discussion at an early date. Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii may be up for vote again this year. The differences between postal rate increase measures passed earlier by both the House and Senate must be resolved.

In addition to the above legislation, the consideration of other measures of equal importance is being urged. Both Democrats and Republicans are watching carefully the unemployment figures. Should unemployment continue to increase, other anti-recession measures, including a tax cut, will undoubtedly be considered before the present Cingress adjourns.

AUGUST ADJOURNMENT

Since this is an election year, some members of Congress have predicted an early adjournment. In my opinion, however, it is highly unlikely that Congress will adjourn before August.

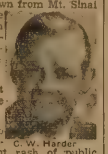
WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It has long been said around Washington bureaucrats have been able to add several unwritten amendments to the Constitution. Now the remark is they have succeeded in amending the Tablet brought down from Mt. Sinai by Moses. The new Eleventh Commandment, these observers say, is as follows.



C. W. Harder

"Thou shalt not reduce taxes."

Giving rise to this wry comment is recent rash of public utterances by national political leaders in which they recognize an economic recession, and say they are going to take every step possible to stop its further inroads. And invariably they end up with a remark to the effect that as a last resort, taxes will be cut.

Thus, the bureaucrats working behind the scenes have given rise to a new holy creed in American life. Tax rates are sacred.

This is indeed a strange philosophy at a time when unemployment rises to new 18 years highs; small business failure rates hit new records.

Yet rather than let the people spend their own money; letting small business retain a greater share of profits to expand and provide more employment, the slant is all toward building more post offices, more government spending for this and that . . . . in fact, for anything, just so long as the people are not permitted to spend their own money for the products of farm, forest and factory that would start the wheels of the economy turning over faster under free enterprise.

For example, one tax cut proposal is a 10% cut. This would release, it is estimated, some 3.7 billion dollars or less than the 3.9 billion dollars sought in new money for foreign give away.

Indeed, it now seems these bureaucrats, these so-called civil servants who are modern day Rasputins behind the scenes, have even sold idea high tax rates are more sacred than solemn promises.

For it is a matter of record that in 1956 and in 1952, both major parties in their political platforms promised to reduce taxes on small business to permit small business to expand, provide more employment, more stability to the economy.

Failure to keep these promises has undoubtedly been a big contributory factor to the present economic slow down. Yet official word on possible tax cuts is that they will only be considered "as a last resort."

Before that, they want to spend more tax money on more unnecessary government projects.

It is somewhat akin to a doctor prescribing bleeding to cure a patient from anemia.

Presumably, these bureaucrats will go to any lengths, even permitting millions of unemployed to walk streets, merely to protect their own paychecks.

Thus, if there was ever a time when strong Congressional action is needed to avert a national disaster, that hour has struck. In fact, there is a great deal of evidence that unless Congress takes over its lawful leadership firmly and quickly it may find itself in position of French Chamber of Deputies . . . . scorned at home, ridiculed abroad, with the bureaucrats and the monopolists running the whole show.

Our Trip To Mound State Park

Ever since the Better Speech Club studied prehistoric findings in Western Americas, our interest in seeing the unearthings in Mound State Park has been very keen. Last Friday this interest was climaxed in a wonderful realization when several of our mothers came up in cars to assist us in making the trip.

Upon arrival at the imposing monument we were met by Mrs. Summers, an assistant in charge. In a few minutes we were called to North Pit, where we were entertained with slueae snowing the activities and customs of the mound builders. Later we were allowed to gaze into the pits and learn more of the habits, beliefs, life-span, and practices of these ancient people.

Later, as we were browsing through the museum, we heard someone call for the Better Speech Club. Mr. De Jarnette, an instructor at the University, had come down to give us further assistance. We greatly appreciated his thoughtfulness and care. As he talked to us of these ancients, we were quiet impressed with their quiet peaceful way of life, their industrious nature, and their interest in life hereafter.

Our good lunches were enjoyed down at the picnic arear on the banks of the Black Warrior River. Every desirable convenience is furnished, and, to add to our supreme happiness, a huge tugboat chugged down the river right beside us.

After lunch we had a merry race up great Mound B. This huge mound cover about two acres and is fifty-eight and one-half ft. high. Dan Brock won in the race for the top.

Leaving the huge mound we drove up to Alabama's Museum of Natural History on the University Campus. In this museum we saw incredible displays of stone formations, remarkable life-like stuffed animals, and rich natural resources.

We were a happy and appreciative group as we hurried home from a wonderful trip and a day well spent. — The Better Speech Club.

OUR TRIP

We were on our way to Mound State Park
that Sunny April Day.
When at an ice-cream store we stopped
When we were about half way.
We bought ice-cream, drinks, candy and nuts
To fill our hungry desire.
Then we were on our way again
the scenes we did admire.
At last we drove into the drive,
In the pits were many bones
And a tiny little human head
And lots and lots of stones
Then to the picnic ground we went
To eat our lunches and play.
As we started off to huge Mound B
We hurried with no delay.
Up huge Mound B we ran a race,
Up to the very top
But, when we hurried down again,
Twas very hard to stop.
Off to Smith Hall we hurried along
Our hearts were full of glee
We gazed in wonder at those stones
Amazed and stunned were we.
At last we found us homeward bound
Yet we spoke our poems and sang some songs
As we hurried our homeward way.
-- Geraldine Edwards.

MY TRIP TO MOUND STATE MONUMENT AND SMITH HALL.

The Better Speech Club in studying about the ruins of temples and other things in both Americas became very anxious to go to Mound State Mounment and Smith Hall. In preparing to go we made rules, found the route we were to take, how much it would cost to go, and were assigned to cars.

At Mound State Monument we saw the burials of the Moundvillians. In the north wing we saw a four-month old baby buried with its mother and father and a fire place that the Indians had used. We also saw the pottery that these people made. The Moundvillians died very young. They were peace - loving Indians and lived here about 300 years before DeSoto came. After seeing the inside of the mounment we went outside to see a lake and mound B, before we went to the picnic area.

At the picnic area we ate our lunches and some of us bought trinkets to bring back with us. We saw a boat pushing a barge down the Black Warrior River while we were eating.

After we ate we went to Mound B. We had a race up it, and I came in about fifth. We found out that they were going to have Easter services on Mound B.

At Smith Hall we saw a meteorite that fell and hit a woman in Sylacauga, Alabama. We saw a very large crystal. There was a picture of the coal age when only plants were living, and a tree that lived 300 million years ago. There was a dinosaur's fore leg and a stuffed bear that some boys form the University had killed.

I enjoyed the trip to Moundville State Monument and Smith Hall.—Martha McCaa.

A VISIT TO MOUND STATE PARK

Ever since the Better Speech Club had studied about Indian ruins, we wanted to see some. We planned to see Indian mounds left by the Indians who lived at Moundville 450 years before DeSoto.

Along the road we would playgames or look at the scenery. We saw the Talladega National Forest and the Cahaba River.

In the mounment we saw slides which helped us learn more about the Indians. They lived to be about twenty-five years old. They were about five feet four inches tall.

We saw a lake which was made in building the mounds. It had been restored.

While we were eating lunch a large barge went by on the river. It was called the Tomahawk.

At Mound B, we raced to the top. This was hard because the mound is so high.

In the Smith Hall Museum we saw the meteorite which fell in Alabama. There were other things of interest. We drove through Bryce Hospital for mentally ill people.

I think the trip helped us get a better understanding of Alabama.—Martha Johnson.

To The Editor:

All Politicians are mixing their way to Mountain Creek; now tha. they are seeking election or re-election. All other times we are treatd as though we were in another county.

Every other community we are told by other seekers have paved roads to their churches and business houses. Mountain Creek should have these paved roads; and if elected I'll see that you do. We know that this is not true.

What we would like to know is (Should we put these strips of land called roads in the soil bank or should we plant them in cotton?) That way it wouldn't be a total loss. As they are they are of no use to anyone they[illegible] in such bad condition that it would damage the county equipmeut to work them. That is if the county has road working equipment. We never see any of it.

If you question any part of this you are invited to Mountain Creek; but don't come unlimited cows gone and one nothing or your automobile. If you do come make arrangements for a wrecker to accompany you. — T. P. Duffey.

Sunday School 9:45 A. M.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who find it convient to worship with us.

Easter morning was glorious and we all felt the elation of the day as we lifted our voices in praise to him who broke the bonds of death. Excellent attendance both at Sunday School and the service that followed was shown by the members. Truly this service had an impressive ending as four young girls came forward giving their lives to God and accepting membership in the church with baptism. We most heartily welcome Charlotte and Linda Beasley, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Beasley, and Jane and Corrie Beasley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beasley. They have been regular members of our Sunday School for some time. Thanks to their teachers who have helped much to show them the way.

Mrs. Peggy Peterson, one of our faithful members and attendants, was carried to the hospital Sunday a week ago where she underwent an operation for removal of appendix on Monday morning. She is reported to be doing fine. Our prayer are for her a speedy recovery so she may be with us again soon. We miss you, Peggy, and long for your return. We regret that you will not be able to bring those delicious cookies for our supper this Wednesday evening.

For those of your who would ike to go see her, she is in room 204, Clanton Hospital.

Outstanding Mortgage Loans In Chilton County

Mrs. Essie Mae Wall of the Mims Realty Company Clanton, Alabama, having mortgage loan connections with Liberty Nationail Life Insurance Company of Birmingham, has released some interesting figures elative to the mortgage investment n Chilton County of that Company.

According to Mrs. Wall, the Company had approximately $242,-965.00 invested in mortgages in Chilton County at the end of the year 1957.

She stated that this investment of unds was in line with the long tanding policy of Liberty National of making investments in those communities and areas from which it collects its premiums. These loans made by the Company in Chilton County were primarily for the purpose of assisting people to own their own homes and most of them were made available through the FHA loan plan.

Mrs. Wall was particularly pleased to point out the unusual record achieved by Liberty National in making mortgage funds available throughout the entire state of Alabama. The Company has loans outstanding or in process in every one of Alabama's 67 Counties and during the year 1957 this Company increased its Alabama investments by making new loans in 54 of the 67 counties. Liberty National had at the end of 1957 in excess of $51 million invested in Alabama mortgages in addition to subtantial sums outstanding in other types of investments.

Mrs. Wall is happy to advise that the policy of Liberty National of nvesting funds in Chilton County will be continued right on through he coming year. She suggested that the purpose of buying or building that any person seeking funds for a home or in connection with the financing of a centrally located commercial property should feel free to call upon her for advice and information relative to procedure.

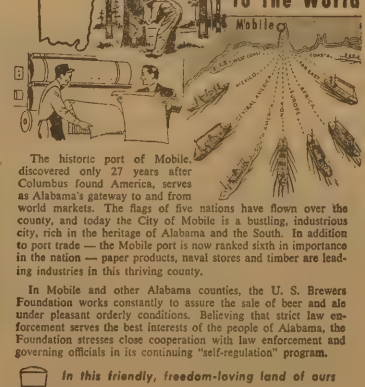
A Salute to MOBILE COUNTY Alabama's Gateway to the World



The historic port of Mobile, discovered only 27 years after Columbus found America, serves as Alabama's gateway to and from world markets. The flags of five nations have flown over the county, and today the City of Mobile is a bustling, industrious city, rich in the heritage of Alabama and the South. In addition to port trade — the Mobile port is now ranked sixth in importance in the nation — paper products, naval stores and timber are leading industries in this thriving county.

In Mobile and other Alabama counties, the U. S. Brewers Foundation works constantly to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interests of the people of Alabama, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing "self-regulation" program.

Chilton County 4-H and F. F. A. Club members are competing in the Montgomery District Fat Stock Show April 9th and 10th Additional Club members are taking animals to the Birmingham [illegible] Fat Stock Show and Sale April 23rd - 25th.

OUTSTANDING EXHIBITS PRESENTED, FAT STOCK SHOW, APRIL 8TH.

Approximately forty 4-H - F F. A. club members presented fifty-two outstanding fat beef calves in Chilton County' 1958 Fat Stock Show.

Beef show Judges, J. H. Sellers, stated that the Tuesday, April 8th, cattle show was the best county show that he had ever had an opportunity to see. Mr. Sellers has been closely connected with beef project shows in Alabama's Black Belt and other Alabama areas for the past eighteen years.

The 4-H - F. F. A. beef project is sponsored by the Chilton County Cattlemen's Association and other groups. It helps boys and girls to learn more about selecting, feeding, and managing good cattle and is allowing them to devote a portion of their energy to earning money with their projects. Approximately three hundred spectators had an opportunity to witness a very encouraging exhibit of rural youth in action. This project is to be continued, and we expect to see more and better calves in this annual beef progress report in 1959.

Poplar Springs HD Club To Take Part In May Dress Revue

Mrs. Sam Beard was hostess to the Poplar Springs Home Demonstration Club Friday afternoon, April 4, with fourteen members and one visitor attending.

The president, Mrs. Elsie Hand, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Pearl Dennis gave the devotional with the story of the hymn "Beneath The Cross of Jesus", assisted by Mrs. Gladys Glenn.

A very interesting demonstration on "Unusual Vegetable Dishes" was given by Mrs. Beard and Mrs. Hand.

The secretary, Mrs. Beard, called the roll with each one answering with an inspiring Proverb of life and then, she read the minutes of the previous meeting. The business of the meeting was taken up with plans being made for the trip to various places in Chilton County this month by the club members.

The highlight of the afternoon was when Mrs. Jessie Parrish described the outfits of the two ladies entering the dress review in May, as each entered the room. They were Mrs. Esther Cox and Mrs. Louise Messer. The meeting was adjourned with the repeating of the Woman's Creed.

The door prize which was won by Mrs. Decie Wells was in keeping with Easter. It was a beautiful plant in a bunny rabbit flower pot.

Next, the thought of the month was read. It was "Don't save all your smiles for the parlor. Use a few in the kitchen." It has a lots of meaning.

The hostess served the very delicious vegetable dishes, cake and Cokes to those present.

Bids on the new County Health Clinic will be let around the first of May according to Judge M. D. Tingle on word from the State Health Dept. This will add another fine public building for the use of Chilton County citizens and another eye-sore will go when we can vacate the rooms now being used for the Health Clinic.

Another project that will be of much interest to all Chilton Countians is word that work will start on the road from the gap of the mountain to Wilsonville in the Fall. This is a much needed route and the news that this work is nearing it's beginning is good news.

Morris Moats is back at his old stand at the A & P manager of the meat department. Morris was raised here and knows about everybody and just about everybody knows Morris. His many friends will be glad to see him again serving them in his usual cheerful manner.

This is a timely little story. A compaign worker who had supported the successful candidate called on the candidate to see if he could get a job for his son. "Oh, "I think so," said the candidate. "What does he do?" "To tell the truth", said the man, "nothing." "Good", said the candidate, "we won't have to break him in then."

Friday evening at 7 p. m. at the Chilton County High School gymnasium the Elementary school Third Grade will present Folk Dances. Whether or not it means anything to you, to the children it is an occasion they will remember all their lives. We'll never forget our first performance. Mother worked a week making a costume for us to wear thirty minutes and our sole performance was to walk out and shoot an arrow into the air. To some, it was probably silly then, but it's all part of your school days and days that go with you on down through the years.

Milton Barth who is Southeastern Distributor for Southern Plastic Glass Tint Company has just tinted the windows at Peoples Savings Bank. Looks good and kills the glare of the bright sun. Milton plans to tint a lot of windows here about and in the South. It not only protects the eyes from the glare he says, but protects merchandise in store windows and keeps a lot of the heat out so that less air-conditioning is necessary.

We made a bad typegraphical error last week. In our blood program article we stated that 11 pints of blood had been taken where it should have been 111 pints. One of the "ones" failed to fall. We haven't been doing as well as we should, on our blood program but as Mrs. Esco says, "We haven't been doing that bad."

Old Ben Franklin was a smart man. Just how smart is constantly impressed upon us with each proverb we read. Franklin pioneered in home heating, invented a cook stove and eye glasses, experimented in electricity and strangely enough was far seeing in advertising. When he was chcking over the streets of Philadelphia the use of electricity was nil and the benefits of advertising had barely been recognized. Yet he had a word for it ,a universal truth about advertising, he recognized over 200 years ago. Franklin said: "If you are not getting into the home what you have to say, you will never get in with what you have to sell." Wiser words were never spoken of advertising. Getting into the home with what you have to say. . .that is the secret. Getting into the home. . . and staying there until what you have to say is read. Only your newspaper can do that.

The wife is a mighty proud person today. The contractor and his wife who built the home in front of her window about three weeks ago have three little babies.

200-Bed CD Emergency Hospital Possibility for Chilton

Montgomery, Alabama, April 22. The Civil Defense Department of the State of Alabama revealed here this week that Chilton county is one of the counties in Alabama for which a 200-Bed Civil Defense Emergency Hospital may be assigned and allocated, in conformity with the established policies of the Federal Defense Administration and State compliance and approval.

It was made known that Chilton county may receive one of these 200-bed hospital units, provided such a hospital is first displayed in Chilton county trom units already in the State. and if a sufficient number of Chilton county men and women are trained during the two-week required display period in the requirements for setting up and operating such a hospital unit.

The Civil Defense Department indicated that it would require a substantial number of people to train for the operation of the hospital, and that in a sufficient number would contact the Chilton County Director of Civil Defense, Burton Mullins, and sign up with him to undergo the training course, then Director Mullins could initiate proper negotiations with the Alabama Civil Defense Department for the two-week display of the 200-bed Hospital Unit, and then arrange for the training necessary during the display period.

Report from Washington

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The Constitution of the United States authorizes the President to veto any measure presented for his approval by Congress. In such case, he returns the measure to the House in which it originated and, at the same time, indicates his objections in a so-called veto message.

In recent weeks President Eisenhower has vetoed two important measures. The first of these, the farm bill would have frozen price supports and acreage allotments at 1957 levels. The second measure, vetoed by the President last week, authorized appropriations of $1.7 billion for rivers, harbors and flood control improvements.

UNPRECENDNTED ACTION

[illegible] 71 [illegible] to date none have [illegible] Congress. [illegible] a Presidential veto [illegible] once. The Senate last week, on motion of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, authorized special committee consideration of President Eisenhower's vetoes of both the farm price support bill and the rivers and harbors bill.

Several old-timers on Capitol Hill have stated they could not recall a time when public hearings have been conducted on a President's veto message. Yet, the votes that will be necessary to override the President's vetoes in both the House and Senate are obviously not available at this time, and the only possibility of securing them is to muster strong public support for the legislation. Johnson's move will provide both the time and the means that will be necessary if an effort to shape favorable public opinion to to be made before a final vote is taken on the President's action.

HIGHWAY BILL

Widely circulated reports that President Eisenhower would also reject the $1.8 billion highway construction bill were dispelled last Wednesday when he approved the measure. Under the provisions of this important legislation, Alabama is scheduled to receive $8,689,185 for its primary, secondary, and urban highway system, and $4,067,867 for its interstate network of roads.

C. B. COX WRITES VOTERS

With little more than a week before the May 6, Democratic Primary it will be impossible for me to see all of you voters, but do not think that I have not worked tirelessly in an effort to do so.

I want to make you this one promise, that I will go to Montgomery and make Chilton County the best Representative that we have ever had. I will work to bring to this county that which is rightfully hers and I will see to it that what is coming to us, we will get, in the ways of Federal and State monies for our roads and our schools and our public improvements.

Having had the experience, I know where to go, and who to see, to accomplish this, and if I am honored with the opportunity to again serve you I will put Chilton County and her needs above all other business.

Again I ask your support on May th. I hope I can count on you to help me help Chilton County.—Sincerely, C. B. Cox.

What Would You Do In These Situations?

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

EVEN THE MOST SELF-SUFFICIENT woman driver is somewhat at a loss (although she'd hate to admit it) when her car stalls or a strange noise develops under the hood.

Miss Smith

Most women have just one solution — they turn to the nearest man. However, when you're stranded on a lonely road, or it's dark and you don't feel like waiting for a chivalrous male to arrive, it's wise to know some mechanical pointers.

To test your ability to take care of yourself, here are a few driving situations. What would you do?

1. You back into soft shoulders, sand or snow. You put the car into low gear to ease out, but your wheels spin you in even deeper.

ANSWER: Try to create traction by digging the dirt or snow away from the wheels, and by placing boards or branches under the tires. Now try rocking the car as far forward as it will go, then quickly shift into reverse, then to forward. It probably will get you out. As a last resort, call a tow truck.

2. You forgot to switch off the headlights. Now the car won't start.

ANSWER: The battery is down, so turn off lights, radio, heater and all other accessories. Try to start the car. If nothing happens, let it rest a few minutes and try again. If you have a car with a manual shift, try to start it with your foot on the clutch and the gearshift in neutral. Meanwhile, someone may come along to give you a push.

3. You flood the motor and the car stalls.

ANSWER: Turn on the ignition, put the transmission into neutral, press the accelerator all the way to the floor—and then use the starter. Once the engine starts, gun the accelerator for a short time until the engine roars.

4. It's a rainy or snowy day. You apply your brakes at an intersection and the car skids.

ANSWER: Don't [illegible] don't jam on the brakes. Steer the steering wheel in the [illegible] tion in which the car is skidding slowly removing your foot from the accelerator.

5. The streets are flooded and your brakes get wet.

ANSWER: Apply brakes carefully. They may grab, [illegible] you to skid. Drive slower than usual. If the brakes fail because the lining is wet, pump the brake [illegible]

FINAL RITES FO R MR. JAY NEWMAN

Mr. Jay Newman, age 58, of Rt. 2, Maple[illegible] at 4:20 a. m. at the residence. He was born in Chambers County to Eual Newman and Gracy Boyd Newman. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. April 18th from Lomax Church of Christ, conducted by Bro. Arthur Moodey. Interment in Lomax cemetery.

Pallbearers were Charlie Cole, Tommie Cole, G. W., Charles and Buddy Bavers and Jimmie Simpson. Flower ladies were Nelda and Agnes Chavers, Frances Newman, Ruth McMinn and Gladys Dykes.

He is survived by the wife, Mrs. Ruby Lee Newman of Maplesville; eight daughters, Mrs. Annie Lee Miley and Mrs. Sybil Ragsdale of Tampa, Fla., Mrs. Russell Oaks of Clanton and Mrs. Charles Goggins of Westville, Fla., Misses Mararett, Rebecca and Betty Newman of [illegible] Frank, Roosevelt, Johnnie and Winston all of Maplesville; three sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Pugh and Miss Annie Gray Newman of Tampa, Fla. and Mrs. Flossie Chavers of Prattville; two brothers, Ed Newman of Tampa, Fla., and Bill Newman of Roanoke, Ala.; 8 grandchildren.

HOW TO RECEIVE HEALING FROM GOD

God wants to heal you. This is a precious truth, but you cannot force yourself to believe it. You must know it is true before you can believe. There is no substitute for the truth—nor for the knowledge of truth.

You must want God to heal you. You must have a burning desire. Burning desire knows no shame, no barrier, no refusal. Intense desire burns the bridge behind and penetrates into the very heart of the Son of God.

To receive your healing you must approach God for healing through faith. Faith is not something you always have to seek or pray for. Faith is something God already has given you, for "God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith" (Romans 12:3). Put your faith to work. This will increase it and make it stronger.

You have been provided the capacity and ability to use your faith in any way you choose, for you are a free moral agent. You are able to fix your attention upon God, focusing your faith solely and directly upon him. "Rejoice and be exceeding glad," for healing is yours through faith.

Mr. W. D. tells how he was healed of a mental disorder:

"For twelve years I had suffered from nervous tension, fears, depression and emotional instability. I went from one doctor to another only to be told by each one that he could not help me. I had to get hold of myself and overcome my difficulty. I spent some weeks in a hospital but did not respond to treatment prescribed there.

"When I returned home, my mind, body and soul were distraught. I realized there was much work to be done on my part if God were to help me. I must clear my mind of all negative thoughts and help God to replace them with positive, healing ones. I asked God to be my healer, to show me the way out of the dark into the light.

"Little by little my healing progressed. Each day I became surer, stronger, calmer and had more confidence. Fears dropped away. I came out of my self-imposed hiding and began to venture out into the world just as a child would. Each day I tried to accomplish a little more than the previous day. God, my healer, erased the past. He has led me into a beautiful new world of faith and love and security.

"Each day I shall continue to walk and talk with God in order to overcome old negative thoughts and habits. God wants me to do my part by keeping daily vigilance over my thoughts and deeds.

"I am healed, perfectly healed, but I must never lose sight of the fact that God expects me to keep faith. Keeping my mind clear of negative thoughts helps me to receive his guidance and wisdom throughout each moment of the day."

Many hundreds of letters come to my office every day telling of remarkable recoveries such as the one above. Each adds its own evidence to our often repeated theme: God is a good God. He can and will heal you.

THAT'S A FACT

To store bathing caps, rubber gloves, or other rubber articles, wash them, dry thoroughly, and dust with a powder. They'll be fresh, bright, and soft for the next wearing.

Line the bottom of your refrigerator with a few sheets of paper toweling to absorb excess moisture and save washing time.

Frying a sliced potato in grease used to cook fish will absorb the odor.

Mt. Nebo Church And Social Items

There was a very good crowd out for both services on Sunday. We are very happy to have some of the sick folks back with us.

Mr. Grover Vance has returned to his home after being confined to the hospital in Birmingham for the past week or so. We hope that he will be much improved and soon be up and about again.

We are very sorry that we omitted the news of Mrs. A. B. Culp visiting the Charles Mims on Sunday of last week. She is in the Chilton County Nursing Home and we are very happy that she is able to be out visiting her folks. Hope to see her out again real soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henley and children of Sylacauga, ivsited Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McKee on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mims of Clanton, also visited the McKees. Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Henley visited Mrs. J. D. Culp, Mrs. A. B. Culp, in the Chilton County Nursing Home and Mrs. Robinson, of Clanton, for a while on Saturday afternoon.

Little Sharon Rasberry spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Mims. Betty and Billy and Mrs. Jack Tucker and children, of Montgomery and Mrs. Wiley Tucker of Mulberry Community, visited the Mims for a while Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Patillo, of Notasulga, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and family.

Bowl 'Em Over

By JOE BROWN
Star of "Bowling Time" TV Series

SELECTING A BALL

A ball that is fitted to your precise hand measurements and bowling style is a must for high scores. No two people are built alike, nor are there bowling deliveries which are exactly the same.

The determining factor in the proper fit of a ball is comfort. Your own weight and strength determine the weight of the ball that is easy for you to control, and the size, shape and strength of your hand determines the arrangement and size of the holes in the ball that will be comfortable for you.

A well-fitting ball should have finger holes that are neither too tight nor too loose. The span should be one that neither stretches the hand nor causes squeezing or pinching, thereby placing exaggerated stress on fingers. The pitch (the angle in which the holes are drilled in relation to the center of the ball) should be one that enables you to release your fingers and thumb in an unhampered free and easy fashion.

In selecting your bowling ball, place your thumb in the thumbhole, extend your fingers over the ball, not in the finger holes. The knuckles of your second and third fingers should be centered directly over the holes. Select the proper size thumb and finger holes so you are able to release the ball smoothly. FNS

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

By WILSON HARDER

One of the greatest bald faced attempts in all history to mulct the taxpayer is now underway.

This is the drive to get Congress to vote even bigger and bigger foreign give aways.

Or as Rep. Otto Passman, La., terms it, a big snow job is now underway.

Professional tub thumpers, who under the various administrations of the past twenty years have headed up various bureaus [illegible] cratic promotional drives, are also spearheading this one.

This new organization is termed the Committee for International Economic Growth. It was brought into being on January 29th, and contributions to it are presumably tax exempt on basis selling people on giving away more is major benefit to nation.

But Sen. George Maloney of Nevada has another view. He says "the administration is about to move in with a Coxey's army of 700 to 800 persons to intimidate Congress. I think we ought to run them out of Washington and put them in an insane asylum."

Of course, on analysis, it can perhaps be surmised why there is such a drive in certain quarters to tap all taxpayers to give away funds to build up the economy of foreign nations.

For example, Ernest Breech, chairman of Ford Motors, is behind the foreign give away drive. But the English Ford, built in foreign plants, helped by foreign aid give aways, and also built by cheap foreign labor, has become quite an item in this nation. T. V. Houser, chairman of Sears Roebuck, is another great supporter of foreign give aways. The fact that Sears has stores in foreign nations may or may not be a factor in his zeal to bolster foreign economies with gifts of U. S. taxpayers' dollars. William Robinson, president of Coca-Cola is another great tub thumper for foreign give aways. Coca Cola has been very active in their international division.

There are many other instances. But the interesting fact seems to be that nobody is kidding nobody any more about foreign give aways. Sen. Henry Dworshak, Idaho, calls attention to the fact that Communist Poland has tapped the U. S. taxpayers for almost $100 million dollars. A few months ago Sen. Wm. W. Knowland of California, was accused of partisan disloyalty because he blew the whistle on tapping U. S. taxpayers to send modern jet fighters to Communist Tito in Yugoslavia.

And of course, the whole world knew when recently France killed off women and children in a little town in an African colony that wants independence, with a massive air raid, that it was U. S. built planes who carried the ferocious attack home on the defenseless villagers.

Thus, there are angry Congressmen on this foreign give away issue. And the circus tactics being used to try and stampede them is not appreciated.

In other words, it's getting more and more difficult to kid anybody on the continuation of these foreign give away programs. For example, on several occasions the nation's independent businessmen, voting through National Federation of Independent Business, have gone on record opposing these programs.

Past Meets Present In Damascus

A city of striking beauty, contrast and historic charm, Syria's capital of Damascus is not only the oldest inhabited city in the world, but also the oldest existing capital.

More than 4000 years ago the city's foundations were laid in a setting of rugged natural grandeur on the edge of the Syrian desert, beneath the snow-capped Anti-Lebanon mountains. Damascus is blessed with lush green orchards and magnificent gardens, watered by the streams of the Barada River, in vivid contrast to the barren desert which surrounds it.

Damascus was the scene of the famous conversion of St. Paul who received a vision from the Lord on the road to the city and was struck blind for three days. The city's historic sites are carefully preserved by the Syrian Department of Antiquities: The Street Called Straight, the House of Ananias and the wall over which St. Paul escaped.

The preservation of historic shrines and buildings is only one part of an ambitious program of conservation and development now being carried out by municipal authorities in Damascus. A whole new section is rising on the present outskirts of the city. To the southwest, 320 modern apartments with large windows and attractive balconies are being constructed as part of a housing program which allows ample room for gardens, playgrounds and garage facilities. And northwest of Damascus, on the lower slopes of Mount Qassioun (the traditional spot where Cain slew Abel), a new municipal hotel and blocks of residential apartments will be built.

Not long after Syria achieved her independence, a visiting delegate from UNESCO was so impressed with the amount of building and re-building in the city that he remarked "Damascus is indeed the most ancient city in the world, but if construction continues at the present rate, it will also become the most modern."

Judging from their remarkable progress during recent years, the 400,000 residents of Damascus have every reason to believe that this prophetic statement will soon become a fact.

To The People Of CHILTON COUNTY

In asking your consideration for me in the present race for Member of Board of Revenue and Control, District No. 2 I would like to again state that Chilton County is my home and that I am sincerely interested in all of it's problems. As a citizen, father, taxpayer and farmer I have every reason to be interested in the things that will benefit or hinder the progress of our County. I have no personal problems or personal gain as my objective in this race.

I am solely interested in making progress in a manner that will be most beneficial to the people of Chilton County.

I have tried to promote my Counties farm interests for many years and in many ways. I feel that there are many jobs available to our boys, girls, men and women today that had I been selfish in my occupation might not now be available. I will strive as a member of your County's Governing body to bring anything our way that will be helpful to us in anyway. Better roads, schools, markets, more industry, better protected forest, more health or recreational facilities or what ever is within the grasp of your Board members that will create a more favorable living condition for all of us.

You that I have had the pleasure of contacting have been thoughtful and congenial and may I thank you. To you whom it has not been possible for me to see may I say that I hoped very much to contact every voter or citizen of Chilton County and am making every effort to do so. Should I fail as I'm sure I will to see each of you, you may feel sure that I have your interest at heart and trust you will see fit to give me your support in the coming election. I have made only one promise to the people as I have made my campaign and that was to keep my nose out of the other man's race and to serve you to the very best of my ability if elected. I continue this promise and wish success to every other candidate who is sincerely interested in doing right and working for our County's betterment whoever they may be.

May you as voters give thought to your selection and abide in all cases by what is right.

If elected to the place for which I am asking I will serve you as a brother citizen and not as a politician. Hoping you will give me consideration and pledging again to serve you to the best of my ability.
THANK YOU.

Local Clubs To Take Part In Birmingham Fat Calf Show

Almost 400 beef calves will be exhibited and sold by 4-H Club and FFA owners at the Birmingham Fat Stock Show Thursady and Friday.

Many of the youngsters are old hands in the show ring, while others will be competing in their first stock exhibit. But there's no doubt that they'll all perform well, reports Bob Farquhar, API Extension livestockman. "These boys and girls," he adds, "have been training and grooming their animals for many weeks - to say nothing of the months of careful feeding required to bring the calve to their present top condition."

All calves exhibited in the Birmingham show will grade U. S. Prime, Choice, or Good. Animals grading lower are not eligible to compete, according to Farquhar

After the show, the calves are to be sold to packer buyers, local grocers, and other interested in obtaining top-quality beef on the hoof. Consequently, a large percentage of the beef will find its way into the meat counters of many retail stores in the Birmingham area

Boys and girls will come from 20 Alabama counties to enter the Birmingham show, said Farquhar

Counties to be represented in the show are Lauderdale, Limestone, Jackson, Franklin, Lawrence, Morgan, Marion Cullman, Blount, Lamar, Fayette, Walker, Jefferson, Shelby, Tuscaloosa, Pickens, Sumter, Randolph, Chambers, and Chilton

MY POLITICAL PLATFORM

I believe that a platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the candidate when entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe. I do hereby declare this to be my platform:

1. I solemnly promise if elected to put into effect the principles, policies, and reforms necessary to make the operation of the Probate Office one the people of this county will appreciate.
2. I favor maintenance of the county credit by a county budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues.
3. I advocate a Board of Revenue and Control for our county system.
4. I advocate the publishing in the paper of the minutes of the Board of Revenue and Control.
5. I advocate the employment of local labor when available and that the labor scale be met.
6. I favor the continuance of our hospital program but a reduction in rates for Chiltonians if the collection of the tax is to continue the same.
7. I favor better schools with more class rooms and more teachers.
8. I advocate more paved roads but not to the detriment of the unpaved ones.
9. I favor the development of the Coosa River for commercial and resort purposes.
10. I advocate an all out effort to develop the largest industry that we have in the South, our farm industry.
11. I advocate the Continuance of the Old-age and Veteran Pensions.

In conclusion, to accomplish these purposes I pledge to the people my best efforts: Equal rights to all; special privilege to none, and an honest administration.

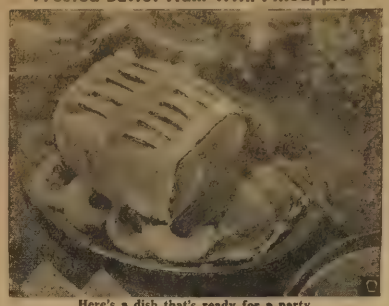
Frosted Buffet Ham With Pineapple



Here's a dish that's ready for a party.

Baked ham in any form just naturally calls for pineapple. Here's a Frosted Buffet Ham with a delicious pineapple glaze and garnish—one of the most festive meats you could serve to guests. The easy-to-make frosting is a combination of sour cream and tangy horseradish.

Frosted Buffet Ham is an exceptionally good looking and good tasting dish for your next Buffet Supper. Slice the ham thin and serve with hot rolls or pumpernickel bread and a cool, molded salad.

FROSTED BUFFET HAM

1 (7 to 9 lb.) canned ready-to-eat ham	½ teaspoon dry mustard
Ground cloves	1 cup thick sour cream
¾ cup brown sugar (packed)	½ cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons dry mustard for glaze	4 tablespoons bottled horseradish
½ cup pineapple syrup	1 can pineapple tidbits
	Green pepper strips

Remove ham from can. Place in shallow roasting pan. Pat surface with cloves. Combine brown sugar, dry mustard and pineapple syrup. Spread over ham. Bake in moderately hot oven (375°) 45 minutes to 1 hour to glaze skin. Cool and chill several hours or overnight.

Moisten the ½ teaspoon dry mustard and blend with sour cream, mayonnaise and freshly opened horseradish. Frost all over cold ham. Decorate as desired with drained pineapple tidbits or slices and strips of green pepper.

Note: Double the amounts for the frosting and serve half of it as a sauce separately, if you like.

LOCAL DRYCLEANER INVITES PUBLIC TO INSPECT FABRIC BOOK

Home economics teachers, retail clothiers -- in fact anyone who buys or wears clothes can now have access to a new fund of information on the selection and care of fabrics and their performance in use.

Mr. Thompson of Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co., 501 - 503 - First Ave. S., Clanton, Alabama has just received a copy of "Focus on Fabrics" written by Dorothy S. Lyle, Ph. D. in Textiles, Director of Consumer Information for the National Institute of Drycleaning. The mammoth book is available for inspection at the cleaning plant.

The book's 500 pages contain 114 pasted-in fabric swatches plus 177 black-and-white photos and 50 color shots. Information in the 7½ pound, 4-inch-thick volume has grown out of the 30 years experience the Institute has had with garments which present problems in drycleaning.

"There is no better source of information on clothing performance", says Mr. Thompson, "than the Institute which studies more than 25,000 garment problems every year. That's just one of the reasons why our plant is a member."

Half of the book tells about selection and care of fabrics of varied types including knits, man-made furs, 24-karat gold fabrics, as well as the more common types. It defines textile and fabric terms, special finishes, and tells how fabrics receive their color and design. The other half tells how various fabrics behave in drycleaning and suggests precautions to prevent color loss, dimensional change, etc. The book also contains a section on safe measures for first aid spot removal at home.

playing such a hospital in their areas, and, also, providing trained personnel to handle the hospital after its arrival. These units are received and stored after allocation to any city, or county, and are constantly available for use during any natural or war incited emergency situation. It has been planned to have these emergency hospitals distributed throughout the State, at various points, all of them available for use during emergencies brought about by storms of all types, floods, fires, or any other natural disasters, and especially an attack upon our country in which Alabama received direct hits by Atomic or Hydrogen bombs or missiles.

The Civil Defense Department made it clear that the training did not embrace technical training of the staff of doctors and nurses, but applied only to all other operating personnel, although all doctors and nurses within the Chilton county area would be invited to visit and inspect the 200-Bed hospital during its display period in order to become familiar with what such a unit contained, and the facilities incorporated therein.

A spokesman for the Civil Defense Department of Alabama indicated that it was up to the Civil Defense Organization of Chilton county, and the people of the county, as to whether or not one of the 200-Bed Emergency Hospitals would be allocated to Chilton county, and urged every person in Chilton county, who may volunteer to undergo the necessary training to contact Civil Defense Director Burton Mullins ,in Clanton, promptly, in order that he may complete his files in the matter. Then, final determination will be possible by the State and Federal authorities in connection with whether or not Chilton county really wants one of these highly valued hospitals.

abnormally close together, and I believe you can sell yourself on the importance and value of spacing your fruit.

You will pay the thinning labor cost one way or another.

Thin early and develop two-inch plus fruit is the cheapest method. By leaving fruit as set, you will still have excessive labor bill. It takes about twice as long for a field hand to fill a bushel box of 1¾" peaches (383 peaches) as it does to fill a bushel box with 2¼" peaches (only 215 peaches.)

Community field meetings are to be held during the last week of April and the first week of May to demonstrate methods of thinning peaches. We are looking forward to seeing you and further discussing this important practice with you.

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

It is quite evident, at least in local politics, that certain candidates are of the false impression that an office can be obtained entirely on a past record or one significant achievement.

Many times an outstanding deed will give as its reward public approval of a person's bid for office. However, it's usually with fatal results. One achievement is not enough to put any one man head and shoulders above the rest.

A record of achievement which consists of many good accomplishments is truly a good foundation for a candidacy for public office. This in itself, however, is not enough. He must also have the moral character and foresight to bring these things into sharp focus and at the same time show by good faith that he will continue in these doings.

We have in Chilton County those seeking public office who, having contributed once to the betterment of the community, are depending on that "once" to put them into the office which they seek. A sad awakening is due.

We think one of the most impressive, if not the truest statement ever made concerning a bid for office was when Abraham Lincoln said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, but you cant fool all the people all of the time." This may have well have been intended as a pun more than anything else, but we think that the man who said it was well aware of the truth lying therein.

We also think that any man, with the internal fortitude to run for public office is aware of the meaning of the above statement.

Why is this generation of parents the way they are when it comes to disciplining their offspring. Is it because there is so much to be had in this world today and they intend for theirs to get all that's coming to them.

The best possible thing that could come to a child, to our way of thinking is a stern and guiding hand. Today's parents -- by golly let's say the fathers -- fall miserably short of this parental obligation and to say the least they are letting it rub off on them to the extent of becoming a bunch of hen-pecked robots.

We deal with this generation of youngsters and we know for a fact that, though their brain power and possibilities are probably greater than any generation before, their manners and respect for others and their elders is very low on the percentage board.

The only good Indian may very well be a dead one, but the same token, the only good child is one who is made to behave his or herself in public and most important to respect those who have the blessing of experience.

The most degrading thing about the United States today is the way the "head of the house" has become the "yes dear" weakling he has, and all because he hasn't the guts to stand up and assert his, in our opinion, God-given rights and responsibilities. Our children will not be better-mannered until Dad resumes his rightful place as head of the household.

Spring has sprung,
The birds is here,
The bees is saying, I love you dear,
Spring fever is proud,
That winter's gone. . .
Atlas, it's time to mow the lawn.

This has indeed been one of the most dignified political campaigns of our history; both statewide and local. We certainly hope that fate is not making it the calm before the storm. It has all the markings. Or perhaps men are learning to live with each other -- could it be.

We'd like to extend the hand of cooperation to Clanton's new chief of Police. He has before him a long hard row and it requires the full cooperation of those whom he is pledged to protect and uphold. Though opinions vary on the subject he has some pretty big shoes to fill C. E. Tucker, with what faults you may consider his served Clanton well and was thoroughly devoted to his duty. He also added a certain amount of dignity to the office which we feel was sorely needed. The police force still needs dignity and we fervently hope that with the City Council and the citizens of Clanton backing him up, Chief Foshee will do the office proud. We think he will, with that kind of support.

By the way, we understand that from the large number of applications for policeman here in Clanton Billy DeVaughn was chosen for the job. You may know Billy as your Holsum Bread man for he has worked in that capacity for several years. We'd like to welcome him into his new position and urge that he do us a favor; stand for what he believes to be right and do so on his own two feet, always remembering that he has accepted a task from which he will receive little compensation other than than the pride he feels from doing a duty; one that is necessary to the welfare of his community. Above all, maintain your self-respect and in so doing gain the respect of those with whom you work and deal with.

A man and his character are founded on his ability to keep his head and think for himself.

Eisenhower says he feels there is no need for a tax cut at the present time. What do you folks who are paying them think about it, It must be frustrating to have been trained to lead and then be lead around.

The only hope for the Man in the Moon, they tells us, is for him to settle down somewhere else. That is certainly going to be a blow to songwriters, sentimentalists and parents who used him so effectively. It seems that with these satellites flying around at random, he is unable to smile anymore. We wish we could assure him that they're not factually aiming at him. . .they're just poor shots. We just hope he's understanding enough not to start shooting back.

FFA Presented P-T. A. Program

The Marbury FFA put on a P.-T. A. program Monday night. The boys had a demonstration on Electricity telling the danger of putting a penny in the switch box, also they mentioned how to break the circuit; the most important thing brought out was that for you not to overload your circuit.

The boys are now working on the field putting in post for the fence for the Rodeo and putting in new bleachers. The Rodeo will be May 2 & 3, the rodeo was very good last year, but we want it to be much bigger and better.

We are making a plumbing board to have for demonstrations, we will have almost anything you would expect to see on a plumbing board, the board will have all kinds and sizes of pipes, it will show how you reduce the pipes.

Give To Conquer Cancer

April is "Cancer Control Month"—time to fight cancer with a CHECK-UP and a CHECK. A yearly CHECKUP by your doctor is your best protection against cancer. Your CHECK will help the American Cancer Society fight cancer on three fronts:

1. EDUCATION to help save lives with the use of present weapons against cancer
2. RESEARCH — to find the causes and cures of all cancer. In the last 13 years, the American Cancer Society has devoted about $58,380,000 to cancer research. More than $1,200,000 of this has been spent in Alabama. ACS funds currently support cancer studies at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn; Carver Foundation, Tuskegee; Medical College of Alabama, Southern Research Institute, and the Tumor Registry, all in Birmingham.
3. SERVICE—to medically indigent cancer patients.

Red Cross Disaster Reserve Needs A Shot In The Arm

The great disasters of the past two years has completely exhausted the reserve disaster funds of the American National Red Cross. In order to do the effective job we have done in the past on such disaster operations as Cameron, Louisiana, Texas City, Texas, Kansas and Missouri Floods, The New England Floods and the number of tornado operations in our own immediate area, the need for funds is most important.

We must meet the goal of approximately $5,660.00 in Chilton County in order to effectively carry out our responsibilities to the American People and for the alleviation of suffering. It can be readily said that the "Job Will Be Done" and you will be there if you can see the need for the financial support of this organization.

It is about time our citizens realize the importance of the Red Cross and forget the petty things that may or may not have happened and have seriously impeded the progress of the Red Cross and to sit down and evaluate the sacrifice of our volunteer participation in doing the best job possible. When we evaluate other agencies or people we use the yardstick of what has been effectively accomplished against the small amount of justified complaints. We cannot condemn any organization for some small human element that must and cannot be entirely eliminated. This fine organization is the first one that will replace a person not conforming to the policy set up that obtained its funds from 150,000,000 Americans.

Always remember that unjustified criticizisms carried on by you may some day be the difference in whether the organization was strong enough and the life line of communications between the servicemen and his family still intact in order to carry forth a message of emergency. Always remember it is Your Red Cross, policies made and enforced by volunteer Board of Governors made up from every walk of life. It is further supported in program by over 136 volunteer people to every paid worker. The most of the peoples money is channeled into programming that will keep communications open for our military families; alleviate the suffering in disasters; afford blood to our participating chapters and peoples; and carry our other worthwhile projects of Safety Services and Nursing Services. The extent to which you support and request services depends on the programs that your chapter can carry. Can you set dollars as a criteria in saving of human lives thru the teaching of the First Aid and Water Safety. Many persons could say yes for someone else's children, but would think quite differently in the case of their own immediate family. Are we to remain self centered and keep our thinking in such channels or can we look toward that fact that our contributions may mean the saving of many lives and the alleviation of much suffering. Our Disaster Program is a mandatory provision of our Congressional Charter. Your Red Cross is the only agency recognized in the United States for the assistance of natural disasters. Are you going to be there when disaster strikes with your donation?

If delays make you NERVOUS try our prompt, efficient REPAIR SERVICE. Your watch is our business!

ESTATE OF WILLIAM LLOYD POPWELL

Deceased.
PROBATE COURT

Letters Tesamentary of said deceased having been granted to the undersigned on the 18th day of April 1958, by the Hon. M. D. Tingle Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton County, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same within time allowed by law or the same will be barred. — Anna Mae Powell, Executrix of said estate. 17-3tc.

Chilton County Forest Increased 125 Acres

Future forests in Chilton County have recently been increased 125 acres through the efforts of the Coosa River Newsprint Company.

A total of 75,000 trees were planted of which 30,000 were used to restock company lands, and 45,000 by individuals in Chilton County. The increased productivity of these lands will greatly benefit the local communities.

Included are tree seedings planted on the Company's own lands and those given to individual landowners and youth groups during the past three months, Homer B. Starks, Coosa River District Forester.

"Large acreage of timberland brought into production mean annually to the community more in bank deposits, more jobs, more householders, more personal income; more passenger cars, more new retail establishments, and in increase in retail sales," said Mr. Starks.

Income from managed woodlands may be considered as stable as Industrial payrolls because of the assured long-range market for forest products. While the future cannot be predicted with certainty, trends show an ever-increasing demand for lumber, paper and other forest products in our country.

Economists have predicted that by the year 2000 consumers will be using two-thirds more forest products in the United States than we are today.

This great increase is of particular interest to timber growers who can be assured that their trees will always be a cash crop.

Your Telephone Manager

100 HOUR WORK WEEK: One of those efficiency expert-type fellows has estimated recently that, even with a house full of modern appliances, the average mother works nearly 100 hours weekly. That's a mighty long week, but think what it would be without today's conveniences! The telephone alone saves countless hours and steps. Housewives shop by phone, visit, call plumbers and other service folks—attend to all sorts of errands they'd have to run if they didn't have a phone. And no matter when it's needed, your telephone is always there, 24 hours a day. Best of all, in these days of high costs it's still one of the biggest bargains in the family budget.

PAMPER MOM! Mother's Day is May 12. Now that we've added up Mom's weekly work hours, the least we can do is give her a hand. What could be a better Mother's Day gift than an extension phone? Maybe even more than one, so she'll have them near her most talked-from spots. You can get them in spring-pastel shades. So lovely with Mother's room colors! For instance, perfect for the feminine touch are aqua, rose pink, light beige, light gray, ivory or white. Or, to add a vivid dash of color choose cherry red, bright yellow, or green. They cost less than you think, too, so just call us and we'll do the rest.

P. S. Extension phones make ideal gifts the year 'round, too!

TROUBLED LADY ... There's a tear on her pretty cheek but it will soon be gone. For troubles are forgotten quickly when one is very young ... Many a grown-up trouble also has a way of disappearing when there are friendly voices to help and reassure... Just reaching for the telephone and talking to someone can bring sunshine into a dark or worried day ... For whatever the need or the hour, you are never alone with a telephone.

UPCHURCH DRUG CO.

Ph. 5 Ralph Johnston, Mgr. CLANTON

Origin of The Bible

THE HEBREW SCRIPTURE

Over a long stretch of eleven centuries men devoted to Jehovah God committed to writing what is now called "the Old Testament". Such designation is not Scriptural. Instead this series of articles uses the term "Hebrew Scriptures", because that is the language in which the great bulk of these writings was originally recorded, in contrast with the Greek language principally used in the Scripture writings after Christ. Book by book, and in some thirty inspired writers contributed to the Hebrew Scripture canon till it grew to its full size if the twenty-nine books. This series of articles brings under close study each of these inspired books of the Hebrew canon, sketching its contents and presenting information as to its location in the stream of time and the identification of its writer.

GENESIS

Genesis is the first book of the Pentateuch, which name is a Greek word meaning "five rolls; fivefold volume". The Pentateuch is really one book in five parts (Genesis through Deuteronomy). Showing that it was originally one book, the Pentateuch is referred to in many places as "the book (singular, not plural of the law of Moses". (Neh. 8:1; Josh. 8:31; 2 Chron. 17:9). Its division into five rolls (which would facilitate handling) is probably older than the Septuagint, but it is in that Greek version that the fivefold division of "the law" is first found. "Genesis" means "origin; beginning." It is the name the Septuagint gives to that first Bible book. In the Hebrew Bible Genesis takes the opening word "Bereshith" as its name, meaning "in the beginning".

Who was the writer of Genesis? If we establish this, then the writer of the entire Pentateuch becomes becomes known, as its five books were "the book of the law", and all by one writer. The answer appears in the first words continually to write: "The Lord said unto Moses. Write this for a memorial in a book." Further testimony is: "And Moses write." The Lord said unto Moses, Write." "Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys." Then the record discloses that Moses completed his writing work: "Moses. . .Made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished." Ex. 17:14; 24:4; 34:27; Num. 33:1; Deut. 31:24-26.

Many prophets and later Bible writers credited Moses with the first five books ascribing to them the "law of Moses". The disciple James speaks of "Moses. . . read in the synagogues". Paul says: "Moses writeth that the man doeth the righteousness which is of the law shall live thereby." (Acts 15:21; Rom 15:5 Am. Stan. Ver.; Lev. 18:5) The crowning testimonial evidence comes from the lips of Christ Jesus himself: "Had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?" (John 5:46, 47) So what matters it that in these latter days a host of higher critics vying for attention spout their unending torrent of "Mosaic" writership, never questioned for 3,000 years, cannot be successfully contested.

The Pentateuch was started after Moses was authorized to write, which was in 1531 B. C., just after the exodus. It was completed forty years later. (Ex. 17:14; Deut. 31:24-26) Genesis, being the first in order of time and the foremost of the "one book", was probably finished first. But the question arises, How did Moses come to know the history of man back to Adam and Eden? Doubtless by word of mouth. And it did not necessarily need to pass through so many mouths. Five human links connect Adam and Moses. These links are Methuselah, Shem, Isaac, Levi and Amram. Their lives overlapped, and Methuselah lived during the last 243 years of Adams life, and Amram was Moses' father. To bolster this chain of oral communication were such men as Lamech, Noah, Abraham, Jacob, etc. As a potent memory-helper the infallible spirit of Jehovah God would cause these men to remember correctly, and would direct the one He authorized to write it down, namely Moses. (John 14:26) Its authenticity is attested by the unnumbered references to it by the prophets and other Bible writers, including the apostles, and by Christ Jesus' quoting of it. Many of its prophecies have been marvelously fulfilled, and others are now seen to be in course of fulfillment. All this assures that it could never have had an earthly origin. God's spirit dictated, Moses wrote, and the record is sure.

Genesis is the most ancient history in the world. The first verse reaches far back into time, saying with impressive "simplicity": "In the Beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Twenty-six short verses later and 42,000 long years have elapsed. God's creative work in six 7,000 year days has been described. Day and night, descension of rings, the appearance of dry land and the gathering of seas, plant life, lights to rule by day and by night, animal life, followed by higher forms of land animals, topped finally by the creation of man and woman, all these miraculous events of 42,000 years pass fleetingly before the eyes. The majestic power of the Creator is seen at work. -- 1:1-31.

The [illegible]ness of the first human [illegible] short - lived. They are placed in Eden, are given God's law as a guide, and receive a glorious dietary mandate. Then diabolical religion appears. Satan rebels, seduces Eve, and she converts her husband to her new-found religion. From that point onward sorrow and suffering and death enter the earthly scene. Thus that first world of righteousness passed away. But a ray of hope shines for righteously disposed descendants God declares his Edenic covenant, and a Seed to come is promised that will crush all rebels. --- 2:1-3:24

Cain, the first man-child born, murders Abel, the first earthly witness of Jehovah. Religion's grip is strengthened; men call creatures [illegible]me of the Lord in hypocrisy. Events mount to a climax. [illegible]ing begins, wicked angels [illegible]e as giants, good ones cohabit with women to produce a mongrel race of hybrids, and general corruption and degeneracy reach a peak. Jehovah announces an earth-cleansing flood. Only Noah and his family ride out the deluge in the ark. The first unrighteous or ungodly world is washed away, and the historical record has advanced us to A. M. 1956. (Anno Mundi means "in the year of the world".) --3:1-7:24.

After the flood Noah and his family worship Jehovah, hear the everlasting covenant, and have restated to them the divine mandate. Nimrod rockets to infamy as an ambitious world dictator. He organizes religion and politics, and seeks to unify his total-self structure by a tower of Bebel. Instead, disunity by confusion of language and by many divisive races and kingdoms follows. -- 8:1-11:9.

Four hundred and twenty-seven years of the post-flood period elapse and Jehovah speaks a blessed promise to Abraham, a promise to bless the obedient through Abraham's seed. Thereafter the Genesis account concerns itself with presenting the history of Abraham's household and the passing on of the promise to Isaac and Jacob. In Canaan land Ishmael is born to Abraham by a slave woman. The covenant of circumcision is established. Abraham sees the fiery destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. Isaac is born, and with Ishmael's mocking of the five-year-old Isaac a 400 year period of affliction begins on God's people. Isaac is nearly sacrificed by his faher, but is spared, and later marries Rebekah, who bears Jacob. Jacob's twelve sons become the twelve tribal heads of Israel. --- 12:1-35:29.

The account enters its final sages with the selling of the "dreamer" Joseph into Egypt. There he is advanced in the realm to a place second only to Pharaoh; this through an inspired interpretation of Pharaoh's dream of seven-year periods of plenty and amine. The touching drama of the reconciliation of Joseph and his brethern unfolds before the reader's eyes. Jacob and his household move into Egypt. Thereafter Jacob foretells Judah as the royal tribe and the one through whom the Messiah will come. The account closes with Joseph's death, after he foretels the exodus. And thus ends the first 2,369 years of human history. 37:1-50.26.

The bulk of the Genesis record concerns itself with the lives and families of three men: Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. In these men the nation of Israel was rooted and the record concerning them leads into the birth of the typical Theocracy, which was used to foreshadow the abiding Theocracy through which Jehovah will vindicate his name. Throughout the book there is always cropping up the promise of the Seed. It was foretold in the third chapter, and was the substance of the Abrahamic promise. Hence the theme permeating the Genesis account is one of Theocracy and of vindication through the promised Seed of God's woman, violently emphasized at times by such God-vindicating acts of judgment as the global flood and the rain of fire on Sodom and Gommorrah.

Women's Hats Influence Car Styling

Cars should be designed with sufficient head room so women may wear high fashion hats when they go for a spin, say these world-famous milliners, Laddie Northridge (left) and Mr. John (center). In Detroit recently, they presented a special fashion award to Lincoln cars because they provide enough head room for the designers' new Spring creations. Receiving the plaque is George W. HOW TO TRUST PEOPLE FOR TEN MILLION DOLLARS

Alexander Lake tells of two men, Paul Klein and John Habine. These two men grew up together and at seventeen joined the same Canadian Army outfit. When they were discharged they bought a little electrical shop.

From the beginning they prayed about this work. It was tough sledding for a while. But one day a Dukhobor farmer ordered a farm light and power plant from them and paid cash. The firm of Klein and Habine was on its way.

During the next two years light and power plants were sold to farmers all over Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Most farmers gave notes payable at harvest time. Harvest was good, and the notes were met promptly.

But the third year was a drought year. The bank had discounted many notes. These had to be made good. It broke Klein and Habine.

They said, "When we asked the banker for a loan to carry us along, he said, 'We can't gamble on another cropless year. But you boys can sue for most of your losses.'"

"But," Johnny said, "those farmers can't pay. They've lost their crops. If we sue, they'd have to sell everything they own.

"We want to help those people. They'll pay up when they get a crop. Before we installed those light plants, those farmers lived hard. They had only lamp and lantern light."

The banker turned away. "Well, come and see me when you grow up," he said.

They stood on a street corner for a few minutes. Then Johnny said. "I'm going to the shop to pray. There's nothing to worry about."

Three days later a phone call came from a wholesaler asking Paul and Johnny to come over to his office. When they were seated beside his desk, he began, "I hear you boys told the banker you wouldn't sue the farmers. Right?"

Johnny answered, "Well, we sold the people something to make their lives easier and happier. Do we take it away now? A lawsuit would break most of those farmers, anyway. In some cases, it'd break their hearts, too."

"Do you owe the bank any money?"

"No, we made those notes good. But we're busted."

"I'm glad you boys aren't going to sue anybody. I'm going to stake you for another year. Those farmers will all pay up some day."

The wholesaler smiled. "I'm a praying man too, you know." Then he added: "I've only one condition to make. After this, when a man's ready to buy a plant, tell him to mail you his notes after he's prayed about the deal himself."

And so this new arrangement was started. Each customer had to promise to pray before credit was given to him. During the last twenty years, Paul Klein and John Habine have sold more than ten million dollars' worth of goods on credit—and have never lost a dime. Do they believe in prayer? I'll say they do.

LET'S THINK

[illegible] man can be denied the right to run in the Democratic [illegible] simply because he refused to vote for an integration [illegible] in the 1956 presidential election. Among those excluded [illegible] many who refused to vote for any candidate in 1956.

However, "Tiger" Thompson, a Negro, can qualify to run for Lt. Governor under the present loyalty oath.

Our electors are compelled by threat of punishment to vote for the presidential nominee of the national Dmocratic Party REGARDLESS OF WHOM THE NOMINEE MIGHT BE.

The nominee could be "Soapy" Williams, Hubert Humphries, or even Adam Clayton Powell. Is this what you want?

How can Alabama delegates to the National Convention effectively fight the battle against a strong civil rights platform, when, under the loyalty oath, our electoral votes are in advance [illegible] sealed and delinvered to any South-Hater who might be [illegible] made?

Alabama delegates are gagged and have lost their bargaining power at the Convention.

It is one thing to vote for your party's nominee as the lesser of two evils. It is entirely another, and infinitely more degrading thing, TO PLEDGE IN ADVANCE to support such an evil.

Alabama is the only state handicapped in its fight for segregation by such a loyalty oath.

Mississippi's two Senators, Eastland and Stennis have fought the South segregation and civil rights battle more vigorously and effectively than have the Senators from any other State. MISSISSIPPI HAS NO LOYALTY OATH. Yet have Eastland and Stennis lost their important committee chairmandhips. No.

WE MUST DO AWAY WITH THE KIND OF POLITICIANS WHO WOULD QUALIFY "TIGER" THOMPSON AND DISQUALIFY CAPABLE WHITE MEN WHO ARE MAKING US SUBSERVIENT TO THE INTEGRATION WHIMS OF THE NORTHERN RADICAL ELEMENTS OF THE PARTY. IT IS THEY WHO, ACCORDING TO THE LAST PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION, HAVE DRIVEN 140,000 VOTERS OUT OF THE PARTY IN ALABAMA. FOR WANT OF A BETTER NAME THEY MUST BE REGARDED AS "TIGERCRATS."

Speaking of 'loyalty', what we need is party officials who are LOYAL TO THE PEOPLE OF ALABAMA. Not loyal to Truman, Mrs. Roosevelt, Lehman, Humphries, Williams, Powell, and the rest of the South Haters.

THE "TIGERCRATS" MUST GO

ELECT LOYAL ALABAMA DEMOCRATS WHO ARE TRUE SEGREGATIONISTS TO YOUR STATE DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE!

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

One thing's sure; the "Fightin' Little Judge" is certainly the most elaborate and forceful speaker of the entire running lot this campaign; a fact, which in itself, will probably win him many new admirers.

Well, the unprecedented has happened. Chilton County has come through one of it's biggest campaigns for public office and not the first bit of gossip, rumoring, or vicious attack on a personal character has been evidenced. We should go down on record as being endowed with the finest lot of gentlemen ever to run for public office in this or any other county. It is a fine thing to see men challenge each other with only their records and abilities (and good intentions) at the front of them. Now, it will be interesting to note whether or not these men can complete the supreme test and go down in defeat gracefully. We can't all win you know! We predict that these same gentlemen are truly that and will be able to congratulate "the people's choice" befitting their positions as representing Chilton County's unending line of fine citizens.

It is our private opinion that the goevrnment post office department, in it's efforts to up production and cut down on expenses, so as to balance the proverbial budget is making a total mess of mail facilities for many persons, places and things. Our own situation is a case in point. We have complaints practically every day from different parts of the County that newspapers sent from our plant do not reach their assigned destination for sometimes two days. We had a woman tell us Friday that she very seldom got her newspaper until Saturday. She lives on Jemison Rt. 2. What sort of situation is it when you can't get mail from a point ten miles away in less than two or three days time? We can only accept her word and she can only accept ours when we say that the paper leaves our plant on Wednesday night! One case would be acceptable, but when they come by the score, something obviously must be done or we can retreat to the days of the pony express. We personally know for a fact that nearly every week for the past six months at the least, papers have been delivered by car to Jemison post office on Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. How it takes two days to get to a woman not more than eight miles from that point we cannot venture to say. We do know that we are getting sick and tired of explaining discrepencies in service which we ourselves are not responsible for. Perhaps the budget will be balanced for the Post Office Department, but we are going to have about five years of good will and faith to rebuild when they're through and we don't like it at all, at all!

The country weekly is the backbone of the free speech in America, but without the facilities to get the printed word to the people, freedom of speech will be decidedly hampered in its efforts to reach all citizens who wish its provisions.

We would like to give Reese Mullins, local mail dispatcher a personal pat on the back. He is at all times striving to better ways of mail service and we think that the P. O. Department would do well to recognize him for his efforts in the present general mess of things. A lesser man might say to heck with it and go right on collecting his pay check. Reese is at all times willing to help and we certainly appreciate his thoughtfulness and consideration when dispatching our mail. Same might go for a lot of other people we know.

Take away temptation and none of us would have to work to overcome anything.

Practically everyone welcomes constructive criticism; that way you don't have to go to the trouble of finding out your mistakes yourself.

Hugh Champion Asks Voters Support In Sheriffs Race

It has been my pleasure to see many voters since I started the campaign for election as your sheriff, and I have enjoyed seeing and talking with the fine people of Chilton County.

However, as you know there are hundreds more fine people that I have been unable to see because of the many duties connected with the job of being sheriff of a big county like Chilton.

Now let me give you a rough idea of a few of the things I have done since I was appointed your sheriff a little over a year ago. We have served 612 civil papers, 14,806 subpoenas, serv ed papers for the Probate Court, Circuit Court and Equity Court. We have served 326 jurors summons. We have lodged 1,396 people in the county jail for various crimes. Seven hundred and one arrests have been made by the Sheriff's deputies and of these arrests 164 have been arrested and charged with violating the prohibition law. We have destroyed over a hundred stills and 19 cases have been made for manufacturing whiskey and owning a still.

This has kept me very busy as the duties of my office have always come first. Even to preventing me making a vigerous campaign for election as sheriff.

I am depending on you good people to know and understand my position. My one desire is for the best law enforcement that is possible and to that end I will give all my efforts.

If I have failed to see you and ask you for your support please believe me when I say it was not because I didn't want to see you or have your vote and influence. I want all of the good people in Chilton County to vote for me, and I will make this one promise, I will continue to keep dignity and respect in the office to which I am elected. I will be free from the strings of any man or any group of men. I will stand on my own feet and answer only to you good people who elect me to serve you as your sheriff. Sincerely, HUGH CHAMPION.

Pick asparagus before it becomes too large and tough. The best asaragus is tender, firm, with close compact tips. This is best for freezing, too. Since tips need less cooking than stems, tie them in bunches and stand the stalks upright in a deep pan. Stems thus will be boiled lightly and the tips will cook in steam.

Bowl 'Em Over

By SYLVIA WENE

Former BPAA Match Game Champion

"Spot" and "Pin" Bowling

"Spot" and "Pin" bowling offer the bowler two distinctly different methods for aiming at the pins. When deciding which method is best for you, choose the system that seems to be the most natural.

In the pin method, the bowler assumes a starting stance in which his right shoulder is in line with the path he figures his ball will follow. Keeping that path in mind, he fastens his gaze on the one-three pocket. There his eyes remain steadily throughout his entire approach and release.

True spot bowlers pick a spot on the lane anywhere from two feet past the foul line to three-quarters of the way down the lane as a target. This spot or target is located somewhere along the imaginary line which will lead the ball to the one-three pocket. The ball, provided it is delivered properly and goes over the designated spot, will fell the pins. The bowler's eyes and attention are focused on the selected spot until the ball has gone over it.

Pin bowling adherents attempt to prove their method best by saying that it is natural to look at the object you are trying to hit where the spot bowler devotee argues that it is easier to hit a target that is, say 20 feet away than one that is 60 feet away. Both are good methods as proven by the many bowling champions who use one or the other, or a combination of the two. FNS

Nivens-Rodgers Vows Are Solemnized In Florida

The marrigae of Miss Aurelia Nanette Nivens and Connel Wade Rodgers was solemnized at 7:30 p. m. April 12th at the First Baptist church, Winter Haven, Florida by Dr. Albert L. Carnette in a double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Houston Nivens, Clanton, Alabama and Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rodgers, Morgantown, West Virginia

Given in marriage by her father the bride's gown was a white cloud of tulle and satin. Tulle draped satin formed the bodice and tulle the wide floor length skirt of a strapless dress. This was covered with a redingote of daintily embroidered tulle. The redingote had a tiny collar, long pointed sleeves and was edged all around with embroidered scallops. Her fingertip viel of illusion fell from a Juliet cap studded with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible marked with a white orchid. The bride wore pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Carol Wesley of Plant City, Florida served the bride as maid of honor. Mrs. William Smith, Tampa, Florida, was bride matron. Miss Joan Jones Tampa and Bryan, Ohio Miss Thelma Merritt, Winter Haven, Florida was brides matron. Miss Carolyn Sibold, South Charleston, West Virginia, were bridesmaids, Junior bridesmaid was Miss Sue Rodgers, Columbia, Missouri, niece of the groom.

They wore matching dresses of sea foam green silk organza narrowly sashed with satin above a deep hemmed skirt. The draped cowl was caught with self piping at the bodice top and the matching head bands were finished with tiny nose veils. Their flowers were white daisy chrysanthemums.

Fish Are Biting More And Faster Now

The fishing season seems to be late this year, says API Extension Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl Kennamer.

However, the specialist pointed out that the time is here when the most fish can be caught per hour of fishing time. "I saw the first spawn of bass a few weeks ago, which me ans that bass are on the bed now spawning," he reported. "But that doesn't mean you can't have good fishing.

"People have bee n making big catches of bream and bass lately. Bream won't start spawning heavily until May, but look for them next month and catch them off the beds.

"Start on top of the water and fish down," Kennamer advised. "See what they'll bite at." He reminded fishermen that they'll catch more fish per hour of fishing during the next two months than at any other time during the season.

Trans-Gas Has Perfect Accident Prevention Slate

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. has received the American Gas Association Merit Award for the accident prevention record of its Compressor Department, President E. Clyde McGraw announced in Houston Thursday.

The 541 employees stationed at the 24 compressor stations located in ten states set a new record of 2,000,000 manhours without a disabling injury.

Director of Safety Owens said that also a perfect record at all installations in Texas during 1957 had brought Transco the Texas Safety Association certificate of merit.

Cook Fresh Vegetables Very Little

Fresh green vegetables need not take on a washedout look when cooked properly. If they are cooked until tender, but still slightly crisp, and cooked under cover, they can look and taste good enough to bring calls for second helpings.

"Boiling is a very familiar and easy way to cook green vegetables. "But to keep fresh color and flavor, care needs to be taken not to overcook. For boiling, use lightly salted water brought to a boil before adding the vegetable. Cover the pan and allow water to boil again, then reduce heat.

"Some green vegetables, such as shredded cabbage or spinach leaves, may require as little as three minutes to cook tender. "Green lima beans may take 20 to 30 minutes, snap beans 15 to 30 minutes.

When boiling leafy greens, such as spinach, the water clinging to the leaves after washing them may be all that is needed in cooking. Put the greens into the pan, adding salt in layers throughout. Reduce heat after steam begins to escape and cook slowly to prevent sticking.

Farmers Should Watch for Disease Leptospirosis

Now that baby pig season is in full swing, armers should be especially careful about leptospirosis.

API Extension Animal Husbandryman said this week that the disease causes cattle and swine to lose their unborn offspring. If the infection strikes swine during mid-pregnancy, it can cause the birth of weak pigs.

Vaccination against the disease and the quarantine of newly purchased animals. They should be blood-tested before being allowed to run with the home herd.

Snake Bite

Ophidiophobia is the morbid fear of snakes, which most persons have. Yet there are some who are ophiliophiliacs, people who are inordinately fond of snakes. Snake lovers, snake haters and those people who are indifferent, all are subject to ophidioasis, or snake venom poisoning.

It is estimated there are between 30,000 and 40,000 human deaths from snake bite each year throughout the world. Few of these deaths occur in the United States. An American physician, doing research in epidemiology, has just presented the results of a survey on the subject of snake bite poisoning. Of the 71 deaths reported from poisonous snake bites in the United States during the years 1950 through 1954, eight of them occurred to persons intentionaly handling poisonous snakes. There are about 3,000 cases of snake venom poisoning in this country ever year, most o. them among children and persons engaged in out-of-doors activities.

The survey shows that snake bite is an occupational hazard among persons routinely handling poisonous snakes, including professional and amateur snake collectors, scientists, museum curators, showmen, religious faddists. Some professional herpetologists (those who study reptiles) have survived several bites inflicted by poisonous snakes according to the survey. At a Reptile Institute in Silver Springs, Florida, where poisonous snakes are milked to extract venom used for producing anticenin and for scientific research, practically all of the employees have been snakebitten one or more times.

The severity of venom poisoning depends on size and species of snake, nature and location of wound, general condition of the victim, and poisonous quality of the venom. Rattlesnakes and cottonmouth moccasins were responsible for most cases of severe poisoning among those studied in the survey.

Dear Voters

NO DOUBT, YOU REALIZE THAT THE SAFETY, BEHAVIOR AND THE GOOD NAME OF OUR COUNTY, FOR THE NEXT FOUR YEARS REST SOLELY ON YOUR SHOULDERS IN THE COMING ELECTION.

Why Take A Chance?

Look at the record and you can Judge the future by the past. I will not betray your confidence...
My record as Sheriff for four years shows that I answered all calls promptly and courteously.
I was the first Sheriff to keep the Sheriff's Office open during business hours.
I was the first Sheriff to bring Police Radio to Chilton County.
I was the first Sheriff to bring a Police Training School to Chilton County to better train all Officers of this Area
I was the first Sheriff to set up a Modern Filing System in the Office to better serve you.

Elect J. Luther Kendrick, Sheriff of Chilton County.

As a State Highway Patrolman, for over nine years, I served the people Honorably. As a combat soldier in Europe during World War II, I served America Honorably. As Sheriff of Chilton County from 1951 to 1955, I served you Honorably. If elected, I will again serve you Honorably. Chilton County needs a worker that knows how and will do the job fairly, impartially, and inergetically. I will be obligated only to the Citizens of Chilton County, not to any Politician, Individual or Clique

The following is a copy of the Grand Jury Report of January, 1954, after I had been Sheriff for three years.

"THE GRAND JURY WISHES TO ESPECIALLY COMMEND SHERIFF

J. L. KENDRICK

And His Deputies for the able and efficient manner in which They are discharging Their Official Duties. The Grand Jury observed that all Criminal Investigating Agencies of our State and Federal Government work in complete Harmony with Sheriff Kendrick, which We believe could not be possible unless our Sheriff was Endeavoring to Intelligently and Diligently Enforce the Law. We observed with a degree of pride that we were not called upon to Investigate a Murder Case. The Grand Jury feels that the good people of our County should continue to give our Sheriff and His Deputies Their Cooperation and lend their Aid in Everyway possible to try to make Our County A Better Place In Which To Live And Rear Our Children."

Keep Chilton County a good place to visit, and a better place to Live by electing J. Luther Kendrick Sheriff of Chilton County. Your vote and support will be appreciated.

- We must keep our schools segregated. Those familiar with our way of life in Alabama know this is absolutely essential and is for the good of both races.
- We must make it possible for every boy and girl in Alabama to obtain a sound secondary education in a fully accredited school.
- We must adequately provide for our higher institutions of learning to make sure that our young people who are capable and willing will be able to obtain first class higher education. We cannot afford to waste our human resources.
- We must improve: (1) teachers' salaries; (2) physical facilities of schools; (3) instructional programs.

The Choctawhatchee Pea River Basin

Proponents of Development See Great Future for Six-County Area

The Pea and Choctawatchee Rivers flow quietly ir turbulently (in past years sometimes disastrously) through Bullock, Barbour, Pike, Coffee, Dale Henry and Geneva Counties in Alabama, to join at Geneva. Thence the Choctawatchee flows across West Florida to Chomtawatchee Bay on the Gulf of Mexico.

Corps of Engineers' records indicate that the Choctawhatchee River was improved for navigation as early as 1833. An 1845 survey resulted in a favorable report. Later, in the seventies of last century, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers engaged in channel operations over a period of several years to bring a snag-free channel to Geneva. Even when the river was obstructed, however, steamboat traffic continued, and a wagon road through the woods around Buzzard Bar enabled shippers to transfer goods around the bar for trans-shipment.

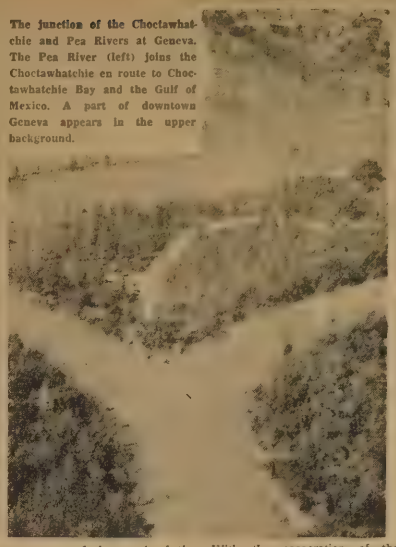
That there was considerable traffice during this period is evident from the notations of steamboat wrecks which appear in the reports of the engineers. In 1887 part of the clearing operation consisted in removing three wrecks from the river. In 1880 they removed the greater part of the wreck of the steamer Boston.

In the 1880 report the captain in charge stated

"Since the improvement of the river began, and probably in great measure owing to its partially improved condition, there has been a marked increase in the commerce carried on. . . .As to the amount of commerce . . : it is reported that there are now 25,000,000 cubic feet of timber annually transported down the river, and miscellaneous stores, cotton and grain, up and down, probably of nearly equal value."

Three quarters of a century later, in 1957, J. Clyde Lewis and other citizens of the Alabama-Florida area along the rivers organized the Choctawhatchee-Pea River Improvement Association to begin a new right to return navigation to these rivers.

Their first objective is to secure an appropriation for a reserved of the Choctawhatchee-Pea River Basin by the Corps of Engineers, to determine the feasibility of improving these rivers for modern barge transportation.



The junction of the Choctawhatchie and Pea Rivers at Geneva. The Pea River (left) joins the Choctawhatchie en route to Choctawhatchie Bay and the Gulf of Mexico. A part of downtown Geneva appears in the upper background.

With the cooperation of the Florida Development Commission and the Alabama River Development Authority, a preliminary survey was made and published. The survey shows more than 2,215,000 tons were shipped in the river basin during 1956.

Members of the association plan to appear before the subcommittees of the Appropriations Committee of House and Senate in late April of early May in behalf of the proposed resurvey of the basin. They are enthusiastic about the prospects of river improvement and industrial development for their area of Alabama.

THE CONECUH

To the west of the Pea River and like the Pea having its source in Bullock County, the Conecuh River runs in a generally southwestward direction through Pike County, Crenshaw, Covington and Escambia. When it crosses the Florida line it becomes known as the Escambia River.

Once navigable as far as River Falls near Andalusia, the Conecuh River produces considerable hydro-electric power at two dams in Covington County above Andalusia. There is no appreciable navigation on this stream now. Minimum month daily flow of the river in Escambia County is 310,200,000 gallons daily.

Democratic Primaries May and June 1958

MY POLITICAL PLATFORM

I believe that a platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept by the candidate when entrusted with power, and that the people are entitled to know in plain words the terms of the contract to which they are asked to subscribe. I hereb by declare this to be my platform:

1. I solemnly promise if elected to put into effect the principles, policies, and reforms necessary to make the operation of the Probate Office one the people of this county will appreciate.
2. I favor maintenance of the county credit by a county budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues.
3. I advocate a Board of Revenue and Control for our county system.
4. I advocate the publishing in the paper of the minutes of the Board of Revenue and Control.
5. I advocate the employment of local labor when available and that the labor scale be met.
6. I favor the continuance of our hospital program but a reduction in rates for Chiltonians if the collection of the tax is to continue the same.
7. I favor better schools with more class rooms and more teachers.
8. I advocate more paved roads but not to the detriment of the unpaved ones.
9. I favor the development of the Coosa River for commercial and resort purposes.
10. I advocate an all out effort to develop the largest industry that we have in the South, our farm industry.
11. I advocate the Continuance of the Old-age and Veteran Pensions.

In conclusion, to accomplish these purposes I pledge to the people my best efforts: Equal rights to all; special privilege to none, and an honest administration.

DO YOU REMEMBER
PHENIX CITY CLEAN-UP?

Why you should support and vote for MacDonald Gallion, an experienced crime fighter, for Attorney General.

MacDonald Gallion, as special counsel for the State of Alabama in the famous Phenix City Clean-up in 1954-55, assisted in the legal fight which put the racketeers and criminals out of business.

During his more than 20 years experience as an attorney, MacDonald Gallion has had over 13 years experience handling important legal matters for the State—as Assistant Attorney General, special Counsel and later as Chief Assistant Attorney General. Mr. Gallion's open record of service to the people of Alabama, is a record of fighting crime, maintaining segregation, regulating vicious loan sharks and promoting good government.

GALLION KNOWS THE JOB

Gallion is the candidate best qualified for Attorney General because he has successfully represented Alabama before Circuit Courts, the Court of Appeals, Supreme Court, Federal Courts and Commissions. His candidacy is endorsed by leading lawyers and judges. He has been active against the illegal activities of NAACP in Alabama. He believes the office of Attorney General should be used in a dignified and forceful manner to help solve State problems, including segregation. He says: "Solution of Alabama's segregation problems can best be solved by the State itself without outside interference, pressure or coercion."

LIFE-LONG ALABAMA DEMOCRAT

MacDonald Gallion is a native Alabamian, educated in Alabama public schools and the University of Alabama, graduating from the latter in 1937 with an LLB degree. He is a combat veteran, having volunteered in the Marine Corps, served overseas in World War II and was wounded at the battle of Saipan. He comes from a Democratic family and he is and always has been a loyal, true Democrat himself. He has no connection with any other candidate or any political group except the Alabama Democratic Party. The next four years will be crucial ones in Alabama. This is no time for untested hands. It is a time when Alabama will need an Attorney General with a proven record of experience in the job, and loyalty to the State.

MacDONALD GALLION

The Truth

About The

6th District Democratic Executive Committee Candidates

Fourteen names will appear on your ballot May 6th as candidates for the State Democratic Executive Committee.

ONLY EIGHT ARE LOYAL

Eight (8) of these men, whose names are listed at the bottom of this ad, are Regular, Old-Line Democrats. They have taken the Loyalty Oath and have agreed to fight WITHIN' the Democratic Party (as all good Democrats should) for States Rights and the Southern Custom of Segregation. These 8 Loyal Democrats are the ONLY candidates in the 6th Congressional District who have been recommended by both our U. S. Senators for seats on the Executive Committee. Their election has been strongly urged by both Senators Hill and Sparkman in numerous newspaper articles and radio broadcasts.

SIX HAVE REJECTED THE LOYAL OATH

Six (6) names on your ballot are the names of men who have REJECTED the Loyalty Oath. These men represent a group often known as "States Righters", "Dixiecrats" or "Republicrats" -- from whence have sprung the party bolters and"I-Like-Ike" button wearers of the past. They are honorable men, furn in their convictions, but it is doubtful if they represent the true feelings of the voters of the Sixth District.

These Six have pinned their appeal for your vote on the Segregation issue, inferring that Democrats who have taken the Loyalty Oath cannot effectively fight for Segregation in the councils of the National Democratic Party. Nothing could be farther from the truth! Think back to Roosevelt and Truman Administrators when FEPC was a constant threat. It was only through the united efforts o fthe Loyal Southern Democrats in Congress that the NAACP and their white Northern sympathizers were held in check. Remember, too, the fight led by Senators Russell, Hill and Sparkman against the Eisenhower so-called Civil Rights bill, effectively neutralizing its legal effects with Democratic votes in Congress. It was the action of a Republican President, unauthorized by Congress, that put bayonets at the throats of Southern children in Little Rock!

DOWN WITH "DIXIECRATISM" AND BACK DOOR REPUBLICANISM

As long as this nation has a Republican administration, the menacing tide of Integration will move steadily toward your home in Alabama. Is this then the time to give comfort to "Dixiecratism" and back door Republicanism? The only possible answer for an Alabama voter is "NO"

To protect our Southern Traditions a Democratic Administration MUST be returned to Washington in 1960. This can be achieved by building a strong, united Democratic Party NOW, through the election of men of unquestioned party loyalty. Election of the Eight Loyal Democrats listed below to the State Democratic Executive Committee is an important step in the RIGHT DIRECTION!

IT WON'T WORK BOYS!

You Can't Delude The Voters With Misunderstanding & Misrepresentation

Last week an ad appeared in your newspaper signed by the Six Candidates for the State Democratic Executive Committee who have REJECTED the Loyalty Oath. They represented themselves as "Loyal Alabama Democrats" and used the traditional Democratic "Rooster" in their ad. Further, the names of two truly Loyal candidates - Jack McGuire and A. B. Stutts - were "borrowed" to give the appearance of a full slate of 8 candidates. Both Mr. McGuire and Mr. Stutts have publicly denounced this misrepresentation.

Not many voters will be deceived by this cunning bit of trickery, but it is important that every voter know the magnitude of their deception.

The same group responsible for this ad used similar tactics in 1950 and 1954. They were soundly disavowed by the voters on both occasions. If defeated again May 6th, it will show that the people of this District prefer genuine LOYAL DEMOCRATS who tell their story straight from the shoulder and abide by the mandate of the voters in all their actions.

The EIGHT TRULY LOYAL DEMOCRATS are the only candidates in this race publicly committed NOT to TURN THE ALABAMA DEMOCRATIC PARTY over to a splinter party, or the Republican Party, or to the use of any other party.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, James E. Folsom, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 6th day of May, 1958, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The Court of Appeals is hereby constituted the Court of Criminal Appeals, which shall have final, exclusive, and irreviable supreme appellate jurisdiction coextensive with the limits of the State in all criminal and quasi-criminal cases of whatsoever grade. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have power to issue such original, remedial, and extraordinary writs as may be necessary to give it a general superintendency and control of inferior jurisdictions. The Judges of the Court of Appeals holding office at the time this amendment shall become effective, or who shall be elected to a future term on the Court of Appeals, shall constitute the judges of said court for the remainder of the terms for which they were chosen as Judges of the Court of Appeals. Appeals from death sentences shall be heard by said court augumented by four justices of the Supreme Court selected in rotation by the Chief Justice. The provisions hereof shall be self-executing."

LOCAL HOSPITAL ADMN. WRITES ON FREE ENTERPRISE AND HEALTH CARE

Our voluntary system of free enterprise has brought the people of the United States a finer quality of health care, and a wider distribution of that care than in most of the world, Albert V. Whitehall, Vice-Chairman of the Health Insurance Council said today. Mr. Whitehall, who is also Director of Health Insurance for the Life Insurance Association of America, spoke on "The Voluntary System of Financing Health Care," at the Carolinas-Virginias Hospital Conference in Roanoke, Va.

"Under our free enterprise system," Mr. Whitehall told the regional meeting of hospital administrators, "we have several hundred companies and nearly a hundred Blue Cross plans vigorously competing for the right to serve the American people. They do it by offering something better. We believe that if the American people are free to choose, and adequately informed, they'll choose the best."

This very competition has brought about several recent developments according to Mr. Whitehall. First there was the introduction of major medical expense insurance. More recently, a study in New York State showed that one-third of all employees who are covered by group plans written by insurance companies, have some health insurance benefits continued under the group policy after their retirement. This coverage has been achieved in the last five years alone.

The health insurance spokesman also reported that there has been much recent experimentation with insurance protection for the older aged. Some plans now offer health insurance policies which are paid up at age 65, and at least one company offers a policy specifically designed for people over age 65.

The challenge for Blue Cross and insurance companies, Mr. Whitehall declared, "is to continue the healthy competition on a free and equal basis." He urged that competition be based on achieving better service to the public, and that, "in this healthy competition each of us needs the other, for a monopoly would discourage progress."

Hospital care today in the United States is fine as any in the world, Mr. Whithall stated, and 70% of our population is covered by voluntary health insurance. He also pointed out that the collection rate for hospital services is 95% - 100%, with full payments for hospital care received from 90% or more patients.

One of the most dramatic aspects of the growth of voluntary health insurance, Mr. Whithall said, is the change in hospital financing. Since most hospital income today is controlled by the patient, a new concept has developed for hospitals: "The sale of their service to a discriminating purchases."

"Hospital money in the future," he predicted, "will come from the public you serve -- from the patient who is pleased that he is able, with the help of insurance or otherwise, to afford your best care." The alternative, he cautioned, "is to have all your money come from a single, central source, subject to monopolistic controls and political pressures."

The Health Insurance Council is a federation of eight insurance associations, whose members account for more than 90 % of the voluntary health insurance in force through insurance companies in the United States. — James N. Sudduth.

How Much Does It Cost To Run An AIR CONDITIONER?

How much does it cost to run an air conditioner?

That Depends--

1. On how much space you want to air condition
2. On whether or not the air conditioner is of the right size for the job you want it to do
3. On how many hours each day you use it
4. On how hot it is outside and how cool you want it inside
5. On other conditions such as how often the doors are opened and left open
6. On whether or not the space to be cooled is suitably insulated
7. On how much shade the house gets
8. On whether or not the air conditioner is properly located
9. On having wiring that will deliver to it the amount of current it needs to operate most efficiently
10. On how often the air filters are cleaned or replaced

The purpose of this advertisement is to invite your attention to conditions which affect the cost of operating any kind of air conditioner. Some of these conditions, such as the weather, can't be changed. Others you may want to correct. Under some combinations of the conditions listed above the operating cost of an air conditioner may be as much as $10 per ton (or horsepower) per month.

As in the case of any electrical appliance, the operating cost of an air conditioner depends entirely upon the amount of current used.*

*Urban residential customers who use 100 kilowatt-hours a month pay an average of only about 2½ cents a kilowatt-hour. Those using 250 a month pay only 2-1/5 cents a kilowatt-hour, and those using 1,363 or more kilowatt-hours a month pay an average of less than 1½ cents a kilowatt-hour — 1-4/10 cents to be exact.

Local Farmers Make Good, FHA Credit

Farm families in Chilton County who are using credit obtained through the Farmers Home Administration are making efficient use of the funds according to a report by the agency's county supervisor, Isaac C. Byrd.

Many farmers are using the loan funds to obtain higher grade livestock including dairy animals, to improve their pastures, to buy proper types and amounts of fertilizer and to finance similar step toward better farming.

The Farmers Home Administration provides loans to farm better, buy or improve farms, build or repair farm buildings, improve soil and waters conservation practices, meet emergency needs, or take care of certain refinancing problems, Mr. Byrd said.

Farmers Home Administration credit is supplied on the basis of supplementing credit from other sources, he explained. The loans are available only when other lenders are not in position to supply the credit the farmers need to get the greatest possible returns from their land and family labor resources.

In addition to credt, farmers with Farmers Home Administraton loans receve necessary aid with farm and home management problems and in keeping records that help them to keep their farm business on a sound financial basis.

THE first person to give advise is generally the last person to take it.

THE faster the pace, the easier for trouble to over take you.

TO reach the front many a man has to be kicked in the rear.

BE as courteous to others as you like others to be to you.

A pessimist is a sentimental optimist who expected too much

TOO many people try to atone for a mispent past by givin advice.

LET'S KEEP IT FAIR--

The Chilton County News is not taking any advertising or letters this week which attack another candidate or his record.

As we see it, anyone who wished to criticise another candidate or attack his record had six or eight weeks to make his complaints known. But, waiting until the last issue before election is another thing. It does not give the one who is being criticized a chance to answer any charges or criticisms as this is the last issue of either county newspaper before the election on May 6th.

Until this week it has been a most fairly fought campaign and if it is within the power of the press to keep it that way -- that we intend to do.

On May 6, go to the polls and vote your conviction. Find out all you can about the various candidates and then cast your vote.

Who you vote for is your business -- but vote.

WE STAND OUT JUST LIKE A SORE THUMB--

Enough cannot be said for the handful of individuals who have worked so untiringly to bring good business and prosperity to Chilton County.

By the same token something should also be said of those who seem to have the position, ability and the desire to keep any and all new business from coming into our County.

Development of the Coosa River, or the lack of it, is a good excuse for our mediocrity in the advance of new business, but from the inside looking out, the excuse is rather a feeble one.

We are fully aware of the expression of some that though there is much talk of boosting and getting new industry for our County, that little is actually done about it.

If this be the case; why?

Why is their a citizen, businessman, in Chilton County who has the power to say whether we do or do not have new industry here.

There have been entirely too many cases of "nearly but not quite' and we feel that something should be done about the leak in our sincere desire to have new industry here.

It is entirely up to you as a citizen to speak up and say something about this bridling of our natural resources and abilities to compete with other counties, not even up to our standards and certainly not near our size. It is a disgrace. Will you do something about it or will you continue to sit back on your Southern complacency and be satisfied with the crumbs of our County's prosperity?

NEW INDUSTRIES: New industry creates new jobs and brings more POCKET DOLLARS to you. I will immediately put into effect a plan based on sound business principles to strengthen present State facilities seeking to bring new industries to Alabama and personally devote whatever time is necessary to assist our community leaders in bringing new industries to their towns.

POCKET DOLLARS

WATERWAYS AND DOCKS: Our inland docks and waterways and our State Docks at Mobile are Alabama's greatest natural assets in attracting new industries and expanding those industries we now have. We must have a channel to link the fresh waters of North Alabama with the salt water at Mobile. This channel and more new docks are a definite and immediate part of my plan for more POCKET DOLLARS for you.

Old Timer Recalls—

Trials and Tribulations of Bridge Across The River Coosa

When the Alabama Power Company received the "Go Ahead" signal from Washington to build Mitchell dam on the Coosa River, Chief Engineer O. G. Thurlow, and Vice-President R. A. Mitchell stated that the dam would provide for a bridge on top of it. The next day Alabama Highway Director Kelly was told what the Power Company officials had stated and he and Col. Mitchem were asked to see that such plans were carried out.

Later we heard that the Alabama Power Company had changed their plans from a bridge to wires on top of the dam. We went to see Mr. Keller and he could not remember knowing anything about the bridge until Col. Mitchel reminded him of being informed before the dam was started, and of his promise to see that it was built in that way. He then told us we would have to call on the commissioners Courts of Coosa and Chilton counties and let them handle it.

The courts of the two counties asked for a conference with the Alabama Power Company officials at the dam and at this conference the counties asked the Alabama Power Company to carry out their original plans for the bridge on top of the dam. The Power Company officials stated that no request had been made for a bridge and since it was to their interest to have wires they had changed plans too far with work on the dam to change back to a bridge. The Alabama Power Company paid Chilton County $5,000.00 to release them from any damages for closing roads and ferries in Chilton County. All this was in 1921 as they had gotten their permit from Washington on July 1, 1921.

In 1930 after the State of Alabama graded the road from Rockford to the Verbena crossing on Highway 31, about a mile above Verbena, crossing the Coosa River at the old E. E. Estes Ferry (Private ferry) this road was named "Highway 22" from Rockford to Verbena and the commissioners Courts of Chilton and Coosa Counties, together with a number of interested citizens met at the ferry to try to work out some plan to get a bridge across the river. It was agreed to contact the State Highway Department and see what could be done. After working on this matter for several years a committee from both counties ,together with the commissioners from both counties went to Montgmery and since the Highway Department told us that they could not build the bridge but would give us $50,000.00 toward a bridge if we could finance the balance of an estimated $375,000.00 and recommended that we contact the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, we went there. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation proposed to finance the construction if each county would pledge certain proportion of the road and bridge revenues to apply to the repayment of the loan until all had been paid.

We recessed so that each county could hold ther own meeting during such recess and when we came back together that afternoon, the Chilton County Court agreed to meet such terms but Coosa County refused. The loan was not made and we had no bridge. However, soon after that time the State of Alabama took over the ferry and has operated it as a free ferry since that time, and Highway 22 was paved in 1943.

When the Legislature assembled in 1947, and I was serving in the Senate, the first request I made of Governor Folsom was that he bridge the Coosa River on Highway 22. He promised to do so provided he could get the money. The Administration had a bill introduced authorizing a Bond Issue for Roads and Bridges. It never reached the floor as it was killed in the Committee.

In the first regular session of the Legislature a "Bridge Bill" was written and Highway 22 Bridge was among the first listed. Before enough co-operation could be obtained to pass it, there were so many bridges on it that it would have required a Bond Issue to pass it ,so it was not introduced.

In the second session of Governor Folsom's first administration he arranged with a Decatur Bank to finance the building of four (4) bridges and the one across the Coosa on Highway 22 was one of them. Then the president of the Alabama Automobile Association enjoined him to prevent building any of the bridges. It was fought through the courts and when the Supreme Court ruled that the bridges could be built it was too near the end of his administration for Governor Folsom to go ahead with it. Then the Persons Administration tried to start the bridge but a party owning some of the necessary Right-of-way for the bridge refused to sell at any price and it had to be condemned. Before this could be cleared the Persons Administration was about out and Governor Folsom was back in office. He proceeded at once to take up this bridge matter and to carry out his promise made to me in 1947.

The Right-of-Way had all been deeded the approaches prepared to where work on the bridge proper could be done, the financing nearly complete and we hope to see the bridge open to the public before this year is over. — W. A. Gulledge

AN OPEN LETTER

It seems to me that we have come to a place in state politics when people must vote intelligently and with reason, rather than because of passionate appeal. Certainly oratory has its place on the political scene, but even an orator should at least TRY to stick to the truth. Many untruths are being told concerning the industrial growth of Alabama, both present and future. As chairman of the Alabama Planning and Industrial Development Board, I feel that the truth should be known.

The State of Alabama has two acts whereby a municipality can issue tax free bonds for the financing of new industry. One of these acts, the Cater Act, has been in existence for twelve years. A similar act was passed seven years ago. I do not minimize either of these acts. All of us who are interested in the industrial growth of the State, welcome any gimmick which will attract industry. Our new Poultry Processing plant in Cullman was planned and financed under the Cater Act. Our King Edward Cigar plant financed itself as did Cullman Lingerie and King Pharr Canning Co.

In spite of these acts, very little was done until 1955, when Governor Folsom and Mr. A. W. Todd, as commissioner of Agri-1955, Alabama has obtained new and expanded industries with-culture and Industry set up the Alabama Planning and Industrial Development Board. Since the inception of this board in a capital investment of 750 million dollars. There have been 24,000 new jobs, with 229 new plants in Alabama. Of the entire number of 229 new plants, only 28 have been built under any municipal financing plan. The rest of them, 201, have come into Alabama without municipal financing.

We value financing acts, but I say to you, as chairman of this board, that the tremendous growth which is taking place in Alabama is not due to any act, but is directly due to this department of our State Government, which was set up by Governor Folsom and Commissioner Todd. The facts are no secret, and I welcome inquires concerning actual figures.

Much has been said and written regarding Mr. Todd's repeated attacks on Secretary Benson. Let me tell you this, "right is right," and we need more men who are willing to stand up and be heard when a wrong is being committed. To those Americans who are prone to defend our present Administration, I can give you two brief illustrations regarding Mr. Todd's stand as a Democrat. I am a Baptist, as a result, I go to a Baptist Church, the next Sunday to a Methodist Church, and the following Sunday to a Catholic church, but since I am a Baptist I go to a Baptist church. Ara Democrat, Mr. Todd lives as a Democrat and votes as a Democrat.

During the last eighteen years, I have delivered a number of babies. Now, when a woman walks into my office she either is or is not. I never have seen a woman who is just a little bit pregnant. Mr. Todd is not just a little bit Democrat, and I wonder if our people realize that some of Mr. Todd's opponents forget that they were Democrats in 1952.

THE TRUTH MUST BE KNOWN!

Yours truly,
Lowell H. Clemmons, M. D.

"TIGERCRATS" SAY

LET THE ROOSTER CROW

In Biblical times there was a rooster whose crowing (in fact he crowed three times) signified the betrayal of our Lord and Savious. This must be the kind of rooster the "Tigercrats" are talking about when they say "Let the Rooster Crow." Certainly this must have been the kind of rooster that:

Crowed when by and with the help of so-called loyal Democrats the entire South was betrayed at the 1936 National Democratic Convention by the elimination of the two-thirds rule.

Crowed at the betrayal of the South at the 1948 Convention when that great Southerner and Champion of states rights, Jimmy Byrnes, was cast aside for the nomination of Harry Truman.

Crowed at the betrayal when this same South-hating Harry Truman, acting through certain so-called loyal democrats from this state, brought about pressure to punish those who would not vote for him by imposing a loyalty pledge and otherwise punishing LOYAL ALABAMA DEMOCRATS WHO PUT THEIR STATE PATRIOTISM ABOVE THE PARTY.

Crowed at the betrayal of the South when these same so-called loyal Democrats from this state chose to go along with Walter Reuther, Hubert Humphries, Eleanor Roosevelt, et al at the 1952 Convention in exchange for the sop of a vice-presidential nomination.

Crowed at the betrayal in 1956 when the so-called loyal Democrats went to the Convention pledged beforehand to an out and out integration candidate, Adlia Stevenson.

Crowed when, after the unforgetable Republican engineered Little Rock tragedy, this same Adlai Stevenson betrayed the South when he "crowed" that the action had not been quick enough nor severe-enough.

Crowed at the betrayal of every white person in Alabama when the "Tigercrats" qualified a Negro, "Tiger" Thompson, to run for Lt. Governor while at the same time denying this privilege to many white life-long Democrats of this state.

Crowed or rather "squawked" when these same "Tigercrats" clipped his feathers and robbed him of his traditional meaning by REMOVING HIS "WHITE SUPREMACY" LABEL IN A DESPICABLE EFFORT TO WOO THE NEGRO VOTE OF THIS STATE.

"The Tigercrat Rooster"

This is the way that Rooster Looks.

Loyal Alabama Democrats also say:

LET the ROOSTER CROW

But here is the way our rooster looks. The original Democratic rooster of the party of our forefathers.

The candidates for State Democratic Committee listed below will restore the old rooster, with the White Supremacy label of the party of our forefathers to the Democratic Party in Alabama.

A Message to YOU From Horsley White

To the Voters of Chilton County:

May I urge each of you to go to the polls on May 6 and cast your ballot to determine who will serve you in the Offices of our County.

My record as your Circuit Clerk shows that my duties have been handled without favor or prejudice to any one. I am running only for my own office, and I am not obligated to any group of any kind My only obligation is to carry out my duties according to the laws of the State of Alabama, as they apply to this office. In my work I have become thoroughly familiar with the operations of this office and feel I can now give better service than ever.

I would commend my honorable opponent for the clean manner in which he has conducted his campaign.

Although, because of the duties of my office, I have been unable to see each of you, and until I am priviledged to talk to you in person, I do, hereby, solicit your vote and influence. I have been in all sections of the County and I have been greatly encouraged by numerous friends and I do thank all of you for your support and good will. I feel sure you will express your confidence and trust in me, when you vote for Horsley White for Circuit Clerk on May 6th. THANK YOU!

(Pd. Pol. Adv. by Horsley White, Clanton, Alabama.)

To The Voters Of Chilton County

On May 6, the voters of Chilton County have the opportunity to elect a business man as their representative to the Legislature and we are referring to C. B. (Charlie) Cox who has the experience of many years in business and also in the State Capital at Montgomery.

He has operated saw mills, built roads, built power lines, built bridges and knows the needs of the county and the average citizen.

With his connections in Montgomery he can get more for Chilton County than any man in the race for Representative and knows where to go, and who to see, to get it.

On May 6 cast your vote for C. B. Cox. He is the man who will do the best job for Chilton County. Signed: Earl Gore, S. H. Lockhart, W. A. Broadhead, H. G. Popwell, John B. DeRamus, and N. G. Smith.

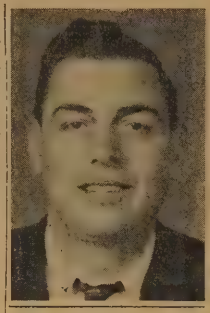
CLEANING FLUID

Bill Porter Appeals To Voters Last Time



I have been running for Member of the Board of Revenue and Control from District Two since February 1, 1958. I have seen the people all over Chilton County. I have done my best to see as many as possible to request that you vote for me on May 6.

I have made one promise, and that is to make the best Member of the Board of Revenue and Control possible. I intend to build as many paved roads as is possible without putting the County in debt. I feel that every home owner and taxpayer should have a good road to his door.

I favor the County Unit System of road building and road maintenance. It has accomplished much and can accomplish more. At all times I shall strive for full value from every County dollar spent.

I promise to abide by the wishes of the people on all issues that arise in the County government. I promise to cooperate with the elected officials of the County on all matters.

Again, I want to thank you for the encouragement you have given me. I will appreciate your vote on next Tuesday, May 6th. — Bill Porter, Route 1 Jemison Alabama.

(Paid Political Adv. by Bill Porter Rt. 1, Jemison Alabama.)

To The People Of CHILTON COUNTY

In asking your consideration for me in the present race for Member of Board of Revenue and Control, District No. 2 I would like to again state that Chilton County is my home and that I am sincerely interested in all of it's problems. As a citizen, father, taxpayer and farmer I have every reason to be interested in the things that will benefit or hinder the progress of our County. I have no personal problems or personal gain as my objective in this race.

I am solely interested in making progress in a manner that will be most beneficial to the people of Chilton County.

I have tried to promote my Counties farm interests for many years and in many ways. I feel that there are many jobs available to our boys, girls, men and women today that had I been selfish in my occupation might not now be available. I will strive as a member of your County's Governing body to bring anything our way that will be helpful to us in anyway. Better roads, schools, markets, more industry, better protected forest, more health or recreational facilities or what ever is within the grasp of your Board members that will create a more favorable living condition for all of us.

You that I have had the pleasure of contacting have been thoughtful and congenial and may I thank you. To you whom it has not been possible for me to see may I say that I hoped very much to contact every voter or citizen of Chilton County and am making every effort to do so. Should I fail as I'm sure I will to see each of you, you may feel sure that I have your interest at heart and trust you will see fit to give me your support in the coming election. I have made only one promise to the people as I have made my campaign and that was to keep my nose out of the other man's race and to serve you to the very best of my ability if elected. I continue this promise and wish success to every other candidate who is sincerely interested in doing right and working for our County's betterment whoever they may be.

May you as voters give thought to your selection and abide in all cases by what is right.

If elected to the place for which I am asking I will serve you as a brother citizen and not as a politician. Hoping you will give me consideration and pledging again to serve you to the best of my ability.

THANK YOU.

Pick asparagus before it becomes too large and tough. The best asparagus is tender, firm, with close compact tips. This is best for freezing, too. Since tips need less cooking than stems, tie them in bunches and stand the stalks upright in a deep pan. Stems thus will be boiled lightly and the tips will cook in steam.

Along with the above pledges I would like to say that I have enjoyed very much talking with the people in all sections of the County the past few weeks. . .I feel that I have made many life - long friends that otherwise I might never have known. I want to thank each of you for the words of encouragement and warm welcome you have given me. This has made my campaign much more enjoyable.

I realized at the beginning that I was not known in all sections of the County. I have worked hard trying to overcome this by seeing as many as possible, but now that time is running out, I know that I will miss seeing many of you. This I regret very much. To you that I have been unable to see, I hope you will take this as a personal visit as it has not been my intention to by pass anyone.

I entered this race on my own, not being attached to or sponsored by any group or clique. I am still on my own and will remain that way, striving to serve you, all the people of Chilton County.

I appreciate the courteous manner in which my opponents have conducted their campaigns.

Again I would like to thank the people for any consideration thus far extended, and any support you can give me on May 6th. I assure you it will be deeply appreciated.

VOTE FOR

BERNARD L.

ADAMS

"Your Friend With Ability & Stability"

YOUR VOTE & INFLUENCE APPRECIATED!

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the wonderful reception I have received during my campaign. I wish I could visit and talk with every voter of the County for your views and opinions are the ones I want to listen to and abide by. I find it impossible to see all the voters for I was busy day and night filing income tax returns for my clients through April 15th. I now apologize to the voters whom I will not be able to contact and I hope you will understand for I do want your vote and influence.

Quinton Cummings Makes Final Appeal

I am running from the Second District as a Member of the Board of Revenue and Control. I feel that any of you know me through my large family connection. To those who do not I was raised in the Isabella Community. I am a graduate of Isabella High School. I am married and the father of two children. We are active members of the Mulberry Baptist church.

My brother and I own and operate a dairy near the [illegible] have been [illegible] farmers [illegible] ing in Chilton and Walker Counties. After World War II, I was a Veteran [illegible] in [illegible] like to make a special request to the many Veterans whom I taught and was associated with during that time to vote for me. I have also served on the Loan Committee with the Farmers Home Administration in Chilton County.

I realize that there are many responsibilities, many requests of various types and problems connected with the office of the Board of Revenue and I promise you with all sincerity and a feeling of humility that if you see fit to elect me Tuesday, as a member of your Board that I shall strive hard and honestly to give you reason to be proud of voting for me.

I am strictly running on my own and will have a free hand to act in your behalf if you see fit to elect me. I am opposed to selfish factions in any branch of our government. I shall make an honest effort to restore harmony in our local government. Your wishes will be first and foremost when I take office and I assure you that I will not act or serve as a rubber stamp for any person, group or faction should you see fit to elect me. I believe in good roads and more of them, but what good will they do buy vehicles and gasoline to operate us if we don't have the money to on the paved roads. We need more payrolls in this County and I will cooperate to the fullest extent in helping bring them to our fine County. I believe in going forward - we can not stand still. Our school buildings in this County are inadequate, too small and understaffed in most cases - our teachers are underpaid - I assure you that I shall do everything within my power to correct these deplorable conditions. Our old people should have more attention, and more consideration of their care, and more of the tax dollars. I know the value of a dollar and, if you see fit to elect me, I assure you that I will do everything within my power to see that you get dollar for dollar value in the operation of your County Government. I promise you that my official decisions and actions in your behalf will be in accordance with your wishes and good sound business principles. I promise to work in harmony with your other duly elected members of the Board.

The time is short and you will vote Tuesday. To those whom I have not seen, consider this a personal request and a personal appeal for you to cast your vote for Quinton R. Cummings on Tuesday.

(Pr. Pol. Adv. by Quinton R. Cummings.)

To The Voters of Chilton County

I am sorry that I have been unable to contact all of the voters but it is almost impossible to see all the voters in the county. I am running on my record as a life long citizen of Chilton County, and on my record as a representative in the legislature. If you elect me to the legislature, I will promise you that I will represent Chilton County and the people that are in it. I notice some of the candidates have been outlining their past business activities. I have had a lot of business experiences in different lines of work. I have built power lines; built roads and bridges; I followed sawmilling for several years; I have served 12 years of the last 20 with the State Highway Department, which gives me an inside with the Highway Department. If you elect me as your representative, it will put me in a position to be of a lot of help to the road program in Chilton County. That is on account of my connection in Montgomery.

I would like to mention some of the projects that I promoted and got finished while I was in the legislature. I was able to get two ire towers in Chilton County; I got the streets widened through Thorsby and Clanton; I got the death trap straightened out just north of Calera on Highway 31, and the one at Mt. Creek; I got the Montevallo Cut-Off paved, and the road to Isabella School paved.

I am interested in trying to help straighten out our school problem. I think the first bill that is filed with the legislature when the legislature meets should be House Bill Number One, which will straighten out our school situation. We need more school buildings, and more school teachers. A principal in one of the high schools in Chilton County tells me that he has as high as 60 pupils in one room under one teacher. I think that it a bad situation and needs correcting.

I have served on the Rules Committee both times I have served in the legislature, which is the most powerful committee they have. The Rules Committee setts up the calendar. If I should be on the Rules Committee in the next legislature. I will try to see to it that House Bill Number One, which affects the schools, will stay at the top of the calendar until it is passed.

Secon, I would like to see a Bill passed in Legislature, if it is the will of the people, whereby members of the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County be elected by the voters in their home district.

During the latter part of the twenties I had as much as three million dollars worth of road work at one time, and was under bond for that amount. My business experience has been with City, County, State and Federal officials.

I wish to thank the voters of Chilton County for all the courtesies they have shown me during my campaign, and to tell them that my chances for election as representative from Chilton County looks very encouraging. — Sincerely, C. B. Cox.

"Middle age is when two of everything is too much—including chins!"

Lead me in Thy truth, and teach me: for Thou art the God of my salvation; on Thee do I wait all the day.—(Psalm 25. 5.)

Our Heavenly Father is the source of all wisdom, as He is of all love and all good and all mercy. Why should not we, His children, gladly take all our problems to Him, seeking in prayer His guidance and, receiving it, obeying? For then we shall be wonderfully confident and strong.

I would lke to take this opportunity ,to express my sincere appreciation to each of my supporters and friends for their encouraging efforts in my behalf since I have announced myself as a candidate for the Board of Revenue and Control District One.

I am fully aware of the responsibilities that will be placed upon me if elected to this position, and I am prepared to accept each one and work with and for the citizens of this county to make it a greater asset to Alabama than it has previously been. I also maintain that if elected to this office I will work honestly and cooperatively with my co-workers in an effort to strengthen the unity in our county.

To the many citizens of Chilton county who have known me for years, I have little need for reference to my personal life. I have upright social life with due respect always lived a clean, honest and and love for any family and fellowmen.

I pledge to do all in my power to keep the affairs of the office for which I am a candidate just as clean and honest, if the voters and citizens of this progressive county extend to me the privilege and duty of serving them in this office.—J. M. ELLISON.

TINGLE LEADS IN PROBATE RACE; CHAMPION HEADLEY, SPEAKS WIN WITHOUT A RUNOFF

by Ben

Did you ever have to eat your words? Well, we have to eat ours Tuesday in the barber shop we were discussing the election with a group when Ollie Blalock spoke up as he usually does and said the top men would be Wallace and Patterson in the Governor's race. Herman Lecroy said it would be Patterson and Wallace and we said it would be Wallace and Faulkner. By this time you know how wrong we were but we're glad of one thing. We spoke our words soft and sweet—they're easier to digest that way.

One fellow told us Wednesday morning he was going to contest the election. He said he voted for Shorty Price and if you will take a look at the returns you'll see Shorty got nothing but a flock of goose eggs. He claims his man was counted out.

The Clanton Park and Recreation Sofeball League will play their first game of the season Monday night at 7 o'clock. The first game will be played between Standard Oil and the Civitans. The second game between Chicago Wright and Bell Lane. On Tuesday night Liberty Hill will play Alabama Furniture Co. and Bell Lane play Standard Oil Co. The League has six teams participating this year. The officers are V. L. Bulger, pres-sect'y Buddy Taylor, Treas., W. H. Klinner official score keeper and player agent. Next week read this newspaper for team roster.

Can't help but admire the efficiency of the Bell Telephone operators on nights like last Tuesday—election night. They handle all calls courteously and with the greatest ease. And believe us, that is a night to confuse anyone. They handle volumns of calls on this night & we believe the general public fails to appreciate them in their effort to give the ultimate in service. They are to be commended.

Never let it be said that we are unpatriotic when so much interest is shown in an election as was shown in the Democratic Primary of Tuesday. Literally everybody and his brother either sits at the courthouse, waits in cars or calls the newspapers constantly wanting to know the latest results. The television is great for this purpose to those in the big city -- but it's the local election the local people are most interested in. And for interest displayed, Tuesday night was outstanding.

The young people of the Seventh Day Adventist Church are having a series of interesting meetings They present a movie and several of the young people give short talks This get-to-gether is each Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The State Highway Patrol reports for Chilton County for April shows 12 accidents; 3 injuries; no fatalities; $6,100.00 property damage. A pretty good report we call it for the volumn of traffic on our highways day and night. The highway patrolman is the hardest worked fellow we know and you will be doing yourself and him a big favor if you take it easy and drive a little more carefully.

Local Farmers Have Strong Opinions On Thinning Peaches

Producing size and quality of fruit is the main job every peach grower strives for. And so, a lot of time is being spent in the orchards spacing fruit on all varieties because of such a heavy crop being set.

The County Agent's Office, for the past few weeks, has been emphasizing the importance of this thinning chore and encouraging all growers to do a good job.

Quoted below are statements from buyers, packers, and growers on their thinking in regards to thinning:

A. D. Headley Packer in Thorsby area, "Thinning is a must if we are to hold our place in the markets. If we have size and quality in our peaches, we will have no troubel selling them. Good stuff markets itself, where poor quality must be marketed and sometimes does not return profitable dividends We are in line with other peach producing areas in ripening dates and we must have size and quality to sell to meet this competition, ac thinning is a must."

Delbert and Carlton Collins -- producers in Thorsby area. "We have been thinning some every year when it is necessary. You just can't have quality unless you do. We have learned from broken trees and small peaches that it is necessary to thin. If there was ever a time to thin peaches, this is the year. You can always sell a big peach, when a small peach won't sell at all."

Reedie Culp, Jemison area, Packer easy to sell -- little peaches are and Producer. "Big peaches hard to give away, so thinning is very important. Thinning this year is most important because a big crop is in the making, and unless growers have two inch peaches or better they will be hard to sell. To get two inch or better peaches you will have to thin."

Clyde Headley -- producer and packer of Fairview Community "When you thin peaches you don't lose bushels of marketable peaches but get better size and quality. The market outlook is good if we have quality and size."

Sam Bentley, producer and packer of Thorsby area. "I am thinning peaches to six inch spacing on all trees, Size of peaches this year will in several years in the past. I feel be more important than it has been that thinning is a must this year in order to produce size of peaches the market will use."

Horace Popwell, Clanton area producer. "The buyers want a peach that is 2|14 " and up in diameter and the only way to get this size is to thin to 8-inch spacing on early varieties and 4 to 5 inches on regular varieties.

Charles "Chuck" Copple - Buyer Centralia, Illionis. "The market this year will demand a 2|14" peach and up, and thinning is necessary to get this size of peach you can sell."

Troy Cribb & Son, Peach Distributor, Spartanburg, S. C. (one of the largest distributors of Chilton County peaches.- - "I can't think of any one job a man can do in his orchard that will pay better dividends than thinning. Of course you have to do every thing else-pruning spraying, etc., but if you don't thin the fruit - all the rest won't do much good. I would say that we have the largest crop in the Southeast that we have had for several years - probably since 1947. I don't think we could consider finding a satisfactory market for anything but large, well-colored fruit. If a man comes up with poor color, poor size in his fruit, he will also come up with a poor market and probably cannot sell his fruit For that reason I think everyone should do a good job of thinning, prunining and spraying."

LATEST BULLETIN ON PEACH POLL

Reports from County Agent Red Glasscock early Wednesday morning were that the unusually severe weather for this late in the season had no apparent ill effect on Chilton's big peach crop.

A check from the Experimental station and Mr. Chick Carlton verified this and his only concern was "thinning now!"

So far as could be determined when the News went to bed the low of 43 degrees early Wednesday did little if any damage to Chilton's number one interest at the present -- her all-important crop of peaches.

PEOPLE who have nothing to worry about get fat and worry about that.

BE satisfied to take things as they come or you won't get much.

THE cronic knocker soon finds that the field is badly overcrowded.

THE man who is fired with enthusiasm is seldom fired off the job.

THE luxury of a clear conscience is something everyone can afford.

LITTLE white lies often leave little blue marks on a good reputation.

IT'S PEACH FESTIVAL TIME ---

The past week the various committees have been working on plans for the 1958 Peach Festival. The advertising Committee will contact you for support if they haven't already done so, and the publicity committee, especially Chairman Red Glasscock is working overtime to make the Festival this year the biggest ever.

Geoffry Birt, State Director of Publicity, will have news mats of the peaches, both kinds, and mail them to every newspaper in the state to insure a wide coverage.

A national magazine advertising the beauties of Alabama will contain advertising this month featuring Chilton County's Peach Festival, so with everyone working to this end there is no reason why this should not be the biggest Festival of them all.

Taking it from the growers viewpoint, from all indications it will be a bumper year for the lucious fruit, the market promises to be good, and at this late date there should be no doubt that Chilon County is headed for a big year in the peach industry.

Get behind the Chairman, Red Glasscock and his workers. Offer your services and do whatever you can to help. It is not only yourcivic duty -- what benefits the farmers in Chilton County, benefits you.

WE NEED A LICENSING BOARD OF INSPECTION ---

One of the most important service businesses of our community is that of the qualified electrician. Not only is industrial wiring and efficiency important, but household appliances and hookups are very necessary and should be kept in top shape and at maximum efficiency.

Clanton has long noted for its lack of electrical service. By this we mean, it is definitely hard to find an electrician on a moments notice who is qualified to do the job.

This is no reflection on the qualified electricians in our fair City, but it does reflect the fact that those who are qualified are obviously overworked or they wouldn't be so hard to locate. In other words; good electricians are scarce.

In a City the size of Clanton we should have a plentiful supply of good electrical men. Why then, don't we? Some indications seem to point to the fact that we don't have a board of inspectors or licensing board to protect qualified electricians from the general public getting a license whenever and however they please. In other words it is too easy to get a license.

This may not seem like a problem to you, but when it effects the safety of your home's wiring system, then you have cause for concern. It is obvious that a person who is not qualified in the field cannot know the requirements and standards of good, safe house wiring. The fact that anyone can be licensed for electrical work and can charge pretty much what they please is enough to keep any individual from setting up a business unprotected against the general uncertainty of how to survive against competitive prices.

If Clanton had specifications that were rigid enough only to be met by a qualified electrician we would have more and better electrical service and less faulty wiring jobs. Also, we think it only fair for a trade requiring skill to be protected by the community which it serves.

Armed Forces Day -- May 17th

ARMED FORCES DAY — 1958 will see more missiles in operation and under development in the U. S. Armed Forces than ever before. Service missiles shown above are (left to right): U. S. Navy TERRIER, a surface-to-surface missile aboard the USS Boston; U. S. Army JUPITER-C, the rocket which launched the first U. S. earth satellite, the EXPLORER; and U. S. STATE JOINS NATIONAL SALUTE TO CIVIL SERVICE'S 75th B'DAY

140,000 Alabamians in Civil Service:

Seventy-five years of civil service in the U. S. is being saluted this year by officials of all levels of government, it is announced.

In Montgomery, State Personnel Director J. Stanley Frazer said the National Civil Service League had notified him this year the Advertising Council Inc. "is joining with the league to help focus attention on the Civil Service." James A. Simpson of Birmingham represents this area of the nation as a Vice-President of the National Civil Service League.

Frazer said the first civil service systems in this country were established by the Federal Government and New York City and State in 1883. "The Merit System has shown steady progress throughout the past 75 years," the State Personnel Director pointed out, "so that today it has spread to 24 States, including Alabama, and into over 900 of the nation's 1,400 cities which have a population in excess of 10,000 people."

Birmingham and Jefferson County, Montgomery and Montgomery County, and Mobile, as well as several smaller cities have civil service covering all or part of their employees.

Frazer said: "The importance of Merit System laws is evident in the substantial ratio of public employment compared to total employment in the State.

"Of the 718,000 Alabamians in non-agricultural employment, 140,000 work for some branch of the Federal, State or local government. With one out of every five workers in the State employed in the public service", he said, "the manner and condition of their selection and retention is a matter of major importance."

A Worthwhile Creed

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.

To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet.

To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.

To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.

To think only of the best, to work only for the best and to expect only the best.

To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own.

To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to greater achievements of the future.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.

To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticise.

To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble. — Christian D Larson.

The Worthwhile Creed came out in April Business Booster of Woodmen Circle Magazine. I thought it was worth passing on.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the 1958 corn acreage may be the smallest in many years.

CONGRESS ASKED TO NAME FORT TOULOUSE, NATL. MONUMENT

Congress is to be asked to name Fort Toulouse, on the banks of the Alabama River near Wetumpka a national monument. A delegation will leave for Washington May 18 for committee hearings in the nation's capital.

It was at Fort Toulouse that William Weatherford, the Indian half-breed chief, surrendered to Andrew Jackson shortly after Old Hickory had defeated the Greek Nation at the nearby Battle of Horseshoe Bend was recently declared a National Military Park by an act of Congress signed into law by the President.

Nothing remains of the Fort today, which stood on a high bluff commanding a curve in the river. A stone monument marks its site.

Fort Toulouse was built by the French in 1714 and surrendered to the British in 1763. During the British trader days some 30 houses were located in the compact village, and the prosperous inhabitant had large herds of cattle ranging in the 3,000 acres of canebrake pasture around the town.

Congressman Kenneth Roberts, in whose District Fort Toulouse is located, will be in charge of the delegation in Washington, which will include a representative of Gov. James E. Folsom, and spokesmen for the State Conservation Department and State Publicity and Information Bureau.

But let all those that put their trust in Thee rejoice: let them ever shout for joy, because Thou defendest them. —(Psalm 5, 11.)

The most wonderful feeling of strength and joy will come to us and fill us when, instead of giving in to worry and despair, we truly put our trust in God, Our Heavenly Father—when we trust in His mercy and love, His goodness and wisdom. Why should we try to bear our burdens alone?

"Speaking about the speed of light—it gets here too early in the morning!"

The official ARMED FORCES DAY poster emphasizes the fact that our national POWER FOR PEACE is not based upon military forces alone but is dependent upon the home, the church, the school, our productive resources, and our Government. The poster is also available in 1-column mats.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The House of Representatives last Thursday approved a measure designed to assist states in making additional payments to idle workers who have already exhausted their unemployments compensation benefits. The approved bill was offered on the floor of the House as a substitute for a costlier measure reported earlier by the Ways and Means Committee.

The committee bill would have offered additional unemployment compensation to any one unable to get a job, regardless of whether they had ever been covered under federal or state unemployment prigrams. Also, under the committee measure payments would have been extended for an additional 16 weeks. Passage of the committee bill would have cost the government more than -1.5 billion.

The substitute bill provides loans rather than grants, to states requesting such assistance. Under its terms, a state will receive an amount sufficient to pay unemployed individuals for half again as many weeks as they are presently allowed. For instance, if a state makes payment for 16 consecutive weeks to those unable to obtain jobs, the time could be increase to 24 weeks with the use of federa funds.

STATE LAWS APPLY

Federal funds available under th House-approved measure will be ad ministered according to existin state laws, and only persons prev iously covered under a state federal program are eligible.

Proponents of the substitute bi pointed out that the measure o fered by the Ways and Mean Committee contained no provision for policing the program and tha in the end, it would have encour aged willful idleness.

MILITARY PAY BILL

Members of the Senate last wee approved a slightly different ver sion of the military pay raise bi that had been passed earlier by th House, and the measures are no under consideration by a conferenc committee.

Both bills provide at least six pe cent increases for members of th armed services including those i a retired status. The House bi would cost more since it gives lar ger increases in certain grades. Un like the House version, however the Senate measure contains a pro vision for permitting extra pay t certain high-ranking officers in po sitions of critical responsibility. Th conference committee must neces sarily iron out the differences i the two bills.

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

Bobby [illegible], manager of the local branch of Sherwin-Williams Paint Company has set the date for the opening of their modern business concern in Clanton on 7th Street. The business will take over the spot formerly occupied by the Wadesonian Theatre and has been completely renovated and modernized for Sherwin-Williams. Bob says that they will probably be in business by the 19th of this month and that a Grand Opening is hoped for around the first of June. Brother Lane was formerly associated with Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company and is well-known and liked throughout Chilton County. If you don't know him, look for their opening date and drop by and get acquainted with another of Clanton's growing population of top-flight and well-trained businessmen.

People are funny. And so it goes. . .no matter how many times parents are warned about this or that they still, according to most do-gooders, cannot raise their children properly. We don't intend any prudishness when we suggest that the mothers and fathers of these young boys owning motor bikes and other vehicles in that classification check into their sons activities. Attitudes are very predictable when it comes to knowing how to respect machinery. If a person's attitude is one of indifference, he will likely wind up under the machine or in it. On the other hand, if a person is taught to respect the machine which serves him, his actions speak for themselves. These boys making mockery of all safety rules and accepted regulations of how not to break your neck or the other fellows are in for a surprise. We hope it is not a fatal one. Observing safety reminders is intelligence. . .some of these boys show a remarkable lack of observation.

We notice that the town of Presidio, Texas, on the Mexican border is in bad need of some H2O. They say that the Rio Grande has been reduced to a shadow of its former self and they are thirsty Senor. We'll bet ole Chick Fiquette would have been glad for them to have had some of that wet stuff that was crowding his doorway Monday afternoon. It rained so hard that the gutters and drains would not take in the flow and the last time we saw Mr. Chick he was contemplating whether to get the mop or just start swimming. What we want to know is how come our gutters won't take care of this water? We realize that such a situation is irregular, but valuable stock could have been damaged ha the drenching continued. Somethin needs slanting the other way.

"Clanton is one of the coldest places we ever saw." And this statement was not with reference to our climate, but rather our hospitality. We feel the blow almost literally when something like this is said about our hometown. But, that's the opinion of even one person, then what are we going to do about it. Are we a bunch of snobs and stuff shirts that we cannot give newcomers a real Southern Hospitality welcome to our fair city. Clanton is progressing! If you don't believe it just gaze down Seventh Street or Second Avenue and observe the business improvements over the past three years. And, such being the case, let not a one of us forget that our progress depends not in the least on our hospitality and general goodwill. Next time someone moves in to town, go out of your way to welcome them with open arms. Progress is people; and to continue our progress we must have new families coming here. Remember your heritage of friendliness. It's something our neighbors up North don possess according to their own admittance and we want to continue to be noted for our home cookin' an outstretched hand.

The Dairy Herd Improvemen Program now has 2,118,374 cow enrolled in one of its three improvement programs.

EXODUS

The title of the second book of the Pentateuch is borrowed from the Greek Septuagint, in which it is called "Exodus", which means exit, or departure; i. e., from Egypt. "Exodus" is the Latin form of the Greek "Exodus". This title is descriptive particularly of the first part of the book. Likewise the Hebrew Bibles it is called Ve-he Hebrew title of this book. In Elleh Shemoth, "and these are the names; which are the words with which the book begins. Abbreviated the book is simply named, "Shemoth", "names"; that is, the names of the first Israelites in Egypt.

That Moses wrote this book, and that its composition was during the wilderness sojourn, have already been established in the article on Genesis, which shows the entire Pentateuch as the divine record by the hand of Moses. Jesus quoted from Exodus and spoke of the source as "the book of Moses". (Ex. 17:14; Mark 12:26) The book contains a history of events which occurred during the 145 years from the death of Joseph, in the year 1657 B. C., to 1512 B. C., the year of the erection of the tabernacle in the wilderness, at the foot of Mount Sinai.

In Exodus Moses narrates the rise of a new Pharaoh, one who in his envy of the prosperity of God's people launches a vigorous anti-Semitic campaign. He grinds them under the state heel by regimenting them into his public works program. The bitter bondage and oppression calls; the Hebrews continue to increase. The decree to kill all male Hebrew babes goes forth, but Moses escapes the infanticidal policy by concealment and is reared by Pharaoh's daughter. --- 1:1-2:10.

When grown, in staunchly defending his brethern he kills an Egyptian oppressor. He flees to Midian, where he marries Zipporah, the daughter of Reuel. Her flight was at the age of forty; now, forty years later, he returns to Egypt. He received a divine command to do so, in this wise: While keeping the flocks of his kinsman Jethro at the foot of Mount Sinai he was struck with the phenomenon of seeing a bush burning yet not consumed. God spoke to him from the bush. The Almighty had noted the affliction of Israel in Egypt, and here stated his purpose to deliver them, and thereby he disclosed the meaning of his name "Jehovah" to Moses Moses is appointed to rally the Israelites to godliness and to demand their release of Pharaoh that they might have freedom. --- 2:11-28.

Flanked by his brethern Aaron as spokesman, Moses convinced the Israelites of God's backing by the performance of signs. Then he faced the Egyptian Pharaoh! The result is well known. No freedom of worship! was his edict. Nothing but more work in the interests of the state, was the answer. Moses performs signs, which Pharaoh's magicians are able to duplicate to a degree; but they are quickly defeated and admit it. With devastating effect the plagues roll through the land: rivers turned to blood, frogs coming over the land lice everywhere as the dust, swarms of flies next, then the murrain of beasts, plaguing boils, a destructive hail, followed in rapid succession by plagues of locusts and darkness, the Israelites being spared from the fourth plague on. All this only served to harden Pharaoh's heart. Then the woeful tenth plague! The firstborn of Egypt slain! Before it the Passover was instituted among the Israelites on Nisan 14; after it Pharaoh was anxious for them to leave. They marched forth a free nation. --- 4:29-13:22.

But they had not seen the last of hard-hearted Pharaoh. In a final all-out drive against God's people, he, with his fighting armies, overtakes them by the Red sea. Moses stretches his rod over the waters. Miraculously an escape corridor opens for them, but is quickly converted into a deathtrap for the madly pursuing hosts of Pharaoh. The parted sea closes with destructive fury and buries Pharaoh's forces in a watery grave. And as the churning sea brings Pharaoh's career to a climactic end, the delivered Israelites sing a victory song on the shore. ---- 14:1-15:21

Thereafter the varied experiences of the wilderness sojourn begin. Jehovah sends manna to feed them; he fights for them in defeating Amalek. Moses is reunited with his family by a visit from Jethro, his kinsman. Three months after their exodus they encamp at Sinai. There the law Covenant made in Egypt at the time of the first Passover is inaugurated. Jehovah through Moses details at great length the law by which they are to be guided. It is epitomized in the Ten Commandments. It is to guide them in the worship for which they were freed. But even as it is being given to Moses, the Israelites turn to idolatrous calf-worship.

Specific commandment is received from God as to the construction of the tabernacle. The Israelites contribute liberally, and skilled craftsmen directed by Jehovah's spirit complete the work. It is reared up, an dthe priesthood, headed by Aaron, is conducted into office, on Nisan 1 of the second year after their exodus from Egypt. All is acceptable in God's sight, as manifested by a covering cloud over the tabernacle and his glory filling it. The closing verses show that as long as the cloud remained thereon the Israelites journeyed not; when it was lifted they broks camp. The cloud by day and the fire by night was comforting assurance of Jehovah's presence and watchcare. The Theocrat was guiding his typical Theocracy. -- 15:22-40:38.

Exodus is the record of the birth nation of God and of the constitutional history of Jehovah's typical and organization of the typical new Theocracy. It relates how Israel was set apart and freed to be unto Jehovah 'a peculiar treasure above all people, a kingdom of priests and a holy nation'. This is the very essence of the book.

Telephone Talk

IRVIN COMMANDER
Your Telephone Manager

OFF THE HOOK: Here's a rhyme I like. "When time has flown . . . get it back by phone!" Ever let an important date, anniversary or appointment slip by? Really puts us on the spot! Luckily, we can always phone. Just a call can get us "off the hook." Lets the person we almost forgot know in a fast, friendly way that we did remember. Sure is nice to be able to reach for a phone, for business or pleasure, across the nation or just around the corner, any day, anywhere!

. . . WHEN DO sweet dreams become a nightmare? When you need the convenience of a bedroom extension! It's real livin' to have extension phones in your home where they're handiest—in bedrooms, kitchen or den. Lots of fun to choose them in decorator colors to go with furnishings, too. And they cost less than a nickel a day each, or several for less than the cost of your main phone. To order the extensions you need, just give us a ring.

WHAT COULD BE NICER? Mother's Day is next Sunday. How about giving her an extension telephone in her favorite color—to save her time and steps all through the whole year.

Baseball Takes The Spotlight From Politics

Lions Sponsor East-West Baseball Game

The Clanton Lions Club is sponsoring the Fifth Annual Boys All-Star East-West Baseball game at City Park on Sunday, May 18 at 2 p. m. The proceeds from all try-out games and the big game scheduled for Birmingham's Rickwood Field on June 13 all go to Alabama Sight.

The local Lions have invited the baseball coaches from as far West as West Blocton all the way to Alex City and from Holtville to Calera to sent tow boys from their respective teams to comprise the teams of the East and West. Major league scouts will view our game and select two boys here as winners of a trip to Birmingham. These two boys will join the winners from six other try-out games and comprise the State team which plays one game of the double-header on June 13. The scouts will then chose three winners from that double-header and those boys will win trips to either the Sugar Bowl Game or the All Star Baseball Game

Baseball fans will recall that Howard Merrell the big 6' 5" pitcher from Columbiana, recently signed a major league contract. He failed to win in our game last year but attracted the attention of the scouts the first time he threw. Ed Hicks, the hustling first baseman from Montevallo, is doing real well in college baseball, reportedly. He won here in 1956, and went on tn wir in Birmingham, too. Some other names that have appeared on roster here in Clanton and later won greater recognition are Wayne Sims, also from Columbiana and now playing for the Crimson Tide football team Uat Duke, Centreville catcher, now a leading baseballer for Auburn, and Robert Langston, two-time winner here in Clanton and Auburn's freshman catcher last year.

Lions in Thorsby, Maplesville Montevallo and Clanton are selling tickets that will get you into three games -- one here in City Park and the double-header in Rickwood —all for one dollar. If you have ever the ounce of compassion for a fellowman a little less fortunate than you, we strongly recommend this "bargain"

(Watch this paper for full-line ut next week.)

Cotton Nearly 30 Per Cent On Farm Marketing

The importance of cotton to Alabama was re-emphasized this week by Gov. James E. Folsom who pointed out that it still accounts for 25.2 per cent of the farm marketings in the State and produces a yearly income of some $126 million.

The Governor's comment was made in a proclamation setting aside the week of May 19-24 as National Cotton Week in Alabama.

The Chief Executive also named May 22 as Maritime Day in Alabama, pointing out the importance of the Port of Mobile and the State's coastal waters to the prosperity of Alabama.

Governor Folsom also formally declared May 11 as Mother's Day in the State, thereby uniting the State with the rest of the nation's observance in giving a special indication of the love, honor, and esteem in which all mothers are held all the year round," he said.

Three Festivals Honor Alabama's Money-Makers

Three festivals which annually highlight Alabama's magnificent deep sea fishing, its great inland lakes, and luscious peaches, were again in the process of being actively organized at Mobile, Guntersville and Clanton respectively.

The three-day Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo has been scheduled for July 25-27. This is one of the nation's major sport fishing events of the year and the Rodeo's headquarters will as usual, be on Dauphin Island in Mobile Bay, which is jointed to the mainland by a trans-ocean bridge.

Details for the 19th annual Motor Boat Race festival on Lake Guntersville are expected to be firmed-up at a meeting which will be called the latter part of this month, it is announced.

In Chilton County, Farm Agent "Red" Glasscock has been named chairman of the Peach Festival which will be held June 25. Incidentally, Glasscock reports that Chilton expects a bumper crop of peaches this year.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

IF we've said it once, we've said it a thousand times, people are living too fast. Everyone has too much on their minds and they are so concerned with their own business they don't even take time to listen to what the other fellow has to say. The other night we went into the house and asked the wife, "where is Carolyn?" Her answer was. . and we quote "Oh, she's gone over to the, she's going to get caught in a downpour, is it raining hard out there?" So, naturally our answer was, 'the cat kicked over the beans and our supper is spoiled." She merely said, "that's fine, darling supper will be ready in a little while." We slunk off into the den and read until we were called. After all these years we know exactly what to do in a situation like that

READ a good one in Teamster the other day. A cowboy rushed out of a saloon, made a running broad jump and landed in his sitting-spot in the middle of the street. "Hurt yourself"? asked a bystander. "Reckon I didn't" bellowed the cowboy, dusting himself off, "but I sure would like to get my hands on the cussed varmint that moved my hoss."

National Hospital Week will be observed at the local hospital on Sunday, May 18th Visitors will be entertained throughout the day and you have a special invitation to be a guest of the Auxiliary and the Hospital staff.

GOTTA say a kind word about Burton Mullins. We certainly respect him for the way he took his defeat in the recent election. It makes politics a pleasure when a fellow can lose with a smile the way Burt did. We haven't seen "Pig", John or B L. Adams, but are sure they took their loss with the same spirit After all when a fellow goes into a race he knows from the start—there are going to be more who lose than win.

MRS. Mamie C Smith received her Mothers' Day flowers for the 38th consecutive year from Mrs. Frank Callen. Even though Mrs. Callen was in Texas she remembered her love and respect for "Mrs. Mamie C." on Mother's Day. As we understand it, it started the year Mrs Callen was married and the year she lost her own mother, and has continued, unbroken thru the years. To those who are 'just a little lower than the Angels", we pay our deepest respect and pledge our eternal devotion.

Alabama Needs Geo. C. Wallace for Gov

Chilton County News will support Judge George C. Wallace in the run-off campaign for governor which will terminate in the nomination of a Democratic nominee on June 3rd.

Our reasons are simple. First Judge Wallace has a wide experience in the political field as a legislator and as a Circuit Judge.

Judge Wallace has proven his ability as a leader worthy of the confidence and trust of the people of Alabama and has already accomplished much for the "little man".

The difference is simply this:

George Wallace is a leader.

He has a record for honesty and integrity.

He has a record of ability beyond the average.

His record is one of sound legislation and judgement for the benefit of the handicapped, the aged, the mentally afflicted, and for those less fortunate.

Judge George C. Wallace has proven himself. To support him is no gamble as to what he will do. His past performance speaks for itself.

Truly, George Wallace is "The Man of The Hour" He is the high type man that Alabama needs for Governor for the next four years.

Stop Nixon --

In answer to a rather obscure press conference question - which suggested that neither party likes "the obvious candidate to succeed you as President", and asked the Chief Executive's responsibility in encouraging "those not in political life" to seek the; job, President Eisenhower said:

"I don't have any responsibility for trying to groom any successor.'

In speaking of the Vice President, he said, "Now remember this with respect to the case between Mr. Nixon and me, we are warm friends. I admire him and respect him. I have said this dozens of times; but, more than that I have got a duty, as I see it, to keep him as well informed on the operations of this Government, all of the major decisions, as I possibly can; because, if I don't and I am incapacitated for any reason, he has to start completely new. He doesn't know where he is."

The President went on to assure his hearers that Mr. Nixon is well prepared for this eventuality. Referring again to the matter of the net candidate, he said: "...as far as I am concerned, the candidate will be named by the Republican party, and I submit that I think there is a lotof darn good men that could be used."

By this discussion the President reminded the country once more of Harold Stassen's "stop Nixon" campaign in '56 during which the Vice President received no unequivocal public support from his Chief, and following which Mr. Stassen was restored to the public payroll. In fact, it even revives memories of the 1952 charge that Mr. Nixon has used improperly a "slush fund" subscribed by a group of wealthy Californians, and when General Eisenhower adopted a hands-off policy demanding that his prospective running mate prove himself "clean as a hound's tooth".

Wherefor the question may arise in many minds whether the President would be more amenable to suggestions of retirement if his successor were someone else than Richard Nixon. At this writing such speculation seems as significant as that of who those "darn good men" may be.

National Hospital Week Is Being Observed May 11 - 17

Taken from Congressional Record, Proceedings and Debates of the 85th Congress, Second Session.

Speech of Hon. Lister Hill of Alabama In the Senate of The United States. Thursday, March 6, 1958.

Mr. Hill. Mr. President, it is my privilege to call the attention of my colleagues to the observance of National Hospital Week, May 11 through May 18, sponsored by the American Hospital Association.

Our Nation's hospitals should require no special pleading, but amidst today's international tensions we are apt to forget the importance of our community hospitals. We are apt to forget until one of us or one of our loved ones is personally in need of their vital services. Today's hospitals combine the skill and care of physicians, nurses, pathologists, radiologists, therapists, laboratory technicians, and a host of other medical specialists who devote themselves so unselfishly to the service of their fellowmen.

At this time, when our attention is so much drawn to out space and the demands for scientific achievement, we need to remind ourselves that our American hospitals stand in the vanguard of scientific progress. Today's hospitals are community centers for medical research. From hospital laboratories come some of our most powerful weapons against disease and human suffering. Many of our most effective treatments to cancer have been developed in hospital laboratories, as well as many vaccines to guard against contagious diseases.

More and more of our young men and women are today entering the hospital field as a lifetime career. They are choosing jobs that offer more than security. They are entering a field of work that yields rewards which can never be measdred in dollars and cents, but rather in terms of the satisfaction that comes from helping to save other human beings from needless agony or premature death.

The chosen theme of this year's National Hospital Week is "Careers That Count." Hospital careers constitute a frontier for the individual to express his own personality, for in the hospital, work and medical care are administered on a person-to-person basis. I hope that more of our young people will realize the list of challenging careers that are offered by today's hospitals. The list is a long one, consisting of over 200 career opportunities. Many skills can be learned only in the hospital where the training is offered.

It is fitting and proper that we express our gratitude to the institutions and the men and women who devote themselves to faithfully and unselfishly to the health, the strength, and the happiness of our people. It is vitally important that we emphasize the need for more young people to enter careers which have earned our people's confidence and their pride in the Nation's hospitals.

I congratulate and salute the Nation's hospitals, and the men and women who serve them. They labor to lift the burden of sickness and disease from the shoulders of mankind so that we may reach new plateaus of health and long life.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

While a series of record votes are expected this week on the foreign aid authorization bill, the House of Representatives last week passed a number of bills by voice vote.

One measure that was given final House approval is designed to increase benefits for widows of veterans who served in the Spanish-American, Civil, Indian, and Mexican Wars. It is interesting to note that this bill authorizes for the first time pension payments to widows of veterans who served in the military or naval forces of the Confederacy. It is estimated that approximately 1,000 widows of Confederate veterans will have an opportunity to qualify for these benefits. There are already approximately 4,000 widows of Union veterans on the pension rolls.

As approved by the House and also the Senate, the legisaltion provides monthly pensions of $40 for the widows of Civil War veterans who are under seventy years of age and $65 for those over 70. Widows of veterans of the other wars will receive comparable increases.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUNDS

The House also passed last week its fifth supplemental appropriation bill of the year. The measure provides additional funds for several federal agencies during the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends on June 30.

Included in the bill is the sum of $26 million for the Department of Labor to use in making further unemployment compensation payments to veterans and federal employees.

In addition to the five supplemental money bills totaling $4.2 billion, the House has also passed six regular department appropriation bills for fiscal year 1959 that total approximately $17 billion. The remaining appropriation measures will be acted on before Congress adjourns.

OTHER LEGISLATION

Another proposal that won House approval last week is a bill that increases the equipment maintenance allowance for rural mail carriers. The measure raises the allowance from nine cents to 10 cents per mile or $3.50 daily, whichever is greater. For heavily patronized routes, the allowances are increased to bring the daily maximum to 86. The purpose of the legislation is to enable carriers to meet increased costs for oil, gasoline, tires, and repairs.

Also passed was a bill amending the Public Health Service Act so as to authorize an appropriation not exceed one million dollars for grants -in-aid to schools of public health. In the 1957-58 term, there were 717 government sponsored trainees enrolled in the 11 schools which provide training for public health personnel. The legislation passed by the House is designed to alleviate the present shortage of trained persons actively engaged in public health programs by increasing the number of government - sponsored students.

ARMED FORCES DAY — 1958. "We urge Americans and our free world friends to visit our installations and see the new concepts and modern weapons which have so radically altered the techniques of military and naval operations, for only by being fully informed on our national capabilities can all of us share confidence in our ability to defend ourselves and preserve the freedoms we cherish."

Cigarettes And Cancer

Persons who smoke cigarets should have chest X-rays every six months in order to diagnose lung cancer in an early stage, Dr. Alton Ochsner, professor of surgery at Tulane university school of medicine, New Orleans, told the annual clinical conference of the Chicago Medical society. Dr. Ochsner reported to the 6,000 doctors attending the conference that research has shown "without any question or doubt" that cigarets are producing agent in the smoke from cigarets.

He reported that his own investigations have also shown that filters "do not remove tars and other ingredier..." as implied by the manufacturers.

"The only physicians who will admit that there is a casual relationship between smoking and cancer are those who are employees of the tobacco companies or those who are addicted to cigaret smoking", he said. "It is my firm conviction that they will develop cancer of the lung unless they die of something else while they develop the cancer."

4-H Electric Program Sparks Future Scientists

Somewhere in this great state may be a teen-ager who one day will make a vital contribution to the nation concerning new uses of electricity and electronics. The opportunity lies in the 4-H Electric Program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service for 4-H Club members between the ages of 10 and [illegible].

It is highly probable that many 4-H'ers participating in the project will find a future career in electrical and scientific fields. They will help to lessen today's urgent need for more and better scientists.

County Medal

4-H'ers Rewarded

Hundreds of 4-H'ers already have received nation-wide recognition for their inventiveness and application of electrical principles to both farm and home use. In addition, thousands have been rewarded by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, which has supported the 4-H Electric program for almost a quarter of a century.

Maintain High Goals

The principal objectives of the project are to learn more about electricity and how it is used and to develop good citizenship along with effective leadership. All 4-H'ers completing projects may submit their achievement records in competition for county, state and national awards provided by Westinghouse.

County winners will receive medals like the one pictured above. The state winner will attend the National 4-H Club Congress with all expenses paid, while six national winners will be awarded $400 college scholarships.

"Learn" Stressed

Recently one of the nation's top atomic scientists stated that educators should stress "learn" instead of "teach." Since the beginning of 4-H Club work, the 4-H slogan has been "learn by doing," the Extension Service points out, and the electric project is no exception.

Local volunteer 4-H leaders cooperating with State and County Extension workers guide club members in their various undertakings.

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

News bulletins are bearing out the absolute extremes that women will go to to satisfy their desire to look like everyone else. The new sack dresses it appears, are selling like hotcakes. Bet you one thing. . if mom comes out decked in one of those things, 'bout all dad will be considerin' is hotcakes. Women, it seems, have a terrible fobia that they will be out of fashion and they seem to disregeard hubby's disregard for them when it comes to fashion, style and keeping up with Mrs. Jones.

People who know us well, know we like the truth. . .no matter what the end result. We make the following endorsement, for what it's worth, strictly on the grounds that it is what we very sincerely believe to be best for our County and its people. Our subject is Mr. Dalton Champion; our endorsement is his election to the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County; our intentions as those who know us will bear us out, are to better Chilton County. We readily accept the fact that there are those who will think our endorsement purely for personal gain. However, we feel that those whom we care anything about will understand our desire to have good clean government in our County as well as in our State and these are the people whom we are trying to reach. As for the others. . . it won't matter much whether WE reach them or not.

Don't misunderstand our endorsement. We are not a personal friend of Mr. Champion's, and he will bear us out in this. We don't know how many skeleton's are in his closet and we don't particularly care. We believe he is literally qualified for the job.

We do know he is honest and a fine fellow and we personally feel that the first, if not the most important qualification of the job which he seeks is honest and impartial decisions in behalf of our people.

We endorse the man for what we believe to be right. Were he to disprove our faith in his ability and his intentions, then we would be the first (at least try to be) to admit that we were wrong about him and we'd also hasten to say that he too was wrong.

We do not intend to lead you, as a voter, astray. If however, you cannot accept him on our word alone (which is very possible) then check the records closely and tell us how you think harmony and progress in our County Government can best be achieved. It is up to you as a voter to decide this all important question on June 3rd. Consider the man and then vote your HONEST convictions. And this, my friends, is not a mere statement, but should be thought out carefully. It's not a popularity contest. . .it's YOUR business.

We learned Sunday morning that an Isosceles Right Triangle can have more meaning than you could imagine. Apply it as a symbol for your everyday life (remembering that the Right Angle is God or your faith in Him) and let the other angles represent whatever your personal situation calls for and marvel at the simplicity of it all. Wrap your problem in this triangle and you can lick-it. . .there's no doubt about it.

The only thing you can respect some folks for is their age -- and they have very little to do with that circumstance.

Why is it so many of us claim to believe in fairness, honesty and straight dealing in our government and then try to play both ends from the middle?

Most of us can tell a donkey by the noise he makes. Deceiving indeed, is the one who makes the noise yet doesn't have the physical attributes for proper identification. Deceiving yes; rare. . . not very!

Red Glasscock, Dan Mims, Claud Blackwell, Gordon Conway, H. G. McFarland, A. Reedie Taylor, Hugh Champion, Ed Yeargan, Archie Ogburn, Mrs. Harold Smith and Joe Jackson, to name only a handful are working out elaborate plans, thoroughly and systematically in order for Chilton County to have a Festival this year befitting its Peach Crop. We urge that you start thinking about your support of this year's festivities with your interest and attendance. It is for us you know! The date -- June 25th.

Mrs. Hayes is to be commended on the wonderful job she accomplished as Chairman of this committee and Mrs. Armstrong and all who made any contribution should be very gratified when they look at the lovely flowers blooming, and see the wonderful improvement of ing the favor of the committee concerning a project by which the Auxiliary could raise some cash for it's various expenditures. Clanton Elementary Fifth Graders Tour Montgomery

A VISIT TO MONTGOMERY – Monday, April 28th, Mrs. Haywood's & Mrs. Sutley's fifth grades boarded a Greyhound Bus to tour some interesting and historical places in Montgomery.

When we arrived in Montgomery our first stop was at the Foremost Dairy. There they showed us how the cartons were made and filled with milk. Next we went to the Coca Cola plant and saw how they cleaned the old bottles and filled them with Coca Cola.

Then we went to the State Capitol. A guide carried us through it First we went up the stairs. There we saw the McKenzie murals. After that we went to the Governor's office and saw the beautiful chairs Then we saw the Mounment to the Confederate Soldiers. After that we went to the Little White House of the Confederacy and saw all of the belongings of Jefferson Davis his wife and children. After that we went to the Archives and History building. The room I liked best was the Indian Room where they had a canoe 500 to 600 years old. Then we went to Oak Park and ate our lunch, which included ice cream that the Foremost Dairy gave us. Then we rode the rides saw the animals in the zoo.

After that we went to the T .V Station, W. S. F. A., and saw how produce shows.

Our last stop was at the Governor's Mansion where we saw all his furniture, then we started home On the way we stopped at the Greyhound Bus Station to get water and something to eat, then we came home. — George Tucker, Mrs. Haywood's Room, Fifth Grade.

OUR TRIP TO MONT. On Monday, April 28th, about 8:15 Mrs. Haywood and Mrs. Sutley's fifth grade went to Montgomery. We went on a Greyhound bus. Mr. Thrash was our driver.

Our first stop was the Foremost Dairy Co., Mr. Howard was our guide. He carried us through the plant. He showed us where they pasteurize the milk, and where they put wax on the cartoons.

Next we stopped at the Coca Cola Bottling Company, Mr. Fred Ellison was our guide. We saw where they inspect the bottles, and also where they put the caps on them Mr. Ellison gave us a free Coke and pencil as we went out the door.

Our next stop was the capitol. A nice lady carried us through the capitol. She showed us the governor's office. She also showed us the Lagulature hall. We saw a voting board that had never been used before. Some electricians were working on it.

Next, we went to the White House. The baby's room was the room I liked best. The living room had a velvet carpet. We also saw a chair that belonged to Jefferson Davis. It was made of purple and white wool. In a room upstairs there was a woman painted and no matter which way you went her eyes would follow you.

We next stopped at the Arkhouse of Hostory. A lady told us that the building was made of Alabama marble. She showed us the Indian clothing, and their canoe. Then the lady showed us the stuffed animals. They were in a glass container.

Then the next stop was at Oak Park. We ate our lunch. After 20 minutes, Mrs. Haywood said we could ride. While we were waiting we saw the animals. It began to rain. We got on the bus and went to the T. V. Station. When we started to go. We got a drink of water.

Next we went to the Governor's Mansion. We went in the dining room. We saw paintings; painting of the governor's wife. At the head of the stairs was a picture of the governor. The guide told us we couldn't go in the backyard. He said they didn't have a swimming pool, but they had a tennis court. When we started to leave he gave us a booklet and leaflet each. We then got on the bus and about half way out of Montgomery, we stopped at the bus station and got us some water and something to eat. We got back to school at about 4:35. I had a good time. — Linda Diane Cagle.

OUR TRIP TO MONTGOMERY At 8:05 Monday, April 28th our class went to Montgomery. We went on a Greyhound bus. When we got on the main road to Montgomery, our teacher, Mrs. Haywood, told us we could sing. We sang "Sugar Time", "Lolly Pop", "The Little Blue Man", "Witch Doctor" and "America".

When we got to Montgomery our first stop was at the Foremost Dairy. A man took us through the plant and showed us how milk was prepared and put in cartons. He gave Mr. Thrash our bus driver a cup of ice cream for our lunch.

Our next stop was at the Coco Cola plant. There a man took us upstairs and told us all about the drink. Then we went back down. We saw how the bottles were filled and capped. We were each given a Coke to drink and a pencil.

From there we went to the capitol. When everyone got up stairs, we stood in the place that president, Jefferson Davis once stood. A lady told us the history of the stairs. We then went up the stairs to the dome. She told us all about the men on the wall. From there we went to the Legislative Halls, where we saw the names of all the Legislators of the State. There were two men working on the new voting boards. Then we went by the governor's office. A lady then show us through the rest of the capitol

From there we went to the White House where we saw many things. There was Jefferson Davis' room and the chairs he sat in. In another room, we saw all the silver platters and dishes. Upstairs we saw the baby's room. The bed was covered with pink lace, by the bed was a little chair with a doll in it. There was another room upstairs that had furniture in it. We saw several rooms and they were all very beautiful.

The archives of History was the next place to visit . We saw the Hall of fame. One room was filled with Indian pottery and a dug out canoe that looked to be very old. We went in a room that had old clothing in it. There was a queen's dress with all her jewelry. In another room there was a cannon and guns of olden days. We saw alarge bell that looked like the Liberty Bell even ha da crack in it. There to see. Next we went to Oak Park, were many other interesting things wheer we had lunch. After lunch we saw the animals and flowers in the park. Fun came when we park. We rode for about an hour, rode the different things in the then it began to rain and we had to go.

W. S. F. A. TV Station was our next stop. There we were shown how the different programs were put on the air, which was very interesting.

Next we visited the Governor's Mansion, where we were shown through the building at the different things. They had a tennis court, but no swimming pool.

Later we visited the Bus Station, where we bought refreshments. We arrived back in Clanton at about 5 o'clock. I had a wonderful time.— Judy Bean.

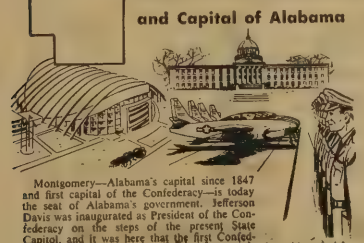
A Salute to
MONTGOMERY COUNTY
Cradle of the Confederacy and Capital of Alabama



Montgomery—Alabama's capital since 1847 and first capital of the Confederacy—is today the seat of Alabama's government. Jefferson Davis was inaugurated as President of the Confederacy on the steps of the present State Capitol, and it was here that the first Confederate flag was made and unfurled. Located in the midst of rich farmlands, Montgomery serves as the State's major agricultural market place. Two of the nation's leading air bases—Maxwell AFB and Gunter AFB—are located in the friendly and thriving City of Montgomery and contribute substantially to the county's economy.

Another big payroll of our State is that of the Brewing Industry. Last year, 23,500 citizens of Alabama received income directly through the distribution and sale of the beverages of moderation—beer and ale. That is only one of many contributions the Brewing Industry is making to the welfare of our people and the forward march of Alabama.

In this friendly, freedom-loving land of ours
Beer belongs... Enjoy it

STATEMENT FROM JUDGE WALLACE

Judge George Wallace today said he was highly elated over the offers of help he had received from the supporters of other candidates in the race. He promised "to take the wraps off" as he carried his race for governor to the people of every section of Alabama.

Wallace, confident of the outcome of the June Primary, said that he came from the bottom of the heap three months ago, to second place in Tuesdays voting. "June 3rd will find us on top," the fighting Judge said.

"I have not had the advantage of ten million dollars worth of free publicity," Judge Wallace said, "but I am going to stage the most aggressive fight for the governor's office that this state has ever seen."

"The time has now come when we can deal with the issues involved, and that's exactly what Im going to do," Judge Wallace said.

"As the voting shows, I have strong support in every county in Alabama. My supporters are enthusiastic and confident of victory in June. I invite the people who supported other candidates to come in and join us in our fight for honest, clean, ethical and progressive government. We cannot turn back the clock in Alabama. We must move forward. The fight is starting today and it will end in June with our victory."

JEMISON FFA TRAIN TO BE CATTLEMEN

Four FFA boys (Gene Thrash, Allen Hayes, Jimmy Norwood, and Larry Crowell) are training to be real cattlemen.

Last October they went to the bank and borrowed enough to buy five Hereford steers. They fed these calves through the winter and entered them in the County fat calf show Tuesday, April 8, and then took them to the Montgomery show Wednesday and sold them.

None of the calves were grand champions, which sold for $1.50 per pound, but all were able to repay their loans and have some left.

All agree that much had been learned through the banking, management, and marketing of these calves. They and other FFA members plan to do it again next year.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

To The People Of Chilton County

I want to thank all of my friends who supported me, and to also thank all of the people in our County for the many courtesies that you have extended to me during the campaign.

This campaign has meant much to me, because I have had the opportunity of seeing many of our fine people that I would not have had the pleasure to see, had I not run for office.

Most gratifying, of course, is the fact that all of the fine gentlemen in the race for Probate Judge conducted a campaign of the highest calibre. They were all close personal friends of mine before the campaign, and they remain so today.

For the runoff, I feel that the people of Chilton have selected two men of honor, either of whom will serve us well. I feel confident that Chilton County can look forward with either of these fine gentlemen at the helm, and I extend here to Tingle and Mr. J. C. White my congratulations, and best wishes.

To Mr. John Higgins, Mr. Bernard Adams, and Mr. Lewis Headley, I hope that you will feel the same as I and that you can know, and, feel with great pride, that you have made your contribution to good government, by offering your time and means in offering your service to our fine people in Chilton County.

Thank you, and God bless each of you.

To The Voters of Chilton County

I shall always be grateful to the Voters for the vote of confidence you gave me on May 6. I want to thank each of you for working so diligently and untiringly to make me high man in the race for membership on the Board of Revenue and Control in District One. I set out in the beginning with the determination to see the people of Chilton County and ask for their vote and support. It was indeed a pleasure to meet and talk personally with each of you. In trying to go all over the County, I missed seeing lots of people. It was certainly not my intention to miss anyone. I deeply regret that I did not get to see those of you whom I missed. The vote I received has given me added strength, a stronger determination and a very confident feeling that the people of Chilton County are going to make a change. If I had only received about 254 more votes there would not have been a runoff. I want to thank each of you who voted for either of my most worthy opponents for voting your own honest convictions. I certainly admire any person who will vote his personal heartfelt convictions. To each of you who voted for either of my opponents on May 6, I would like to take this means to appeal to you for your vote and support on June 3. I would greatly appreciate the whole-hearted support and influence of Mr. Nelson, Mr. Ellison and Mr. Lucas in the June 3 run off. In seeking this office I have only the backing of you the people of Chilton County. I do not feel that I qualify as a so-called politician and I do not seek this office for any political gain. I only have an humble desire to be of what service I may to Chilton County and Her people. If you should honor me with membership on Your Board of Revenue and Control from District One, I promise to always work cooperatively toward good clean honest and efficient government in Chilton County and always abiding by the wishes of the majority of the people. I want the voters of Chilton County to know that while I am busy seeking your vote and support in the run-off I also have to be busy making a living. I do want you to know that I am most appreciative of your vote of confidence in me and that I will be most thankful for your vote and influence in the June 3 run-off.—Sincerely Yours, Dalton Champion.

Time-ly New Car

EVER STOP TO THINK . . . about the vitally important [illegible] that go into today's automobiles? Take clocks, for instance. Timepieces for such ultra-modern cars as the stylish new Edsel represent thousands of hours of research and testing. One of the problems which must be solved is temperature the range to which a car clock is exposed annually can extend from 140 degrees above zero to as low as 20 below, which can strain the clock's lubrication and carefully calibrated mechanisms. The Westclox auto clock above embodies some of the latest technical improvements designed to conquer such problems. Clock was tested for months by Westclox at its big La Salle, Illinois, plant before its maiden voyage in a test-version Edsel; thereafter, research to prove its merits mounted in the car covered another extensive period.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

THE rumors going the rounds that some of the candidates are meddling in the governor's race is ridiculous. Any candidate who would take part in another race is foolish—and we don't believe we have any foolish candidates in the race for any office.

RECEIVED a letter this A.M from Mrs. Agnes Baggett thanking the good people of Chilton County for the fine vote they gave her in the recent election. Mrs. Baggett won over two opponents in the first primary.

JAMES Bruce Fort, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fort of Verbena is a candidate for his A. B. degree at Birmingham Southern College. Graduating exercises will be held on June 1st. Young Fort was active in SAE social fraternity during his college days. We congratulate him on his accomplishments and wish him well.

JUST as we were set to attend the George Wallace rally at the Courthouse Tuesday night George Smith, our tax collector came in with the tax sales for this year and we spent the evening working them out and getting them ready for publication in this issue. There seems to be a few more than last year but still not too many considering You'll find them on page last.

MRS. Ethel Cummings had the misfortune to fall last Sunday and break her hip and a little finger. She was admitted to Chilton County Hospital immediately but Monday was transferred to the University Hospital at Birmingham We hope for her quick recovery.

THE annual Calfee Reunion will be held in the pine grove at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Calfee. All relatives and friends are invited to attend.

★ $1,000 REWARD ★

Citizens Post Reward For Election Fraud

Several Chilton County Citizens have posted a reward for information leading to the arrest of anyone violating privileges on election day.

The idea for the reward grew out of the hush-hush rumors that seem to follow every election—no matter who wins or who loses. It is designed as an aid to bring political criminals to justice, if there are any, and to stop back-biting and character assasination. There was no partisan politics involved and no person or group is under focus.

"Rumors of corruption in our County, based upon anything but profound facts can only serve to degrade our County and its people in the eyes of the balance of our State. It will particularly hurt us at a time when we are holding ourselves out to new industries as a good place to live and work."

If political criminals do exist in our midst, it will hurt our County, even more if they are allowed to continue unchecked as they did in Phenix City. Seeds of doubt, sown by unproved rumors about a man's moral standards, can ruin even a saint's reputation."

A posted reward may be the answer. At least it does show that there is strong sentiment in Chilton County for anyone who may have tangible facts about corruption in our County elections to "Speak up or shut up".

For the arrest and proof for conviction, resulting in the conviction of any person or persons guilty of any unlawful and corrupt practice in any General or Primary Election in Chilton County, Alabama during 1958. This offer expires at midnight, Dec. 31, 1958.

LETTER TO ED CONCERNING EW BASEBALL

Mr. Ben Tucker,
News. Clanton
Dear Sir:

LIONS throughout this area and especially the Clanton Lions — are deeply appreciative of the efforts you spent in making our Fifth Annual East-West Baseball game the best one yet.

As you know, Ervin Collins of the Chilton County Tigers and Gerald Queen of Alexander City were chosen to make the trip to Birmingham with all expenses paid

Clanton's Collins won on his over-all ability and all-out effort. He was really impressive with his base running and his apparent desire to play and win. Queen was outstanding in pitching 3-hit ball. He has better than average speed, a good curve ball and the poise of much older boys.

These two young fellows will play on the State All-Star team against the winner of the Jefferson County East vs. West high school stars in the second game of a double-header in Rickwood on June 13th.

Representatives from the 16 major league teams will be present and will pick a boy from the Jefferson group and one from the State group and a third from either of the two. Those winners will be given trips to either the Sugar Bowl Game or the Major League's All-Star Game.

We find it highly gratifying that the scouts continue having real trouble in picking the winners of our games. Sanford said — again this year — that he sees more real baseball talent in the Clanton game than in any other high school baseball he watches.

Credit should be given to the umpires who served in the Clanton game. They were: Harry and Jeo Ellison, Pete McKee and Jack Dennis and they handled the job in a very capable manner.

ED'S NOTE—While roses are being scattered the fact should not be overlooked that Ott Miller has worked and is working tirelessly boosting the East-West Ball Game. As far as Ott is concerned, we think he feels the importance of this game to the boys as well as the good cause which the games serve. We commend Ott on his fine public spirit. He is not alone by any means, but we think the co-workers will agree that Ott is a key figure in the carrying out of this major project.

WE all profit by our own mistakes, but prefer to profit by the mistakes of others.

HISTORY will prove that no man has ever reached perfection by following his own advice.

YOU can shut your eyes to your faults, but your neighbors refuse to cooperate

A MAN has to have the ability to reason before he can know he is being unreasonable.

IF you are determined to live and die a slave to habit, see to it your habits are good ones.

NOTHING ventured, nothing gained, may be true —but at least you can keep what you have.

GET INTO POLITICS

ADVICE given the Alabama Bankers Association by their president at the annual meeting the past week, in our opinion is good and vital to the well-being of our nation.

He advised the businessman to get into politics—that is, to take sides and work for the side they think is best for the people as a whole.

He stated that politics needed businessmen to take part, to receive the boost that clear thinking business heads could give it.

It all seemed like mighty good advice to us During our lifetime we have lost many more political scraps than we have won—and we expect to lose many more it we live: but we never could see a man backing off from taking sides in politics when it is all for the best interest of all the people—and win, lose or draw, there'll always be another day.

COME ELECTION DAY

SPRING rains are the order of the day along about this season and should June 3, 1958, which is two weeks hence, be bright and warm, it will take a lot of coaxing to get the farmer out of the field and to the voting places.

The farmer who is out front now is still far behind according to most years and he will be doing all in his power to catch up with his crops.

We believe, if the politicians want a good vote, it had better be a pretty bad day for farming come election day

NOW -- ABOUT COLLEGE

SCHOOLS will soon be closing, and a number of young people will go into the business of making money. Too many will stop their school training at the end of high school days without realizing the tremendous advantages that will come to them if they continue on through college.

The Chilton County News does not recommend a college course for every boy and girl. There was a time when people thought this was a good idea, but, undoubtedly there are some boys and girls who will not take advantage of the educational opportunities that can be obtained. These might as well go to work, whether they are sons or daughters of rich or poor parents.

At the same time let us urge all students who will complete their high school courses this summer to give serious thought to the possibility of attending college. The right instituion, and the right personal application, will make a great difference in your adult life.

American Ideals Put Over Well In Grade School Clubs

Seeds Well-Sown Will Bring A Good Harvest To His Generation

IN ADJOINING columns of this page you will possibly recognize your child's name or a relative or maybe a friend's child.

It s our personal observation that some of the tinest work ever done with children is being done today at a time when our youth is given very little credit for anything except maybe rock and roll and much of it right here in our own Chilton County. It makes us proud that the boys and girls coming up are capable and willing to handle such "grown-up" tasks as conducting meetings, making reports and the like. . as a matter of fact, you have to look pretty carefully to find an adult who qualifies for all or any of these character building necessities. Nevertheless, it would be equally hard t find a grown person who does not personally owe a debt of gratitude to teachers such as Mrs. Hubert, Mrs. Warr and Mrs Thomas, to mention only a few.

It is gratifying indeed to know that our children's futures are being molded by such capable and Divinely guided hands. There is nothing quite so easy to mold as a child's habits and nothing quite so hard—his character.

The qualities needed for our coming generation of leaders is being taxed today for lack of proper guidance—it is with this in mind that we salute these Guided teachers for their abilities, faithfulness and love for our youngsters.

We very respectfully urge that the general public, as well as the patrons of the schools get behind these teachers and those like them and work toward the better civilization which will come about from the ideas and applications of todays children.

There is a slogan: "Start with a good finish" We think it applies very well to the character building process which these youngsters go through in their early years. When they do go out to meet the world face to face they have a certain polish, a shine — that "finish" that sets them apart and enables them to meet any task head-on and solve their problems directly.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

THE mutual security bill, authorizing $339 million less than the ed by the House of Representatives President had requested, was passlast week and referred to the Senate. The House-approved measure authorizes expenditures for themutual security program during fiscal year 1959 of not more than $2,958,000,000.

The cuts made in the mutual security authorization bill were the same as those recommended to the House by the Foreign Affairs Committee. Amendments which I offered in the committee accounted for $187 million of the total $339 million reduction. One of my amendments cut defense support by $60 million; another reduced special assistance funds by $27 million; and the third decreased the so-called "Contingency Fund" authorization by $100 million.

Another amendment I offered in the Committee resulted in reorganizing the Executive's draft of the bill, thereby making it easier for House members to distinguish between economic and military aid. I have attempted since I have been a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs to place the military and economic assistance programs in separate bills so that members of Congress would have the opportunity of voting for or against either program. While I have been unsuccessful to date ,the reorganization of the pending bill is a step in the direction of separation, and it is hoped that the Committee will look with more favor on complete separation next year.

The authorization bill that received House approval last week places a ceiling on the amount that can be spent during the next fiscal year for the so-called foreign aid programs. However, further reductions are usually made in these programs when Congress considers the actual appropriation bill.

CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE

Southern members of Congress attempted in vain last week to eliminate an appropriation of the Justice Department next year. The division's total funds of $490,000 were included in the annual appropriation bill for the Departments of State and Justice after an amendment which would have appropriated only $148,000 for the new division's expenses in the current fiscal year was defeated. Because the civil rights funds were not deleted, I cast a protest vote against the entire bill, as did the majority of congressmen who represent Southern States.

JR. CITIZENS' HONOR GUESTS

DONATE $100 TO CC BUILDING FUND FOR 2ND CONSECUTIVE YEAR

Recently the Junior Citizen's Club presented a special program at their Club meeting, honoring Mrs. Joe Earl Gowan and Mrs. R. M. Tucker.

The Club president, Patsy Baker called the meeting to order by asking the Club members to stand and give "The Alabamian's Creed":

The ALABAMIAN'S CREED

I believe in the State of Alabama and the principals upon which its government is founded I will strive to be a true and upright citizen, hating all that is base and loving all that is good. I believe it is my duty to defend my State against all enemies, to honor it, to obey its laws and to do by my fellow citizens as I would have them do by me.

I look with pride upon the history which the sons of Alabama have written by their heroic deeds, and I will endeavor to live so that my State will be proud of me. I pledge myself this day and every day to serve Alabama, to help make it a nobler, purer and manlier State —a better commonwealth for the coming generations."

By—

Judge Walter B. Jones

after which they sung "Alabama"

The procedure which followed was typical of the Clubs' regular meetings, with the most intelligent reports being given by the various officers and Committee Chairmen.

The very interesting program which followed was led by Sandra Leibold with every member of the Club reciting either a poem or a reading of their own choice, each depicting the members personality

At the close of the delightful and inspiring program, the Club president asked Mrs. Gowan and Mrs Tucker to come to the front and she presented to them, in behalf of the Club, a check for one hunderd dollars and five cents ($100.05) the Junior Citizen's Pledge on the Clanton Community Center Project. She stated that the Club had pledged $100, but so they could say they went over their pledge they had added the $.05.

The Club also gave their guests an opportunity to hear about another of their projects for this year, and to see the Bible which they would present to Mr. and Mrs Kenneth Driver, a member of the Jr. Citizens' Club of 1953 and now a member of the U. S. Navy

He had written and asked if he might bring his wife and visit the Club while he was on leave. In his letter he had stated, "Had it not been for the Junior Citizens' Club, the guidance of his teacher, Mrs. L. C. Warr, and especially the Bible verses he had learned in the Club, he would not be where he is today."

This statement was what prompted the Club to present him a 'Family Bible".

The following list of names are those officers and members of this Club, whose mottos, creed and actions prove them to be truly a Good Citizenship Club in every respect:

Vice-Pres.: Mary Catherine Mims

PARENTS PRAISE CLUB FOR PROGRESS

On Friday, May 9th, the Better Speech Club of Clanton Elementary School presented a Mother's Day program in their home room. All the mothers were invited as special guests. The fathers were also invited to see what the pupils had to say about 'mother".

As the guests arrived, each one was presented a program printed in red and white, the traditional colors of the Better Speech Club. The room was beautifully decorated with an abundance of red and white roses, and each guest had an opportunity to observe the different arrangement of roses before the program began. The host of the Better Speech Club pointed out several items of work that has been done by class members this year. The outstanding items were the paintings by the individuals. Many people thought they were painted by professional painters.

The program began with introductory remarks by the president and proceeded with a high grade performance from each pupil. Songs recitations, marches, and piano arrangements all directed toward the mothers were given in a most enjoyable manner. One of the highlights of the program was the reading of each pupil's own composition of a poem to mother.

After the program was over everyone enjoyed the social hour that followed. Individual cakes with dainty red roses placed on top were served along with soft drinks.

All in all it was one of the most delightful programs that it has been our pleasure to attend. The Better Speech Club is under the direction of Mrs. Mary T. Thomas. Mrs Thomas is to be highly commended for the outstanding job that has been done by the Better Speech Club this year, not only for the programs presented but also for the training she has given each member in classroom work.

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

A PRIME EXAMPLE OF OUR 'TAKEN-FOR-GRANTED' HERITAGE

WHY do we Americans claim to be a thinking people when we let sensationalism play such a drastically decisive role in our decisions. It is a sobering fact that each individual, no matter what his position in life, has one single lot to cast when it comes to making an important decision involving our existence. Assuming that there is no graft or corruption involved let's say that your vote counts just as you cast it — no more, no less! Thinking along these lines wouldn't you say that your opinion should not be dealt with lightly? Shouldn't you think out your decision carefully before throwing your opinion out the window?

The only way to have a true decision of the majority is for the majority to think for itself individually. If you do not — if you let others' opinions rule your decision entirely, then you are not taking advantage of your rights as an American citizen and passing it off lightly, you shouldn't be qualified to make a decision.

As the man said — you do not have to see it my way, but consider very carefully before you decide for something that you do not honestly want or believe to be best for you and your community and finally your Country.

A man doesn't really know himself until he has a son who does his darndest to mock every move he makes and every word he speaks.

Our friend and co-worker (and the guy who is supposed to be setting this up in type) Arnold Mims is "resting" in St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham after an operation. Arnold, who is a quiet, mind-my-own business type of fellow has endeared himself to us in the few short months he has been associated with the News and we just want to say ETAOIN and SHRDLU. . . which in the often mispronounced terms of the printer means "come on back to work. We need your services!"

WE took our young son Ben to church with us for the first time Sunday (he goes to Sunday School) and if anyone was ever proud of their offspring's behaviour yours truly was humbled indeed. How can you be proud and humble at the same time? Well we don't know, but we felt humble at the time and we know we wuz proud of the little squirt—it being his first time and all. We figured about the time the choir finished the opening song we'd be having to hunt the 'you-know-what', but nothing like that occurred. Just hope that it was proper teaching and not a matter of coincidence that he behaved well. Anyways, it won him another trip to church with the 'old man'—a dubious honor in itself, don't you think?

A man's faults are measured to a great extent by the frequency of his practice of them.

BLIND AMBASSADOR—

WASHINGTON TURNS OUT TO HONOR COUNTY COUSIN

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hand (she is the former Ruby Hicks of Lawley) were honored by the Alabama Supper Club of Washington, D. C., May 12th.

The Club celebrated "Walter C Hand Night" and presented a plaque to Mr. Hand in recognition of his outstanding service. A 'This Is Your Life'-type program was presented.

Mr. Hand is budget officer for the Federal National Mortgage Association of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington. The organization buys and sells $7 billion worth of mortgages each year.

Dr. E. T. York, Jr., president of the Alabama Supper Club, was master of ceremonies and gave a brief account of Mr. Hand's life.

"Walter C. Hand, a native of Blocton, Piper and Marvel (now owns a farm at Stanton), is a graduate of Bibb County High School. In 1924, he was married to Miss Ruby Hicks, his high school sweetheart. (Mrs. Hand is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Hicks and the sister of Miss Ruth Hicks of Stanton.)

Mr. Hand went to Washington to work for the National Bituminous Coal Commission in the 1930's. He has served with a number of government agencies, including the War Manpower Commission, Office of Price Administration, and War Assets Administration.

A Foreign Economic Administration assigned him to New Delhi, India in 1944. The Indian Embassy's military and naval attache, Brig. Gen Raj Batra, cited Mr. Hand as "a great ambassador of good will who worked to teach Indians the American way of life."

Later Mr. Hand was sent to Vienna, Austria, by the Economic Cooperation Administration. There he lost his sight. "This obstacle might have stymied a weaker or less determined individual," Dr York said. "But not Walter." Upon his recovery, he accepted his present job.

Mr. Hand is active in veterans civic and employee groups in Washington. He has twice served as president of the Alabama Supper Club and helped to organize the original Alabama Luncheon Club "to keep the spirit of Alabama alive in Washington."

Orville Rush, Gov. J. E. Folsom's representative in Washington, called Mr. Hand "the No. 1 member of the Alabama Supper Club and a great Alabamian." A number of other associates and co-workers paid tribute to Mr. Hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Hand live at 5506 Hoover Avenue, Bethesda, Md They have one son, Phillip Hand who is a supervisory research engineer for General Electric in Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOHN M. HIGGINS THANKS VOTERS

Dear Friends

I am deeply grateful for the consideration you gave me during the recent campaign and for the fine vote I received on May 6th.

As time permits, I want to see each of my supporters to shake your hand and thank you for your help and confidence in me.

We are not disappointed for we know that we were working to do something constructive for Chilton County. Having faith that all constructive works will have good results, we know that our efforts were not in vain. We shall surely see good results from this campaign in the years to come, in that we may be inspired to work together with renewed energy and greater effectiveness to encourage new industry to locate in Chilton County.

Another good result is that we may have become more aware of the value of the Coosa River as an asset in creating more business and more jobs.

My sincere congratulations are extended to J. C. White and M D Tingle for successful placement in the runoff to be decided June 3rd I pledge my support as a citizen to our next Probate Judge in all matters to further the prosperity and progress of our County, and in all acts which are in accord with the will of the people of Chilton County You have been very good to me and I shall always appreciate your kindness and consideration.

Sincerely,
JOHN M. HIGGINS

GO PLACES FASTER IN THE U.S. AIR FORCE

By C. WILSON HARDER

Perhaps not since President Andrew Jackson waged a successful battle to knock out the charter which gave the privately owned Bank of the United States complete control over the nation's currency and banking, has there been such a clear cut battle waged between monopoly interests and American independent enterprise as now goes on in Washington.

C. W. Harder

The issue is the request for a five year extension of the so-called reciprocal trade treaties.

Now, at a time of high peak unemployment, a highly developed welfare state, and also when Big Labor has forced up labor rates, there is a drive to open the American market still further to cheap imports, some made with labor as low as 7 cents per hour, produced on modern machinery given to the foreign nations through the foreign give away programs.

Spearheading the drive to extend reciprocal trade treaties for five years, which is to all intents tantamount to slashing protective tariffs, is an organization known as the Committee for a National Trade Policy.

This cozy sounding committee is headed by one Sidney Svensrud, who just happens to be Board Chairman of Gulf Oil, one of the biggest domains in the oil business.

It also so happens that Gulf Oil has a heavy stake in the international angle inasmuch as its foreign investments are pegged at somewhere around $30 billion.

Included in the members of this organization are such groups as the American Importers of Japanese Textiles, American Chamber of Commerce for Trade with Italy, Cooperative League of the U. S. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National Export Traffic League, the Straw Goods Importers Association, U. S. Cuban Sugar Council, and many others.

Opposed are such groups as the American Fine China Guild, American Glassware Association, National Cattlemen's Association, and a whole host of groups made up of small U. S. manufacturers, farming groups, labor groups.

On several occasions, the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have gone on record against further rape of American industry and employment via the tariff slashing method that reciprocal trade treaty legislation places in State Department.

Actually, some observers on Capitol Hill believe the issue is so clear cut it will be possible to run a box score on final Congressional votes on measure.

These observers say that a vote for extension of this system will mean the voter is a supporter of monopoly business.

This may be a severe method of appraisal. On other hand, it is going to be hard to explain to a worker any vote that jeopardizes his job in favor of a 7 cents per hour wage slave in some Japanese monopoly owned factory.

Thus, the battle is joined.

It will be a major battle, and casting a shadow over the debate will be the specter of the present 5,000,000 unemployed in the land.

"Ten Teen Commandments"—

CCHS Senior Class Honored By Juniors

The Senior Class of 1958 was honored at a banquet May 8th given by the Junior Class. The theme of the banquet was 'Under The Sea". The auditorium was decorated as a huge Ocean.

The highlight of the banquet was an inspiring speech given by the special guest Mr. Winfred Lecroy County Supt. of Education. In his speech he brought out ten most thought provoking commandments ever presented to the youth of our age.

These were called "The Ten Teens Commandments".

They are as follows:

1. Don't let your parents down. They brought you up.
2. Stop and think before you drink
3. Be smart, obey - you will give orders yourself someday.
4. Ditch dirty thoughts fast or they will ditch you.
5. Show off driving is juvenile — don't act your age!
6. Pick the right friends to be picked for a friend.
7. Choose a date fit for a mate
8. Don't go steady unless you are ready.
9. Love God and neighbor.
10. Live carefully - the soul you save may be your own.

The Senior Class recommends that every 'Teener' who reads this article write down these Ten Teen Commandments - or better still - memorize them - and do everything in their power to live by them

From new Safety-Twin headlights to new sculptured rear deck, every gleaming line of this Fairlane Club Victoria says "fine car!"

Look what you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 FORD

You just can't appreciate all the wonderful things that have been done to make driving more fun . . . until you've checked out in a shiny 58 Ford!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only "yesterday" it was stoop down or knock off your hat. Now that has been changed. There's room for you and your hat inside the 58 Ford.

Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see. Full-Circle visibility lets you see where you're going . . . see what's coming . . . see to park!

Now touch the starter. Observe how smoothly your engine idles. That's because each Ford engine is built with painstaking care. Each V-8 is electronically balanced while operating under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly . . . dependably . . . efficiently. (If your pick is a thrifty Six, you can't buy a more powerful, more modern 6-cylinder passenger-car engine than Ford's 145-horsepower Mileage Maker Six.)

Ease down now on the throttle and you'll take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! For after all, the 58 Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own transmission and engine! Team Ford's Cruise-O-Matic Drive with a Thunderbird-powered V-8 engine, and save up to 15% on gasoline. It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Next hunt up the roughest roads you can find. Notice how bumps lose their bounce with Ford's softer-riding suspension system. Notice how Ford's exclusive Automatic Ride Control combines Angle-Poised Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level . . . corner level . . . enjoy a "big car feel."

And Ford gives you more—much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide—sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture-Control.

Always a leader in safety, Ford again has pioneered new features to protect you. New Safety-Twin taillights, for example, keep you safer because they give better warning to cars behind you. And only Ford offers you famous Lifeguard Design—the whole family of safety features designed to protect you should an accident occur.

Then there are the hidden values that are yours when you choose Ford. The car is put together with fine-car precision. The finish is durable enamel—baked enamel that helps Fords keep that new-car shine. On the inside, too, Ford cars give you more insulation than any other cars in Ford's field.

Why not discover all you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 Ford? See your Ford Dealer and find out firsthand all the wonderful things that have happened to Fords. And remember: a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices shows that Ford is lowest priced of the "low-price three" in 17 out of 19 comparable models!

So why not make tomorrow your day to drive a Ford? The keys are waiting for you at your Ford Dealer's. See him and discover all the fun a Ford can be!

NIPPONESE MONORAIL—Japan's new "train of the future" speeds across Ueno Park in Tokyo. The streamlined monorail tramway has been designed by the Tokyo Metropolitan Government to replace the city's numerous streetcars and thereby reduce traffic congestion. The present system will soon be extended to the downtown area of Tokyo and eventually will constitute but one unit of a city-wide monorail network. Meanwhile, residents and sightseers in the Japanese capital are enjoying the thrill of aerial joy-riding in a type of train which travel experts predict will soon be constructed in major cities throughout the world.

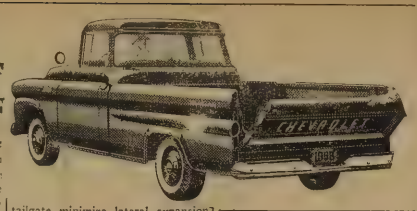
FLEETSIDES—

CHEVROLET ADDS 3 MODELS TO PICK-UP LINE



DETROIT—Addition of three newly-styled "smoothside" pickup truck models featuring full-width cargo boxes with 50 per cent more cargo space was announced recently by Chevrolet.

Herman P. Sattler, assistant general sales manager for trucks, said the new pickups, identified as Fleetsides, are offered with either 6½ or 8-foot box lengths on two wheelbases in the ½ ton series and an 8-foot box in the ¾ ton model.

Both boxes have an inside width of six feet, three inches — an increase of slightly more than two feet — and are 19 1/8 inches deep an increase of 1½ inches.

Capacity of the 6½-foot unit is 59½ cubic feet or nearly 20 cubic feet larger than the present body. The larger Fleetside box has a 75½ cubic feet capacity, a gain of more than 25 cubic feet. Despite these significant gains in dimension, the new design adds only four and 22 pounds, respectively, to vehicle weight.

Increased rigidity also results from integral type fenders in the side panels and flanged wheelhousings which bolt to the floor, Sattler stated. Wedges at either end of the slam-fit, sand and grain tight tailgate minimize lateral expansion of side panels under load. A new compression bar type locking mechanism assures more positive latching and easier operation. The new design provides a 64½ inch endgate opening, widest in the industry.

Floors are of durable seasoned hardwood with flush type steel skid strips. They are not subject to corrosion, are quieter, and provide safe footing wet or dry.

Previously announced pickup models, displaying fenders and short running board, remain in the line and will be designated as Stepsides. The plastic-paneled Cameo Carrier is discontinued, since the new Fleetsides embody the advanced style concept formerly provided by the Cameo.

Addition of the three new models brings the number of pickup trucks offered by Chevrolet to 10, largest in the industry, and expands the 1958 truck line to 136 models.

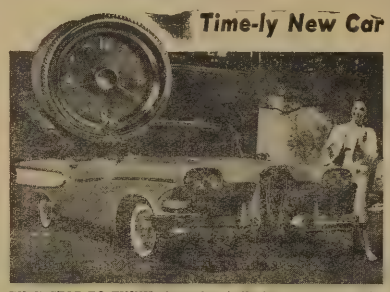
Time-ly New Car



EVER STOP TO THINK about the vitally important accessories that go into today's automobiles? Take clocks, for instance. Timepieces for such ultra-modern cars as the stylish new Edsel represent thousands of hours of research and testing. One of the problems which must be solved is temperature: the range to which a car clock is exposed annually can extend from 140 degrees above zero to as low as 20 below, which can strain the clock's lubrication and carefully calibrated mechanisms. The Westclox auto clock above embodies some of the latest technical improvements designed to conquer such problems. Clock was tested for months by Westclox at its big La Salle, Illinois, plant before its maiden voyage in a test-version Edsel; thereafter, research to prove its merits mounted in the car covered another extensive period.

Telephone Talk

By IRVIN COMMANDER
Your Telephone Manager

WHAT MAKES telephone service complete? Just making calls and getting them? That's only part of it. For one thing you can have many types of phones to choose from —extensions in the most talked-from spots in your home, colors to suit you, light-up dials, phones on which you can turn the volume up or down, and other special kinds for home or office. For another thing, your directory is a sort of handyman to give you all kinds of valuable information—numbers, names, where to buy and sell, and how to use Long Distance. All in all, it adds up to mighty complete service 'round the clock, year in and year out.

Betty had news too exciting to wait
So she telephoned home that they're setting the date.

Around the state — across the nation
Save money — save time — call station-to-station.

You save even more on Long Distance calls after 6 P.M. and all day Sunday. It's twice as fast to call by number.

Speaking of extensions. We have discussed two favorite spots for these additional telephones — the kitchen and bedroom. But what about that most pleasurable time when we relax to read or watch our favorite TV program That's when that Living Room or Den telephone will make answering the telephone a real pleasure. All you will have to do is just reach out and pick up the telephone right from your easy chair, and not even bother to get up. Doesn't that sound so easy. Why not call Mrs. Parson or Mrs. McGee at our Business Office today and tell them you want to start that easy living with a Den or Living Room telephone.

Take the wheel... get the Swept-Wing feel!

You spend a lot of time in your car—driving to work, shopping, taking trips. How your car rates on the road is important to you. So all we ask before you invest in a new car is this: Come in and take a "road rate" drive in a Swept-Wing 58 Dodge. Really compare it thoroughly on every count. We honestly believe it rides better, handles easier, responds quicker than any other car you've ever driven. But we'll leave the verdict entirely up to you. You be the judge.

YOU BE THE JUDGE! THINGS TO NOTICE IN THE SWEPT-WING 58:

The feel behind the wheel—You feel different because you sit differently. Low and snug and secure, completely in control, almost a part of the car.

The view around you—The glass area is tremendous. The visibility is outstanding in every direction—front, sides, rear.

The ease of push-button driving—Once you try Dodge Push-Button TorqueFlite you'll never be happy with outmoded lever types. Ladies love it.

A ride that's a glide—There's no sway on curves, no dip at stops. Torsion-Aire is standard equipment, too.

This power steering is different—No power steering is like Dodge power steering. It works full time, yet leaves you the feel of the road.

Horsepower and stopping power—You get up to 320 hp. You get new-design Total-Contact Brakes.

4-H'ers Study Bugs

One project that every 4-H boy and girl can undertake concerns insects. It is 4-H Entomology, and provides unlimited opportunities to learn more about control of bugs and pests which annually cause millions of dollars worth of damage in the state.

Awards Offered

One of the best features is that little or no investment is required to get started in the project. In fact, it pays handsome dividends to 4-H'ers who do an exceptionally good job. The Hercules Powder Co. offers awards like the medal pictured above, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, and $400 college scholarships for six national champions.

County Medal

Has Varied Application

The entomology project is one that can be successfully completed by city 4-H'ers as well as those living in rural areas. There are several categories, namely: insect collections; life history studies; insect surveys and control; demonstrations and exhibits.

Already a favorite of many boys and girls, the project frequently leads to an interesting hobby. The Cooperative Extension Service directs the 4-H Entomology program, and information regarding enrollment can be obtained from the County Extension Agent.

Sport Fishing Begins Early In Canada

Just a morning's catch near Longlac, Ontario, on the trans-continental line of the Canadian National Railways.

WHILE there is excellent fishing to be had in Canada yearround, April heralds a heavy influx of visiting sport fishermen. Even before the waters are free of ice, enthusiastic anglers flock to Canada's countless lakes and streams in their quest for salmon, trout, bass and numerous other species.

In Newfoundland, fishing for some trout species began as early as January 15 while the season for rainbow starts June 1st. The sea trout season opens May 24 and Atlantic Salmon is fair game from June 5. Prince Edward Island's sport fishing begins with the speckled trout on April 15, followed by the June 5 date for salmon. In Nova Scotia trout, salmon, and landlocked salmon can be taken from April 15, with exceptions in some areas for salmon. Striped and black bass fishing starts on April 1st in New Brunswick with trout and landlocked salmon following on April 15, with some exceptions.

Fishing "par excellence" is the key word throughout Quebec where many areas have no closed season on northern pike and bass, while the trout species are legal catches from as early as April 16. Ontario's fine lake trout waters are all open by May 1st while others of the trout family may be taken from April 16. The fighting muskies of Ontario can be challenged as early as June 20.

Trout fishing in Manitoba begins as early as April 15, and starting May 17 you can test your skill with northern pike and pickerel. Saskatchewan's vast opportunities for various species of trout, pickerel and pike are open on May 10. Anglers enjoy yearround fishing for various species of trout, arctic grayling and Rocky Mountain whitefish in Alberta and British Columbia. The latter province is known, too, for its fighting salmon. Pike and pickerel are other Alberta game fish taken through the year. FNS

The Wesleyan Methodist Church will have their opening services in the new church Sunday.

Sunday School and preaching Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev E. L. Crowe. The afternoon services will begin at 2:00, with Rev V. O. Eagan of Pell City bringing the message. Special music will be a feature at both services.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services, and see the new church, which is very beautiful, and something that all the community can be proud of.

Rev. Crowe has done a great work here, having worked untiringly on the new building, and the Crowe family are greatly loved in this community. We are fortunate in having this family in our community.

The Ebenezer Baptist Church had a large attendance at the annual homecoming. W. E. Davis of Selma taught the Sunday School lesson to the general assembly. There was a brief memorial service given. Mr. Joe Denins made the announcements, and introduced the speaker Rev. Cardnal of Mt. Pisgah, near Birmingham, who brought the morning message. Visitors were recognized. Following prayer led by W. E Davis the congregation recessed for lunch.

The afternoon was devoted to singing Congregational songs were led by S F. Hopkins, Elmer Guy, Mr. Stewart, Bobby Eddy, and Mr Hubbard. Special songs were rendered by the Rush Quartet, of Stanton. The Veazey Trio of Isabella. A solo was given by Miss Sue Ellen Crowe.

Request was made for any documentary records of the old Ebenezer Church. Anyone having any records or direct memories of earlier pastors, or other events of historical value are requested to contact Mrs. C. R. Parnell, Stanton

The days service closed with a congregational song, and prayer by Mr. Jessie B. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Davis and children returned to their home in Cotton Valley, La., Wednesday, after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davis.

Mr and Mrs. Alvin Davis and boys of Birmingham spent Sunday with his parents, and attending Homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnett returned home Monday, after a visit with their daughter, Mrs. John Huff, Jr., and family in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Mrs. A. W. Sims (Placidia Huff) of Birmingham, visited friends and relatives here Tuesday and Wednesday.

COMPARE— CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

This is why ALBERT BOUTWELL Led His Opponent for LT. GOVERNOR by 53,973 votes

Albert Boutwell led his opponent in 57 counties for Lieutenant Governor in the first election, with a total vote of 197,854.

By this big vote, our citizens endorsed these things for which Boutwell has always stood as State Senator for 11 years:

- Segregation on all fronts.
- Sound and thrifty government.
- Fair reapportionment.
- Competitive bidding on State contracts.
- Aid to education, public health, conservation and our indigent and aged.
- Development of our State's resources.
- Broader rights for our Counties and Communities.

The Press named Boutwell "Alabama's Outstanding State Senator" because of his service as Chairman of the joint Senate-House Committee to preserve segregation and his able leadership for sound government. He will help our next Governor be a better Governor.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

MRS. John Patterson is going to vote for George C. Wallace She attended the Wallace rally Mouday night. Just goes to show you about names—this Mrs. Patterson is from Cooper.

CHILTON County is well recognized on the Committee on Installment Credit of the Alabama Bankers Association. A former Verbena boy is chairman. He is Guy Caffee who is now Assistant Vice-President of the Birmingham Trust National Bank. Jim Heflin of the Peoples Savings Bank is a member of the committee and R. B. Broadway of the American National Bank of Mobile, who married a Chilton County girl, a daughter of Gerald Hubbard of Collins Chapel.

BILL Hester made his annual visit this week. Bill and family had traveled up to New York and to Niagara Falls and was just returning home. Bill reports a wonderful time along the route and says that people everywhere went out of their way to accomodate them We look forward to Bill's visits northward from Miami.

ANOTHER visitor this week was Fred Cleckler and wife Mary Frances. They visited relatives here on their way to Florida. Tuesday morning early we found Fred in the Sheriff's office. He wasn't in trouble with the law but he was trying to see if there was any way for a person to drive safely without a driver's license. Mary Frances had come away from home and forgot her driver's license. Fred was having to do all the driving.

HELENE Curtis Beauty Shop is under new management and they are inviting you to visit them for all your beauty needs. Now if anyone needs beauty—that's us. We applied and she said "no can do". There are some things that are just impossible.

THE 29th, and that's today, is the last day for voting an absentee vote. So Mrs. C. Delle Cobb is keeping her office open until nine o'clock tonight for the purpose of letting anyone who will be absent from the County vote before the deadline. If you haven't—and you won't be here—do!

FRANKLIN S. Moseley, Presbyterian Historical Society and pastor at the Eutaw, Ala. Methodist Church wants to know if anyone in Chilton County knows of the burial place of Rev. Riley F. Perdue. Rev. Perdue died supposedly while serving on the Elmore Circuit in 1875, but this burial place is unknown. After his death, his widow married James W. Pritchett, who was killed in a train accident at Clanton in 1891 Rev. Moseley will appreciate anyone having any information regarding the Rev. Perdue to write him at Eutaw, Alabama.

THE M. J. Bates' are justly proud of their son Marvin J. Bates who has been made assistant employment supervisor in the Central office. Marvin is a graduate of Chilton County High School and received his B. S. degree from the University of Alabama. He has been with the Alabama Power Co since 1949.

WHEN they're courtin' he talks and she listens. When they are married, she talks and he listens And then after a few years, they both talk and nobody listens.

NEW GARBAGE DISPOSAL ORDINANCE FOR CLANTON

RECENTLY the City of Clanton passed a new municipal Garbage Disposal Ordinance. The only reason for this new regulation is that an all out effort is being made to increase the efficiency of our garbage collection system, and make Clanton even a better place in which to live.

The success of the new regulation is dependent entirely upon the cooperation of the people receiving the benefit of the service Your responsibility is definitely outlined in the Ordinance

Garbage and trash will be placed in a tight metal container with lid and placed at such location to be readily accessible to alley or street on regular pick up days.

Your local Health Department is in complete agreement with this new Ordinance and requests your whole-hearted support in helping make it the success that it deserves

MEMORIAL DAY

WE HONOR THEIR MEMORY--

NOT LONG after the end of the Civil War, the women of the South began visiting the graves of the soldier dead in their communities and decoratng them with the first flowers of spring. Many Northern soldiers had been buried where they fell, and the Southern women placed memorial bouquets and wreaths on their graves as well as upon hose of the troops of the Confederacy.

It was not until May 30, 1868, however, that Memorial Day became a formal observance, under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, organization of the Union veterans. Over the years, the day has become one for the honoring of all of America's military dead.

TRANSPORTATION BEDROCK-

PERHAPS we have grown complacent down through the years and have accepted the railroad industry as something that had always been with us — and always will be; for certainly no one of us upon sober reflection could doubt that the railroads are the bedrock of our nation's transportation system. Benjamin F. Fairless, Presdent of the American Iron and Steel Institute and a former President of U. S. Steel, stated, n a recent hearing before the Senate Surface Transportation subcommittee:

No matter how many missiles we develop; no matter how many scientists we train — we will still have to move men and materials to the places where they can be of value to us. And for that job we depend now, as we always have in the past — in peace and in war — primarily on the railroads."

"Clearly th erailroads are in a box, with a top on their earnings but no limit on their losses. So we come to the crucial question: "Why are they in this box?' I think three of the principal reasons are: The railroads are being taxed to death, inflated to death and regulated to death. They are caught in a kind of three-way squeeze."

As a result of the hearings by the Senate Surface Transportation Subcommittee, a Bill, S-3778, has been introduced into the Senate by the Subcommittee's hairman, Senator Smathers, which if passed will give a measure of relief to railroads to weather the grave crisis now facing them and to permit the railroads to once again rise to their rightful place in our national economy and our system of transportation. The measures covered under this Bill will be discussed in the news columns of this paper.

Our towns have been served by the railroad for many years, so many that we possibly have a tendency to overlook the fact that it is one of our better citizens.

The tax check we receive from the railroad each year frequently is one of the biggest and this revenue goes a long way toward the support of our schools, streets, and helps to cover the many other expenses necessary to the orderly operation of our city government.

We all can't go to Washington to express our and representatives know that we favor the passage of Bill S-3778.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

BOTH the House and Senate approved the combination postal rate and pay increase bill by unanimous votes last week and then referred the measure to President Eisenhower. Although the President has voiced objections to certain features of the bill, he is expected to sign it.

As passed by Congress, the bill raises postal employees a 10 per cent pay increase and raises postage rates by $547 million yearly. Actually, the bill provides for postal workers a permanent 7.5 per cent hike, plus additional three-year temporary cost of living increases of 2.5 per cent for most employees. All raises will be retroactive to January 1, 1958.

HIGHER RATES

The bill increases first class mail rates to four cents an ounce; air mail to seven cents; postal cards to three cents; and air mail postal cards to five cents. Second class mail will be raised gradually over a three-year period, and third class will be raised during the next two years. The legislation also increases book rates to nine cents on the first pound and five cents on each additional pound. All the increases are one cent higher than the present rates and most of them will go into effect on August 1 provided the bill receives Presidential approval.

DIVISIONS RETAINED

Several months ago the Department of the Army announced that the National Guard would be reduced from 27 to 21 divisions and the Army Reserve from 10 to 6 divisions. It was also announced that the paid drill strength of the reserve forces would be reduced by 40,000. I am one among many members of Congress who have strongly protested these proposed reductions.

On Thursday of last week I had a luncheon engagement with Assistant Secretary of the Army, Hugh Milton, to discuss the Army's proposed action in connection with the reserve forces. When Mr. Milton arrived, he told me that a decision had been reached only hours earlier to retain all 3 divisions. That decision was announced later the same day in a speech made at the Governors' Conference in Miami, Florida by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army Chief of Staff.

Secretary Milton pointed out to me that, while the Defense Department still expects to reduce the number of men in both the National Guard and the Army Reserve, the plan to eliminate 10 divisions as such has been abandoned. Although we are extremely pleased that all present divisions will be retained, we are continuing our efforts to convince the Department of Defense that its order to erduce the reserve forces by 40,000 men should be carefully reconsidered also.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW TO ALWAYS GET THE RIGHT ANSWER

A man who is now governor of one of our large states was formerly Superior Court Judge in a large west coast city. At that time in one of his cases he was under unusual strain. He had been hearing a protracted divorce suit involving a nationally known Hollywood couple.

The attorney for the husband had insisted on introducing testimony that if publicly made would have besmirched the lives of the couple's two small children. Pressure was being brought to bear on the judge to allow this to be introduced in open court. So far, he had refused. And the weight of the heavy pressure affected him greatly.

One day as he sat in a restaurant, the restaurant owner came over to him and said, "Judge, you must have a problem. You look worried."

The judge nodded.

"Well, judge, there is only one answer to any problem," said the restaurant owner, "so why worry."

"That's true," answered the judge, "but the problem is to find that right answer."

"But to find the right answer is no problem at all," answered the resturateur. "Just ask yourself: 'What would Jesus do?' " And then he smiled and walked away.

The judge sat staring after him, then asked himself bitterly: "Well, what would Jesus do?"

The answer flashed into his mind. The strain fell off the judge. He ate quickly and then went back to the courtroom. There he called the couple and their attorneys together and suggested that they all forget themselves; forget the bitterness and the malicious news.

"Let's drop every thought for exactly sixty seconds," he said. "During those sixty seconds, let's think only of the children." And he put his watch before him. And sixty seconds tick away. The people dropped their eyes. At the end of the minute the judge asked, "Well?"

No one spoke—words were not needed. Needless to say, the scandalous evidence was never mentioned again. The answer to that particular problem was reached because the judge allowed God's power to be released in him to bring the answer that Jesus gives.

It lies within your power—this very moment—to release God's power into your own life. If you will take these simple steps, I promise a new expeience will be yours, not once but many, many times.

First, mentally accept the fact that it can be done; you can do it. Don't be like those who never release God's power into their lives. The reason is that they don't believe they can. Remember you will never be able to release God's power unless you want to.

Second, instead of simply wishing, co-operate with your desire. You must translate your want into action.

Third, harmonize what you want God's power to do for you with what the Bible promises. Study the acts of Jesus and you will know the will of God for you.

ACTIVITY IN LOCAL FARM HOUSING

More farm construction — with better homes for farm families, better shelter for livestock and improved storage facilities for machinery and grain are the prospect in coming years says Isaac C. Byrd county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration.

Recently, as an anti - recession measure ,his agency expanded its farm housing loan program to the fullest extent possible under existing laws set up by Congress. To be eligible now, an applicant must own a farm that is in agricultural production and must plan to produce at least $400 worth of commodities for sale and home use, based on 1944 prices. Many part-time farmers who previously were ineligible can qualify for loans under the expanded program.

In addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help a farm owner repair and update buildings. For example, he may wish to add a bathroom including a waste disposal system modernize the kitchen, add an extra bedroom, improve the heating insulation and electric wiring, put a basement under the house, and cement floors in service buildings. The construction work can start after the loan is closed. The loan bears 4 percent interest on the unpaid balance and may be repaid over a period up to 33 years.

Mr. Byrd reports that the agency has $400 million available nationally which can be used over the next three years for farm housing loans. He said there is no specified limitation on the amount which can be loaned in any one state or community. Practically all of the money will be spent locally to purchase supplies at lumber yards and business places, and to hire skilled labor.

IT'S OUR OPINION OF

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

WE NOTE from letters to the editor that the Montgomery Advertiser is ebing severly chastized for the article they recently gave such noticeable space to as to gambling etc. in Phenix City, Alabama.

We are certainly no judge of a town which we have never seen but judging from the letters of the good people of that City there is an evident ignorance on the part of the good people of every city as to the extent of just what "does go in in their city or town".

We know for a fact that there are things going on in our hometown which would shock the fire out of the average good citizen. The usual good citizen does much less probing into the "bad" element of a community than his newspaper and rightly so. At the same time we do not feel that any newspaper would deliberately detriment a town's good name without just cause or proof. There is no doubt in our mind about their being a "bad" element in our community. We can hardly see how anyone could "just assume" that there was none in his community. We know what the good citizens of any town are working for. . . but we also know that wherever there is a civilized community there is going to be a bad element—in spite of cleanups, crackdowns and knock-down drag-outs. The worst thing that could be done is to ignore it and deny the fact that it exists.

A SIGNAL honor has been bestowed on a former minister of First Methodist Church here in Clanton. He is the Rev. Carlisle Miller, who served this church several years ago and now has a church at Panama City, Fla. The Young Adult Class of First Church here has bestowed on him the honor of naming their Sunday School Class for Bro. Miller. It is a fitting tribute to the high esteem which Bro Miller and family afforded while here in Clanton. We congratulate him on this small, yet significant showing of affection and admiration of his friends here at home.

NOTICED a young fellow in town Saturday morning with a trhe head for business and eye for busines prospects. He was selling peanuts and plastered in strategic places all over his basket were "WLLACE" and "PATTERSON" bumper stickers. He even had one for "Battle" thrown in for good measure. He apparently doesn't know much about politics, but he does know some thing of human nature and his knack for that should develop his abilities right along.

WE WOULD like to be one of those who thank publisher Hamner Cobb of the Greensboro Watchman for renewing the purpose of the nation's press in his recent editorial against the Ku Klux Klan as a force in our state; to keep the public aware of the truth. We certainly admire a man who speak's his honest convictions without fear of consequence. That's the type of many you can always look up to and the type of man our nation was founded upon. You always know where the stand. . and it's usually in that hardest of places, the straight and narrow. We salute him on his rare ability to say what he believes to be right—and say it loud and clear.

DO YOU as a voter of Chilton County know the difference between good thinking and "blind faith". We have been exposed to both during this campaign and runoff and we'd certainly like to know whether or not the majority of the voting public is aware of the difference between the two terms. We do no pretend to know the advantages of one over the other and we will not attempt to define them. This we know: You can't go wrong when you practice good thinking—and decisions based on good thinking are not those of someone else—they are your own. Dwell on it a spell, will you?

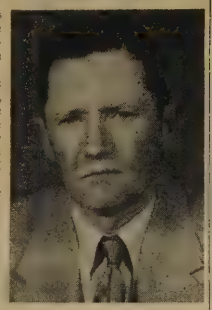
FINAL APPEAL TO PEOPLE AND VOTERS OF CHILTON



Friends, words cannot express my gratefulness and feelings I have to the good people of Chilton County for the fine vote and support you gave me in the Primary Election May 6th. I want to especially thank the people throughout my District, the First District, for giving me such a large vote. I carried the majority in every box in every beat over my run-off opponent throughout the District which I represent. I feel that this is a vote of confidence of my home people. If you good people of the County and from the other Districts see fit to honor me with a second term, I will at all times work with and for the people throughout the County to the very best of my ability. I will give my full cooperation to all the County and State officials for the best interest of our County. I am for paving every mile of black top road for the County as fast as the money is available.

I will at all times abide by the wishes and majority vote of the people of Chilton County on all issues that may arise. I will remember that I am just a hired servant to work with and for the people of our County and will never betray the confidence of you good people.

I have served the people of my District to the best of my ability and I received more votes than all four of my opponents in the May 6th Primary in my District. I hope that the people over the County will abide by the wishes of the majority of the voters in my District on next Tuesday, June 3rd.

Friends, I am trying to see all of the people I possibly can before election day and discuss some of our County problems. It has been impossible for me to have seen each of you, however, I would appreciate it if you will accept this letter as a personal appeal and go to the polls on June 3rd and vote your honest convictions.

Yours for a Better Chilton County in Which to Live,

FHA LOANS AND PORK PRODUCTION

By L. G. NICHOLS,
Assistant FHA Supervisor

Many farmers of Chilton County are now making use of Farmers Home Administration assistance in following modern approved recommendations for producing pork just as they are in many other enterprises. The number and quality of hogs sold by FHA borrowers during 1958 will exceed that of any prior year. These farmers have been following recommendations for producing high quality hogs by observation and also reading all available information on this subject during the past two years or more. Just as all progressive farmers have done they, to, decided that farm products must meet the demands of the buying public. In addition to producing a product attractive to the buying public these farmers find this new hog to be more economical to produce when recommendations are followed, than the ones produced in the past.

This new hog is made up of crosses between breeds consisting mainly of Landrace, Hampshire and Berkshire. As is the case in most animals and plants a certain amount of hybrid vigor is obtained in these crosses which gives a stronger pig and one that will grow to market size sooner. It has been found that the cost of producing a No. 1 hog in 5 to 6 months is much less than the old system of 9 or more months, therefore, the efficient farmer is doing that which is most profitable to him.

These farmers have learned that they must meet competition and this can only be done by providing an adequate balanced diet and using the best animals obtainable.

The general practice at present is to use registered boars of approved breeds and from their off-spring save best quality gilts for brood sows. Never before has there been more concern in the selection of future sows and, as this system continues, the quality will increase. Until something better is found these farmers expect to follow this system but, as is the case in all agricultural enterprises, there is a continuous change so these farmers will be alert to any changes that are better than the practice now in use.

Farmers using Farmers Home Administration assistance are eager to follow all agricultural practices in order that they furnish the buying public the products which it wants

623 FARMS TAKE PART IN AG. CONSER. PROGRAM

FINAL reports show that 622 farms in Chilton County participated in the 1957 Agricultural Conservation Program, Mr. Eddie Owen Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said recently. Mr. Owen also stated that the operators of these farms received a total of $76,071.00 for carrying out approved ACP Conservation practices.

This participation represents 28 percent of the farms in the county which contain 35 percent of the farmland and 34 percent of the cropland in the County.

A summary of conservation practices established under the program shows the following fajor accomplishments:

Newly-established permanent grass or legume cover, 1137 acres; grass or legumes in rotation 8475 acres; permanent grass or legume improvement, 442 acres; agricultural limestone applied to 1351 acres; pine trees planted on 86 acres; timber stand improvement on 1540 acres; terracing 30 acres; five farm ponds and 8442 acres of winter cover crop.

The average amount of cost-share assistance per participating farm in the County was about $122.00. Cost-shares for ACP conservation practices average about 50 percent of the total cost.

In addition to the amount paid farmers, $700.00 was paid to the Soil Conservation Service out of County ACP funds for work performed on 18 farms in laying out and checking terraces, farm ponds and drainage ditches.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

According to reports, percentagewise, the business slump has hit Canada to a greater than the U. S.

This is perhaps natural in view of the fact that so much of the goods sold to the U. S. by Canada have been sold at a price fixed basis by a Canadian monopoly. A case in point is the fantastic prices U. S. newspaper publishers must pay for newsprint. As bulk of this paper comes from Canada, Canada fixes price.

C. W. Harder

And even though there are complaints across the border of slow business, it is significant no attempt has so far been made to perk up sales through the medium of lower prices.

Thus, it is of great interest to everyone, as everyone is vitally affected by newspapers, that Sen. William Proxmire, Wisconsin, has introduced a bill in Congress to give the Small Business Administration sufficient funds to set up a pilot test plant on making newsprint out of low grade hardwood from the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Sen. Proxmire pointed out that in his state alone, almost half of the land, or somewhere over 13 million acres is covered with hardwoods with no other commercial value. The Forest Service has found that this low grade material makes good newsprint.

He also points out that besides building a worthwhile industry and source of employment in these states, success of such a measure would be a most valuable step toward the preservation of American liberty.

The Senator says, "It would relieve publishers from recurring newsprint shortages. When supplies of newsprint become short and prices rise, it is the smaller weekly and daily publications that are squeezed hardest. They often operate on extremely narrow margins under the best of circumstances; uncertain supplies and undependable prices for their most essential raw material imposes a dangerous threat to the very survival of this extremely important sector of our free press."

It is not the intent of his bill to put the government into the paper business. Rather, it is merely that government set up and operate for a limited time a pilot test plant to prove that not only can newsprint be made from this low grade hardwood, but that such an operation is practical. Private enterprise would then enter into this industry.

Success of the project would probably open [illegible] entirely new [illegible] the [illegible] newsprint [illegible] present some of the [illegible] the industry [illegible] American [illegible] now [illegible] Canada.

About two years ago the Senate Small Business Committee made a very searching inquiry into the newsprint situation and concluded until smaller independent press is relieved of reliance on imported newsprint, traditional American system of a free press would always be in danger.

In addition, the study pointed out, in practically every instance, the hometown newspaper furnished the only economical and practical advertising medium for independent business.

VACATION BOUND?
DRAINOUT NOW!

Making plans for that summer vacation? You probably have made reservations and most of your paraphernalia is set, but chances are a major item has been overlooked—your car's cooling system.

Each summer millions of Americans take to the road with visions of a pleasant trip. Only too often, however, these dreams turn to unpleasant delays or repair bills due to an overheated engine.

According to the American Automobile Association and Society of Automotive Engineers, the gremlin in most overheating cases is last winter's anti-freeze.

Contrary to what you may have heard, anti-freeze, particularly the so-called "permanent" type, should be drained every spring. Here's why:

After one season's use, acids may form in anti-freeze solutions. Rust inhibitors neutralize the acids but inhibitors eventually lose strength and the solution becomes corrosive. Corrosion of iron causes rust which can clog the radiator and engine water passages. Then—you're in trouble, serious overheating trouble.

So, before you head for that pleasant vacation take these precautions:

1. Have dealer drain anti-freeze from radiator and engine block.
2. Clean and flush cooling system.
3. Check cooling system for leaks.
4. Refill radiator with water and add chemical rust inhibitor.

Sherwin-Williams To Have Gala Grand Opening Here 29th-31st

BRANCH MANAGER IS LOCAL SON

GRAND OPENING of the new Sherwin-Williams Branch, 213 North 7th Street here in Clanton will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 29th, 30th and 31st, it was announced today by Branch Manager, Robert D. Lane.

The public is invited to visit the completely modern store on all three days of the opening, from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Special features arranged for the occasion include a free drawing of paint for 20 rooms and free gifts for all members of the family.

"The new branch brings to Clanton one of the most up-to-date and completely stocked paint outlets in the state," said Lane. "We are stocked and staffed to meet the paint and color needs of homemakers, professional, painters, commercial establishments and industrial firms."

One attractive section of the branch is called a Color Service Center. Here the homemaker may study a wide selection of color aids which enable her to plan a distinctive color scheme for a single room or an entire house.

A book of decorating ideas is available for every room, featuring jumbo-size illustrations in full color. This book is called the Color Harmony Book ,which presents many combinations of the newest colors for wall decoration. Copies of a practical how-to-paint book, the Home Decorator, are available free to all homemakers. A complete line of wallpaper and associated products will also be stocked.

"The branch functions both as retail and wholesale outlet," Lane said. "Our large inventory of paints and allied products provides a convenient source of supply for Sherwin-Williams dealers in this area. In addition, we carry a full line of finishes and painting tools and accessories for the professional painter, and we will provide specialized product finishes for local industry."

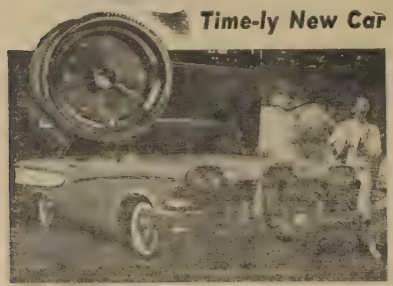
Time-ly New Car



EVER STOP TO THINK ... [illegible] that go into today's automobiles. Take clocks for instance. Time-keepers in each up-to-the-minute cars as the all-new Edsel represent the results of years of research and testing. One of the problems which must be solved is temperature: the range to which a car clock is exposed annually can extend from 140 degrees above zero to as low as 20 below, which can strain the clock's lubrication and carefully calibrated mechanisms. The Westclox auto clock above embodies some of the latest technical improvements designed to conquer such problems. Clock was tested for months by Westclox at its big La Salle, Illinois plant before its maiden voyage in a test-version Edsel; thereafter, research to prove its merits mounted in the car covered another extensive period.

4-H'ers Learn to Curry the Iron Steed

Instead of currying horses and mules, American farm youth today learn to curry tractors to do the big farm job. They find that both have much in common. The iron steed as well as the old grey mare needs food (fuel) for energy, clean air for full power, and daily care for peak efficiency.

The 4-H boy pictured above is typical of the 550,000 club members who have benefited from special training received in the annual 4-H Tractor program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, and arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago.

Along with "learning by doing" in machinery operation and maintenance, the young farmers are quick to realize that "care prevents repair." They receive expert instruction and guidance in carrying out the objectives of the tractor program, and in doing so direct their best efforts toward winning one or more awards offered by the American Oil Co.

Younger club members can try for county medals, while the more experienced compete for the state award, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall. The top award for 12 national champions will be a $400 college scholarship, according to the Extension Service.

Promote Alabama's Segregation Leader

ALBERT BOUTWELL

to Lt. Governor

to Continue His Fight for Our Way of Life

Since 1953 Albert Boutwell has been Chairman of joint Senate-House Committee to preserve segregation.

Boutwell was co-author, sponsor and campaign leader for adoption of Alabama's School Placement Law and constitutional amendments to prevent race mixing in Alabama.

Our School Placement Law was upheld by three Federal Judges in a unanimous decision on May 9th. This was the greatest victory for segregated schools ever won in the South!

But the task is NOT done. Enemies of the South will continue their fight. Albert Boutwell's leadership will be needed more than ever in the period ahead.

Vote to promote ALBERT BOUTWELL to Lt. Governor so he can continue to serve as leader of the Legislative Committee that planned the fight and won the victory.

Religion Best Cure For Rising Alcoholic Rate

Proof that the religious approach still is the best method for curing alcoholics was advanced in New York at the first public meeting of the National Council on Alcoholism by a specialist in human rehabiliation. Salvation Army Major Cecil C. Briggs, manager of the Men's Social Service Center, Chicago, said that "old-fashioned conversion" remains the most dramatic and effective method of rehabilitation.

Further evidence comes from St. Petersburg, Florida, where Bob Bell heads the Christ for Alcoholics campaign. With the help of his wife and a few volunteers, Bell is issuing regularly printed messages of hope to those suffering the torture of alcoholic addiction. Bell's crusade started in April, 1950, after he was set free by the prayers of Tulsa's Oral Roberts. In gratitude he founded Christ for Alcoholics, which has become a national campaign to aid fellow sufferers.

Bob Bell

Bell's campaign is aided by the nation's journalists since he secures the names of people who need help from the police blotter listings published in the nation's newspapers. His entire time is spent in sending testimony of his deliverance and attempting to raise money to pay for postage. With eight million alcoholics in the United States it's not surprising Bell says, that Alcoholism has reached the unsavory record of being the fourth killer of the nation's people.

THUNDER ROAD

HOT RODS and hopped-up heaps have nothing on Bob Mitchum when he takes the "THUNDER ROAD". This fast-moving, action-packed movie also stars another Mitchum. Look for it at Clanton Drive-In Theatre on Thursday and Friday, June 5th and 6th.

ASK VOTERS SUPPORT IN PROBATE JUDGE RACE

DEAR FRIENDS:

It has been a pleasure and an honor to serve you as your Probate Judge for the past five years. We in the Probate Office have tried faithfully to maintain Courteous, Friendly and Efficient Servce in the Office at all times. We have tried to be most helpful to those seeking a Helping Hand. Thanks to each of you for having had the confidence in us during these years and for the wonderful vote you gave me May 6th.

It would give me much satisfaction to be able to see each voter in Chilton County personally and to discuss my platform and intentions. However this has been impossible, due to the fact that I must spend considerable time carrying on the duties of the Probate office; therefore, I am taking this opportunity to earnestly solicit your vote for a Second Term in the office of Judge of Probate, Tuesday, June 3rd.

During the past five years, Chilton County has shown admirable growth in Prosperty and Income. The tremendous responsibilities and affairs of the Probate Office have almost doubled. It naturally follows that the duties of your Judge of Probate have become more complicated and considerably heavier. ou will agree, in view of this fact, that an experienced and well-qualified man is needed to properly handle all of the affairs of this office in an effcient and business like manner. Surely the experience of these past years I have properly qualified me to Merit the Honor of continuing to serve you for a second term as your Judge of Probate.

Surely you desire Chilton County to continue to grow, to be progressive, and to prosper. You can be assured I will cooperate wholeheartedly with your Board of Revenue and Control, your Congressman, your U. S. Senators, your Governor-elect, your Representative-elect, your State Senator elect and all of your County Offcials and Agencies to help Chilton County to be a bigger and better place in which to live.

I will deeply and sincerely appreciate your vote, and appeal to you personally to speak a good word on my behalf to your friends.

GO TO THE POLLS June 3rd, and vote for a man that you know will seek MORE PAY ROLLS, MORE BLACK TOP ROADS, LARGER OLD-AGE PENSIONS, A BETTER HEALTH PROGRAM, a man that you know will continue to give you RESULTS—NOT PROMISES!

Sincerely your friend,
M. D. (Dave) TINGLE

LETTER FROM DALTON CHAMPION

TO THE VOTERS

Dear Friends and Fellow Citizens:

In the past few weeks I have been in contact with most of you.

I want to say that I certainly appreciate the many courtesies extended me; it has been a real pleasure.

I started out as an individual to run an individual race and I can truthfully say that I have done just that. I have not in any manner been connected with anyone else's campaign

I have played the game fair and square and by doing this I have kept the friendship of all concerned.

If you see fit to elect me to membership on the Board of Revenue and Control in District One I will certainly be in position to work harmoniously and cooperatively with your other elected officials.

If elected to serve on this Board I know that I will not agree with every matter that comes before it, or I certainly by the same token I know that I will not disagree with every matter that comes before the Board

I owe no man political favors or obligations.

If elected I will only be obligated to you, the people of Chilton County and I will always be willing to abide by the wishes of the majority of the people.

I will make every effort to see that all sections of the County receive justice.

I want to thank each of you for every effort put forth in my behalf and I earnestly solicit your vote and support in the June 3rd runoff.

Sincerely Yours,
DALTON CHAMPION

(Pd. Pol. Adv. by Dalton Champion, Jemison, Ala.)

The Lord, He it is that doth go before thee; He will be with thee; He will not fail thee, neither forsake thee.—(Deuteronomy 31, 8.)

The almost unbearable loss of a beloved one; grave illness; bitter despair—one or all of these may come to us in our lives, and we will be unable to withstand them by our mortal selves. It is only the supernal and never-failing strength that we can find in God, Our Father, that will save and sustain us.

SACRED HARP SINGING AND HOMECOMING

The Spring Session of the Chilton County Sacred Harp Singing Convention and the Annual Homecoming Day was held at New Harmony Primitive Baptist Church near Lomax, last Sunday. The chairman M. C. Jackson sung the opening song, after which, prayer was offered by Elder A. T. Davis. Appointed as arranging Committee for the day were, T. C. Jackson, Mr. Ragland and Joe Jackson.

At eleven o'clock the Memorial lessons were rendered, honoring the memory of our friends and loved ones who have departed this life since our last session.

After the memorial lessons the pastor of the Church, Elder A. T. Beckett preached a wonderful sermon.

The Fall session of this Convention will meet at New Home Primitive Baptist Church out near Pool's Crossroad seven or eight miles Southwest of Clanton, the third Sunday in September.

We sincerely appreciate all who had a part in this singing.

DEAR FRIENDS And Voters of Chilton County

I would like again to express my sincere appreciation for your most generous and wholehearted support that you have given and are giving me in support of my nomination for the highest and noblest position our County can offer—the office of Judge of Probate.

You have honored me by so many kind expressions of faith and confidence. The way in which you have rallied to my support by campaigning into every section of our County for me. The many nice things that you have said in my behalf can never be forgotten.

It has caused me to feel deeper indebted and a stronger desire has been kindled in my heart to serve you and all the good people of my native or home County in a higher and nobler way than ever before.

May I, in my final visit wth you again pledge "Good, Honest Government" for all the people of Chilton County. I have tried in every way possible to conduct my campaigns in the highest and noblest way possible. I have campaigned for J. C. White only. I have depended upon each good citizen of Chilton County. I shall strive, if elected your Probate Judge, to promote and encourage prosperity for all the people of Chilton County.

My chief aim is to be your friend, to serve you, to uphold the sacred principles of honesty and brotherly kindness, and to spend your tax money where it will do the most good.

Help us to have a good, honest election. Help us to abolish anything that is not right. Pray for me that I shall continue to encourage and promote that which is right and just.

Your vote and support on June 3rd will be humbly appreciated.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

We wrote our editorial "Too Much Hush-Hush" this week before a telephone call came informing us of an open meeting of the citizens in Chilton County who were interested in new industry. We believe this is the right idea, however, according to a very interested party, the crowd attending the meeting was very disappointed. It was election night, and a baseball game was in progress. Not that these things should necessarily overshadow the chance of getting new industry, but we do believe they had an effect on the attendance.

Grandpa said he missed the old cuspidor since it's gone. And granddaughter says 'Ayes", and you missed it when it was here."

We can say with all sincerity that we are tickled pink for Mrs. Sibly McGowan. Since her son-in-law will be Governor and her daughter, Alabama's First Lady we think she should be First Mother -In-Law, or something. But no fooling she's always been especially nice and we don't think it could have happened to a nicer person.

Just talking to V. L. Bulger, supervisor at City Park, about swimming lessons starting there on June 16th. The lessons will cost three dollars and Priscilla Hubert will be the instructor. Bulger says you can register anytime between now and Monday the 16th for the Lessons. He also reminded us to remind you that all the playground equipment was ready and willing to be played with. Games such as volly ball, shuffle board, tennis, badminton, and scads of other interesting games . He said to come on down and check them out.

Looking over the list of Superintendents of the various Methodist districts published last week when the Methodist Conference met, we noted that three of the Superintendents were former Clanton Pastors. Rev. Carlisle Miller who is at Montgomery; Jack Atkinson, who is at Marianna, Fla.; and Marvin Vickers who is at Troy. First thing you know we'll be losing Rev. Griffin Lloyd to one of the Districts.

Speaking of Pastors, Nelson White was in this week and was telling us about their new parsonage. Just to help things along they are giving a barbecued chicken supper next Wednesday evening at the City Park to help along with the expenses. There is your chance to get some good barbecued chicken and donate to a worthy cause at the same time.

The lady was buying a new pair of shoes and having quite a time explaining to the clerk just the way she wanted her shoes to look and to feel. After a while the clerk said: "I think now I know just what you want. You want your shoes to be large inside and small outside."

They were on their way to the river to fish when the accident occurred Charles McGraw and Billy Belcher were rushed in a Spigener ambulance to Chilton County Hospital where they were admitted with minor injuries.

5th Graders Make Final Tour of Water Plant

Last week May 16, Mrs. Haywood's fifth grade room went to the Water Plant. Our guides were Mr. Herman Blalock and Mr. Louis Culver. They were both very nice. They took us to the room where they pump the water from the Coosa River. They get 8,000 gallons of water a minute through a 12 inch pipe. They store the water in a 624,000 gallon tank outside until they need the water.

Next we went outside of the tanks. The tank is 10 ft. deep and 67 ft. long and 30 ft. wide. The tanks are called settlings bases. The water goes through the tanks and then through the filter.

Then we went upstairs to the filters. They have two filters, one on one side of the room and one on the other side of the room. On the bottom of the filters they have 27 in. of gravel and sand to catch the trash and germs

The trip was very interesting and I enjoyed having Mr Blalock and Mr. Culver as our guides.

MY TRIP TO THE WATER PLANT

On Friday, May 16, 1958, Mrs. Haywood's 5th Grade went to the City Water Plant. On the way there we talked and played. We left the school about 9:10. When we reached the Water Plant we waited for Mrs. Haywood. When she arrived, Mr Blalock was informed that we were ready to start looking. He asked us if we wanted to go on a long trip or a short trip. We told him that we wanted to go on a real real long trip and he said O. K. First of all he showed us where the pipes were that brought the water into the plant. Then we went into a room that had lots of piper about t Mr Blalock said that the wate came from the Coosa River at 800 gallons a minute and the pipe was a 12 inch pipe. There was a tank outside that held 60,024 gallons o water. The water is held there until they are ready to filter it. After that he took us out to the settling tanks. There were eight in all.

Mr. Blalock and Mr. Culver gave us a short talk on the tanks. He said that it was 30 ft. wide and 67 ft. long, they keep water in the tanks about 4 days then they clean it. He told us how the water was filtered and how they treated it At the bottom of the filter they put big rocks, then smaller ones then gravel and sand. After that he told us how they put chlorane in the water to make it taste better and purify it. Then we went over to the other side of the room there were two other filters. They were just like the others. Mr. Blalock said that if we had enough time that he would show us how to clean the filters. We said that we had enough time, so he let the water out. Then he showed us how the water was cleared. He made this water come back up, the mud and trash went to the top. They said that it took 3,000 gallons of water to wash out one filter. After that he took us over to the Control Boo and explained to us how the controls worked and how easy it was to work them. Then we went down and inside. George, Mike and I went back in and thanked them. After this interesting trip we all went to Driver's Inn-B-Que for lunch. After this all went back to school Everyone had a very enjoyable day

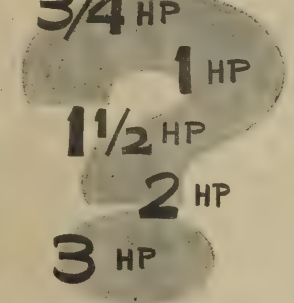
Is Your Air Conditioner BIG ENOUGH For the Job You Want it to Do?

Everyone knows that equipment too light for any job either costs more to operate or wears out faster. The same is true with an air conditioner. One of insufficient capacity for the space to be cooled will run full time instead of intermittently—it will use more current.

There are a number of other conditions which affect the operating cost of any kind of air conditioner. Some of these conditions, such as the weather, can't be changed. Others you may want to correct.

How much does it cost to run an air conditioner?

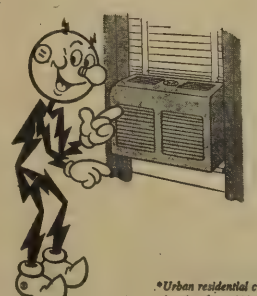
Under some of the conditions listed below the operating cost may be as much as $10 or more per ton (or horsepower) per month. As in the case of any electrical appliance, the operating cost of an air conditioner depends entirely upon the amount of current used.*



How Much Does It Cost to Run An Air Conditioner?

That Depends--

1. On how much space you want to air condition
2. On whether or not the air conditioner is of the right size for the job you want it to do
3. On how many hours each day you use it
4. On how hot it is outside, how cool you want it inside
5. On other conditions such as how often the doors are opened and left open
6. On whether the space to be cooled is suitably insulated
7. On how much shade the house gets
8. On whether the air conditioner is properly located
9. On having wiring that will deliver to it the amount of current it needs to operate most efficiently
10. On how often the air filters are cleaned or replaced



*Urban residential customers who use 100 kilowatt-hours a month pay an average of only about 2½ cents a kilowatt-hour. Those using 250 a month pay only 2.315 cents a kilowatt-hour, and those using 1,363 or more kilowatt-hours a month pay an average of less than 1½ cents a kilowatt-hour.

TOTS and TEENS

By Mrs. Joan Cameron

There's nothing like that first dance for changing a sweet child into a "painted woman." It took my 13-year-old daughter just 15 minutes alone with my cosmetics to hide her young beauty behind a garish mask of make-up. Then it took some tactful persuasion on my part to get Nancy to remove that make-up. I began by giving in a little. I agreed that she should wear a pastel pink lipstick to complement her shell pink "grown up" gown. I also suggested that she dab Vaseline petroleum jelly on her eyelids, lashes, and eyebrows for that dewy-eyed look.

First Make-up Session

I explained that the purpose of make-up base and powder was to create a porcelain skin effect that she had naturally, and that her cheeks were rosy enough without rouge. Why try to improve on perfection, I asked, when you have a complexion that most women can no longer achieve? I told her that eye shadow, eye pencil, and mascara did not make her look older, but only called attention to the soft immaturity of the rest of her face. All her eyes needed was the highlight that petroleum jelly would give.

I also pointed out that red lipstick gave her a hard, cheap look which competed with the delicate tint of her gown, and showed her how to apply a pink pastel shade lightly and within the confines of her lip lines with my lipstick brush.

Several light dabs of one of my delicate floral perfumes added to her grown up feeling, and if Nancy needed final convincing, her date's compliments took care of the rest.

It may be true that blood will tell and time will tell -- but someone usually beats them to it.

IN this day of the automobile the man in the street is usually a rundown pedestrian.

WITH prices the way they are, the man who is saving for a rainy day couldn't stand a light shower.

NEVER let the chance pass to favor a friend -- you can always build stronger friendships that way.

WHENEVER a man gets into trouble his friends are always behind him with advice.

THE MAMOSA TREES

IS there anything more beautiful than a mamosa tree at this time of year? Delicate, lacy green leaves, white center to the flower with a rich pink cluster of fine thread-like pedals sprayed to give the appearance of the bloom just bursting. Chilton County has an abundance of the mamosa trees and all now are in full bloom. No more beautiful sight can be found than a large mamosa tree in full bloom.

TOO MUCH HUSH -- HUSH

WE believe the "powers that be" are keeping entirely too much hush-hush on new industry that is wanting to come to our county.

Whatever the reason given we believe that we have proven by past exprience that keeping new industry quiet does not get an results.

Too, what earthly reason could a legitimate company have for keeping expansion and improvement hush-hush? Seems to me any company worthwhile would far better have the community know and welcome them than to try to keep everything under wraps and do nothing but talk. T hat is the exnerience we have had to date.

Let's let the people know what is gong on in the way of getting new industry. Just for once let's inform them of the conditions and let's see if we can't get better resuls.

If an industry is solvent, on the up-and-up, and is worthwhile to our community, then t won't mind the people knowing what is going on.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The bodies of two unidentified American servicemen -- symbolic of those who died for our country in World War II and the Korean War -- were enshrined in Arlington Cemetery last Friday.

Two days earlier their caskets has been borne in a stately funeral procession to the Rotunda of the Capital. They lay in state until noon on Friday while thousands of citizens passed in tribute. I joined with members of Congress, government and military officials, and representatives of the diplomatic corps in ceremonies that took place last Wednesday at the Capitol. As we stood silently in the Capitol Rotunda, wreaths were placed at the foot of the two caskets by both Vice President Nixon and House Speaker Rayburn.

Equally as impressive were the services at the Ampitheatre in Arlington National emetery on Memorial Day, which I also attended. Among the thousands present on this occasion were the President the Vice President, high ranking officers of all branches of the military, and more than 200 Congressional Medal of Honor winners.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the two servicemen were entombed beside the unknown here of World War I. The resting place for the three in Arlington Cemetery is now known as the 'Tomb of the Unknowns.

ALASKAN STATEHOOD

The House of Representatives last Wednesday passed the Alaskian Statehood Bill by a vote of 208 to 166. As adopted by the House, the statehood measure determines the area to be included in the new state; accepts the Territory's constitution; sets out plans for holding necessary elections and provides for Alaska's representation in Congress.

Proponents of the bill argued that it is time to admit Aalska as a state because the Territory has been a part of the United States for 88 years and has attempted to gain statehood since 1916. They also emphasized their belief that statehood will permit a more rapid economic growth of the Territory than would be possible under its present status.

OBJECTIONS TO STATEHOOD

A number of important objections to the admission of Alaska as a state were brought out in the House debate. Not only is the Territory of Alaska not contiguous to the United States, it is separated by another nation. Should Alaska gain statehood, a precedent of admitting territories not connected to the present 48 states would be established and the door would be opened for the admission of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and other territories.

Since by law the House of Representatives cannot exceed a membership of 435, the admission of Alaska would reduce by one the number of seats to be apportioned among the remaining 48 states after the 1960 census. The admission of other territories would further reduce that number.

According to the last estimate, Alaska's present population is in the neighborhood of 200,000 people. Nearly 45 epr cent of that number is made up of temporary residents, such as military personnel and government employees. Therefore statehood would grant one representative and two senators to a permanent population of approximately 100,000 people giving Alaska extremely disproportionate representation in Congress.

Yet, despite these and other objections, the Alaskan Statehood Bill was approved by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate for further consideration.

Origin of The Bible

LEVITICUS

"Leviticus" is the, term used in the Latin Vulgate to designate the third book of the Pentateuch, and this name has been adopted in English Bibles. The Vulgate borrowed the term from the Greek Septuagint expression "Levitikon". This third part of the Pentateuch is so called from its chiefly treating of the service of the Levite priests. The later jews, or Rabbins, called it Toratha Kohanim (Law of the Priests) and also Torath Qarbanoth (Law of Offerings). In the Hebrew Bibles the book is called Vayyiqera, which is the first word of the book and means "and he called".

Leviticus' opening with the conjunction "and" closely connects it with the preceding record of Exodus; and thus again evidence accrues that the "book of the law or the ePntateuch, was originally one book, recorded by Moses. That later contributors to the written Bible and Christ Jesus himself recognizes Moses' authorship of Leviticus is shown by their Linking Moses' names with quotations from the book. Compare Nehemiah 8:14 with Leviticus 12:2; Romans 10:5 with Leviticus 18:5; and Matthew 8:4 with Leviticus 14:1-32.

As to the exact time period embraced by the Leviticus record there is some uncertainty. However, it is certain that it did not exceed one month. The following texts disclose that between the ning of Numbers is a time gap of ending of Exodus and the beginone month, the first month of the year 1512 B. C. "And it came to pass in the first month in the second year (after elaving Egypt), on the first day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up." (Ex. 40:17) "And the LORD spake unto Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt." (Num. 1:1 Hence that recounted the Leviticus must have taken place during this intervening month. The only record of the passage of any time in the book is that of the eight days consumed in the consecrating of Aaron and his sons and their officiating thereafter. (Lev. 8:33; 9:1) From all this is follows that the period covered by Leviticus was at least eight days at most thirty. Since Moses had by this time received the command to write, it is possible he wrote the book of Leviticus during that first month of the year 1512 B. C.

As to contents, the tabernacle and its furniture having been set up, Leviticus immediately plunges into a set of laws and ordinances concerning kinds of sacrifices and the distinctive procedures in connection there with. Careful analysis discloses a definite outline by topical arrangement. More important the regulations were not then empty manmade religious ritual- the regulations were not then they are not now meer history. That they prophetically cast a shadow of something to come is testified to by the apostle Paul. "The Law foreshadowed the blessings that were to come" (Heb. 10:1-14, An Amer Trans.; see also Galatians 3:24; Colossians 2:16, 17). Not all the things the laws in Leviticus foretast have been realized in fullness (the benefits of the antitypical atonement day proceedings and of the jubilee, for example). This fact fills the contents of Leviticus with modern-day importance and recommends such for serious study.

The book of Exodus had concluded with the erection of the tabernacle and the appointment of a priests to minister thereat Now high priest toegther with underlings Leviticus with its laws regulating the access of the people to God. The first seven chapters treat of offerings. "Offering" translates the Hebrew word qorban, which has as its basic meaning "approach" or "draw near", and means that which is brought to the altar. The next to the last verse of these chapters gives a summary conclusion to this section on offerings enumerating the six kinds discussed: "This is the law of the burnt-offering, of the meal-offering, and of the sin-offering, and of the trespass-offering, and of the consecration, and of the sacrifice of peace-offerings." --7:37, Am. Stan. Ver.

These offerings fall into two large divisions; bloody sacrifices and bloodless ones. Only the blood letting ones counted as sin-atoning and for this reason God's consecrated were forbidden to drink or eat blood. (Lev. 17:11-14; Heb. 9:22) The living creatures used were bullocks, sheep, goats, pigeons and turtledoves. Briefly, the various offerings had the following significance: The burnt-offering indicated complete self-dedication to Jehovah. Peace-offerings were given by way of thanks or praise to Jehovah. Sin-offerings and trespass-offerings were closely related yet there was a distinction. Stated broadly it seems that the sin-offering pertained to general and actual sin, whereas the trespass-offering applied more to special cases of negligence. The latter were offered for individuals only; the former for individuals or the entire congregation. The bloodless meal-offerings of grain or flour (called "meat offerings" in the King James Version) recognized God's bounty in supplying earthly blessings. Consecration-offerings by the newly annointed priests were completely burned, indicating full consecration by the offerer.

Chapters 8 to 10 contain about the only historical narration in the book, giving the account of the consecration of Aaron the Levite and his sons and Aaron's officiating at the end of the seven-day consecration period, and also disclosing the offering of strange fire by two of Aaron's sons. This diabolous act cost them their lives. The succeeding five chapters give the law concerning clean and unclean beasts and laws on other uncleannesses and purification there from. The sixteenth chapter describes the vital, typical procedures on the yearly day of atonement. The remaining eleven chapters of the book deal with laws of holiness and set forth the commands concerning the jubilee year with its proclamation and enforcement of "liberty throughout all the land". One chapter exhorts to obedience contrasting the blessings therefor with the cursings that follow disobedience. This chapter, the twenty-sixth, is highly prophetic. It foretold many things that later befell the Israelites.

The essence of Leviticus is the record of the typical atonement and of the sanctifition and holiness of Jehovah's chosen people. The many sacrifices remained humans of sin inherited from Adam and the need for atonement. It should have kept the Israelites mindful of the Lamb of God to come who would bear away their sins. But as a nation they eventually sank into the practice of mere dead works. The law led only a remnant to Christ.

Testifying to the truth that the book of Leviticus was written by Moses in the wilderness is the fact that a later writer could not have placed himself so entirely in the time of Moses. Everything smacks of life in a camp. Some of the legislation even reflected the special circumstances peculiar to those times. For instance, all beasts for food were to be slain at the door of the sanctuary in the center; but quite inconvenient when they were scattered to their tribal inheritances in the Promised Land, some far removed from the sanctuary. Hence this ordinance underwent modification some thirty-nine years later just prior to entry into Canaan. (Deut. 12:15, 20, 21) Confirming the authenticity of Leviticus are quotations from it in the Greek Scriptures, and the inspired explanation of its sacrifices in the book of Hebrews. -- Matt. 5:3, 43; 15:4; Rom. 10:5; 2 Cor. 6:16; 1 Pet. 1:16.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

The tiredest man in town must be the man in Bobby Lane's (that's the Sherwin - Williams Paint Co.) window painting that house. He has been sitting ther twenty-four hours a day now for two weeks.

Whatt'a you know about this Bice family. The first girl baby born into that family in 48 years was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bice, of Prattville, Ala. They named her Karen Ann, which we think it a right pretty name and we bet holding the distinction she does, she's queen of the Bice family.

Sorry to learn that Mr. Weaver, husband for our Stanton correspondent is in a serious condition in the Veteran's Hospital. Mrs. Weaver will have to forego writing her Stanton News to a great extent until Mr. Weaver recovers. We hope that won't be too long and wish for him the best.

There will be another election on July 15th. This will be to relevie the mil and 3 mil tax that we have been paying for schools for the past 40 years. It is no new tax- it is money that is absolutely neccessary to keep our schools open.

And then again on August 12th we'll have a school tax election. That will be for relieving the 3 mil tax for District A and District B and is also a school tax of long standing. The taxes raised from these taxes amount to some $104,000 annually and make it possible to match state monies that in turn the operation of our schools possible.

A guy had been out for a gay night with the boys and suddenly realized that the morning of a new day had dawned. After some considered hesitation he rushed to a telephone and called his wife and shouted, "Don't pay the ranson, honey. I escaped."

BABE RUTH'ERS GET GOING

The Babe Ruth League joined all the other baseball leagues in town last Thursday night when the two local teams, The Blues and The Greens, met at City Park to open the season. The Greens won the opener by a score of 11 to 9.

This was the first game ever played by local Babe Ruth teams under the lights and this priivlege was made possible by Lewis "Pig" Headley picking up the tab for the light bill. Pig - and his Big Saver Grocery - to to be commended for this fine community spirit; and those of us working with Babe Ruth League Boys certainly want to express our appreciation in this manner.

The League is again made up of two teams here in Clanton, and one team each from Jemison and Montevallo. Jemison appears to have one of the strongest teams ever to represent that town. They won over the Blues Monday afternoon by a score of 4 - 2 in an exceptionaiyl well played game. Dick Northcutt, a lefty pitcher, was very effective on the mound for the Jemison nine and he was supported in near perfect style by Pate, Holcombe, Cobb and others. Jemison is managed this year by Billy Oaks and he has already done a most worthy job with the boys.

The Clanton teams are being managed by Jimmy Fulmer and Henry Wyatt. Jimmy is a newcomer having graduated from CCHS in May. Henry Wyatt has been connected with the recreation program and boys baseball ever since it was started in Clanton.

Montevallo is again under the able guidance of Coach Theron Fisher.

A PROUD RECORD --

WITHOUT reference to any political connection whatsoever, whether the primary election or the general election, it is a confirmed fact that the people of Chilton County owe Probate Judge M. D. Tingle a prolonged vote of thanks for the progress evidenced during his administration as a leader of our County's business.

We make this statement purely on the grounds that it is a fact! We do not favor him, we will support the new Probate Judge just as faithfully as the next citizen. We believe in recognizing proven public service where it is found and it is personified in Dave Tingle.

Though Chilton County did not see fit to re-elect him, it is still an undeniable fact that something is due him in the way of gratitude for his gracious service and ever-ending effort to better Chilton County.

We salute Dave Tingle: good citizen, proven leader and sincere builder of his community.

ABOUT TRAFFIC LANES

Would that automobile drivers learn which lane they are to drive in and proceed accordingly.

The past week we think we got our ears chewed off by a driver who thought very little of our capability as a driver -- and we thought much less of his ability to choose the right lane before coming to an intersection. What he called us, we couldn't hear, but from the noise he made and the look on his face he wasn't a happy man.

We have noticed that most of these fellows--and ladies--who choose the wrong lane to proceed to an intersection are "city slickers". That of course, is judging by the license tags on the respective automobiles. But many of the incoming through Clanton invariably get into the wrong lane and then blame the driver waiting to turn left for their difficulty.

As we sarted off to say the gentlemen (?) who looked down long enough to enquire if we knew how to drive an automobile or not, was coming south in the center lane, which is for those wishng to make a left turn, and couldn't understand why he should be detained by the car we were driving, which was going west, and therefore in the center lane, preparing to turn left.

Now if the city, county, state, or federal government would just put up bigger markers for these dim-wits to see, it would help a lot in speeding up traffic. Invariably they cause confusion when they get in the wrong lane and the few policemen we have can't be at every corner in the city at the same time. We haven't progressed yet, to where we can afford traffic cops, but if we fined these careless drivers who don't watch the traffic signs we might soon be able to do just that.

COMPETITIVE SPIRIT --

AND HERITAGE --

WHERE is the competitive spirit of todays average American worker? We, as Americans, have a heritage of being a working people -- to get ahead you try harder than the average!

Where is this Unionism taking us that gives seniority and circumstance, priority over ability and desire to do better.

We are against any organization, no exceptions, which includes in its purposes that a person must belong to that type organization or that person cannot work under a particular circumstance. We acknowledge the fact that the Union has brought the standard of living up to an all time high. Unions also, in part, have brought the COST of living up to an alltime high with increased wages and costly strikes.

We believe in the unions fundamental purpose of upholding the common working man; but we also believe in freedom of ndividuality and choice and we will not condone or bow down to a "servant" grown out of its britches into a "tyrant" of unquestionable force and questionable integrity . . . as a whole.

THE TAXPAYER PAYS!

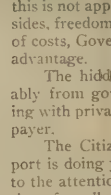
Since its function is primarily political rather than economic, the Government's responsibilties do not encompass competition with its own citizens in the fields of production and distribution.

Given the same conditions, there are no circumstances under which private enterprise cannot operate in these fields more efficiently than can Government. The only cases where, on the surface, operate in these fields more efficiently than can this is not apparent are those in which through subsides, freedom from taxation or improper allocation of costs, Government enjoys a definite competitive advantage.

The hidden deficits resulting almost inescapably from government-operated business competing with private busines are always paid by the taxpayer.

The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report is doing yeoman work in bringing these facts to the attention of Congress and in making reduction of needless Government competition with business one of its major legislative goals.

Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Two major efforts toward the peaceful and efficient utilization of outer space were made by members of the House of Representatives last week.

In the House voted to set up a National Aeronautics and Space Administration to direct United States explorations in outer space. This agency, which will be headed by a civilian administrator, will cooperate with the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission in scientific efforts related to space experiments. Creation of the agency is expected to greatly facilitate the various space exploration programs.

The other House-approved legislation is in the form of a resolution which calls on all nations of the world to join in international agreements for the peaceful explorations of outer space and joint cooperation in the advancement of scientific developments.

Both space measures received bipartisan suport in the House and have been referred to the Senate for consideration

MANPOWER CUTS DISAPPROVAL

Included in the Department of Defense Appropriation Bill, passed last week by the House of Representatives, were sufficient funds to maintain the Army's manpower total at 900,000 during the next fiscal year. This action indicated disapproval by a majority of House members of President Eisenhower's plan to cut Army personnel to 870,000.

Disapproval of another proposal by the Administration was indicated when the House accepted the recommendations of the Appropriations Committee to provide sufficient funds to maintain National Guard personnel at 400,000 and to increase the Reserves to 300,000. The Secretary of Defense had stated earlier that the Defense Department's budget request provided for a reduction in both the National Guard and the Army Reserve during the next fiscal year.

In addition to these forces, the House-approved bill suports a naval force of 630,000 with a reserve corps of 135,000 a Marine Corps of 200,000 with a reserve of 45,0003 and an Air Force of 850,000 with reserves of 146,0:0.

To finance all the armed services in fiscal year 1959, the House appropriated a total of $38 billion -- a record peacet.me military budget

EXCISE TAX EXTENDED

A one-yea extension of the existing corporate normal-tax rate and the present excise taxes on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, passenger automobiles, and automotive parts was approved by the House last week. Under present law, these taxes are scheduled for reduction on July 1, 1958. An extension was urged for the purpose of preventing a further budget deficit next year.

This legislation was considered ed any House amendments. Howunder a closed rule which prohibitever, theer is a possibility the Senate may attempt to amend the measure to include certain reductions.

TOURIST TRADE—

ALA. HEADED FOR ANOTHER RECORD YEAR

With only five full months completed for 1958, the State Publicity Bureau has already received more out-of-state tourist inquires than it received in the entire 12 months of 1957.

State Publicity Director Geoffrey Birt reports that between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 1957 his agency received 19,531 inquires from the State's national advertising campaign. "Between January 1 this year and May 31," Birt said, "We had received 20,106."

In 1956 only 10,237, such inquires were received by the Bureau, and in 1955 the numbere received was less than 6,000

Records show the State received 5,125 tourist inquires in May compared with the 3,513 received during May 1957.

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

A lady said to us the other day "I'm still glad I was with George Wallace". We too, are proud of our choice in the Governor's race, and we are more proud to stand up and say so, but let us not get so proud that we forget our true and basic belief of Democracy and the rights of the majority. We feel, and we know that the fine lady with whom we spoke will agree that our efforts should now be directed toward Alabama's choice and thereby uphold Mr. Patterson just as long as he personifies the beliefs that we hold sacred and just. We will stand by him and stand up for him as our Governor, if that be the will of the people, and as long as he works for the people and a better Alabama and world. No man is without fault, and when Mr. Patterthere will be many accusers. When son makes an error, like as not this happens, we still submit, as we did in the run-off election, that you as an individual weigh all that is evidenced before you make your choice of whether the man is guilty. Once decided, then you act undecided, you only make a fool of yourself, and possibly others.

And now, politics being quieted down, Chilton County turns to its first love of growing the finest peaches in the world. This year, the Festival (June 25th) is snowballing into something the likes of which we've never seen in these parts. All efforts are concentrated on one goal -- glorifying our number one crop and building good relationship among grower, packer, merchant and consumer. We believe that the outcome of this year's efforts will climax as the biggest and best ever held in Chilton County and it will certainly restore the Chilton County Peach to its rightful throne as "Tops" in the kingdom of good things to eat.

Please note the editorial on this page this week and let us know how you feel about "Your Community Newspaper" keeping up with the times. We are personally proud of this progressive step towards giving you better representation of all phases of Chilton County life -- social, spiritual, political and commercial. We extend to you an invitation to voice your opinions through the pages of your newspaper and thereby strengthen your rights and liberties as an American citizen. Freedom of the press is necessary for our other freedoms, for without it we would be uninformed, backward and in the dark. Let us hear from you -- whom we serve for suggestions in regard to further improving your "voice" to others.

YOUR 'NEWS' IS KEEPING UP TO BETTER SERVE YOU

THIRTY-FIVE years ago Chilton County News was born. It's purpose in life from the start was to serve "All the people of Central Alabama".

In it's tender years it was published by such men as J. B. Atkinson, now Judge of the County Court here, then Billy Smth, a son of the locally beloved Mrs. Mamie C. Smith.

Then, 20 years ago this year Mark L. Tucker, veteran newspaper publisher with the cooperation of his son R. M. "Ben" Tucker purchsed the News and it has been published by one or the other for these 20 years of progress for Chilton County.

Thus, since it is the 20th Anniversary of the partnership of the News and its publisher, it is right that it should take one of its greatest steps toward better newspaper publishing and a better representation for Chilton County.

Not only does the Anniversary include News and publisher, but many of the paper's supporters have been constant subscribers for the entire 20 years. Some even longer. We'd like to share in the Anniversary Celebration with these and our other subscribers as well by giving you a new Chilton County News. The same standard as always—"The Truth"—combined with the modern trends that keep us up with today's world.

The News will make a physical change within the next few weeks which will keep it up with the times as well as give its subscribers the bigger, better newspaper they deserve. Watch the pages for further developments of this—our most progrssive step!

"Integrity Starts in the Home":

GOVERNOR URGES STRONGER FAMILY TIES

And we know that to them that love God, all things work together unto good. — (Romans 8, 28.)

Loving Our Heavenly Father with all our heart and soul and mind, we put our trust entirely in Him, in His loving-kindness, His mercy and His wisdom God is all-good, and from Him naught but good can come to us. Strong in our faith and trust, we know peace and serenity —and that God's will for us will be for the best.

The U. S. has about 10,000 agricultaurtal marketing and farm supply cooperatives.

Alabama's Number One father has urged the need for "a strong family life" if we are to prosper spiritually and economically.

Gov. James E. Folsom, father of seven children, this week signed a proclamation declaring June 15 as Father's Day in Alabama, and pointed out:

"The theme for this year's celebration of Father's Day is "Integrity Starts in the Home". We look to the father in the home," Governor Folsom said, "to be the moulder of tomorrow's citizens, the builder of good family life and the foundation of our future, and teacher of our young in the importance of good ethics, fair play, peace and brotherhood throughout the world."

The Governor recommended the flying of the American flag on June 15 "and otherwise commeorating the father in the home so that every day may have the blessings that flow from good fatherhood, good citizenship and a strong family life."

Off-farm employment for farm wives has increased rapidly since 1950. Only about 17 percent of the wives had jobs off the farm then, as compared with more than 25 percent now.

Peach Pickers And Packers Take Note Of Labor Laws

Peach packers get ready for a bumper crop as several hundred Chilton County children look forward to jobs in packing houses and orchards.

Boys and girls 14 - 18 years of age are also in large supply this year, totalling 1,933, with 229 who are graduates. Many of these are looking for work, according to Miss Louise Foshee, supervisor of school attendance, who issues certificates which permits employment or which certify the age of the young applicant.

"But the packers, already familiar with federal child labor laws, are slow to encourage those under 16," she said, and explained that theprohibition against nighttime employment of 14 and 15-year-olds caused reluctance to hire the younger workers.

"Sorry, you're too young to work after 7 p. m." are the sad words heard by many job-seekers under 16. This is true in packing houses which run late, and most do, she said. Other restrictions prohibit these younger boys and girls from working more than 40 hours in the week with more limited hours required during school session.

"But 14's and 15's can legally work in the packing houses if the employer watches the restrictions. Many do, performing such jobs as labelling, grading, and lidding. Also, it is necessary for these younger ones to have an employment certificate.

"That's an 'employment certificate'" she said, "and not a 'minor's release' as it is so often called." It is issued for children under 16. When the particular job is finished or the child quits, the certificate is returned to Miss Foshee's office at the County Board of Education.

For children 16 and over, an 'age certificate' is issued. This, too, should be kept on file by the employer during the time the minor is employed.

Age certificates and employment certificates are issued on evidence of age, which can be in the form of a birth certifcate, the most acceptable form of proof. Also accepted are school records and life insurance policies which are old enough to establish age.

Both state and federal regulations require that the employer maintain the appropriate certificate on file. The federal law, enforced by the U. S. Labor Department through its wage and hour division, provides for severe penalties, with fines up to $10,000 for wilful violations of the child labor law.

Some jobs are too hazardous for the younger children, and also for those 16 and 17. These, declared hazardous by the U. S. Labor Department, include truck driving, and helping, operating folk lift trucks or any type of elevator, and operating a power-driven woodworking machine, such as an automatic lidding machine. Other hazardous occupations do not generally apply in the peach industry.

Miss Foshee said children under 16 must get two forms completed before she can issue the employment certificate. These are the "Employer's Statements" signifying the offer of work, and the "Health Officer's Statement" which can be filled out by the family physician or the county health officer, Dr. G. M. Taylon, who regularly visits Clanton.

"Work in the peach orchards doesn't set up as many restrictions," she said, "and many boys and girls 14 and 15 will earn extra money picking fruit this summer."

Children and employers are invited to visit or telephone Miss Louise Foshee for information. She is located in the County Board of Education, telephone 69.

Origin of The Bible

Numbers

The Israelites sojourned in the wilderness forty years. The Exodus and Leviticus accounts barely go beyond the first year, and Deuterony takes up the record only at the tail end of the fortieth year. The historical gay of thirty-eight years and nine months is bridged by the book of Numbers. (Num. 1:1; Deut. 1:3) Since this book embraces the bulk of the forty-year period and sets out the journeyings of the Israelites during their wilderness trek, the Jews call it Bemidebar, meaning "in the wilderness". It is the fourth word of the opening verse of the book of Hebrew Bibles. It is a truer designation of the book as a whole than the name "Numbers", carried over to English Bibles from "Numeri" of the Latin Vulgate and "Arithmoi" of the Septuagint. This latter name can logically apply to only five chapters at most (1-4, 26). The Jews, in keeping with their custom, also call the book by it opening word, Vayedabber ("and he spoke".

Note that here also, as in Leviticus, the book opens with the conjunction" and", definitely connecting it with what has gon before. It is clearly a part of what was originally one book, previously proved as being written by Moses. He is expressly identified in Numbers as its writer: "And Moses wrote their goings iut according to their journeys by the commandment of the LORD." These are the commandments and the judgments, which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses." (Num. 33:2; 36:13- In subsequent books of the Bible Numbers is recognized as a part of the Mosiac law. In proof, compare Joshua 4:12 with Numbers 32:20-22, 29; 2 Chronicles 31:3 with Numbers 28:1-31; and Matthew 12:5 with Numbers 28:9, 10.

Unlike that if Exodus and Leviticut, the completion of Numbers had to await the arrival of the Israelites at the plains of Moab, near the close of the fortieth year. Numbers, as previously explained, spans a period of thirty-eight years and nine months. The opening chapters might have been written early in that period, but from at least the twentieth chapter on the account deals with the fortieth year. In fact, it is not possible to state specifically when any of the first five books of the Bible were written by Moses. Just because the closing events of Numbers occurred on the plains of Moab near the end of the forty-year trek does not argue that the entire book of Numbers was necessarily written there. If one followed that principle he must argue that all five of these initial Bible books were written in the eleventh month of the fortieth year, because all were originally one book and the closing events were at the end of the fortieth year.

It should be remembered that Moses did not sit down at five separate times and write the first five books, He gave no such division to his writings. Nor did he persist and then write all at once wait till the end of the forty-year what is now the first five books. At the beginning of the forty-year sojourn he was commanded to write (Ex. 17:14) Doubtless soon thereafter he started to obey that command. It is reasonable that after recording what is now Genesis and bringing the account up to his time Moses kept the record up to date by additions from time to time. On this basis it has been stated in previous articles that the material now known as Exodus and Leviticus was probably put into writing at Mount Sinai. Like reas ning would argue that the material in Numbers was added to the divine record as time passed, and not all compiled in a few days at the end of the long period of time it civers. Before leaving this point of time, it is noteworthy that the Numbers account is not strictly in chronological order. The first fifteen verses of the ninth chapter cite events occurring not in the period between the close of Leviticus and the beginning of Deuteronomy, but in the month previous ,supposedly covered by Leviticus: -- Num. 1:1; 9:1

Numbers combines historical narrative and legislative writing, and even some Hebrew poetry of great power and beauty (6:24-26), to bring to its readers the essentials of the wilderness sojourn. Outstanding in its account is the closely-knit organization of the trekking "city" of millions of Israelites. The men of war were numbered. Each tribe was assigned its place of encampment around the tabernacle each tribe was assigned its place in the order of march. Trumpet signals governed camp affairs. Moses was in charge by Theocratic appointment, and under him were seventy organizational servants to expedite camp operation. Over and above all, the great Theocrat watched and directed. He it was that governed their movements, indicating by the cloud by day and the fire by night when they should march and their life should remain encamped.

Especially organized were the Levites. They were numbered separately from the men of war, by God's decree they were to have blanket exemption from military duty. They were charged with the care of the tabernacle; they were not subject to military training and service. (1:47-54) The Levites were thirded according to their descent from the three sons of Levi (Gershon, Kohath and Merari) and their duties relative to the tabernacle, and their position in camp were decided by this division by families. From time of service was fixed, from [illegible] of age to [illegible] they kept a [illegible] and counsele [illegible] service instru[illegible] within the age brackets of thirty years, and specifies their labor assignment in transporting the tabernacle. (4:39, 23, 30) The longer period of service mentioned in the eighth chapter probably takes into consideration the five-year training and probationary period; from the age of twenty-five to thirty. Full privileges of priestly service started at thirty years of age, and were limited to Aaron and his descendants.

Much of the material recorded in Numbers deals with laws concerning offerings, feasts, jealousies, inheritances, Levitical cities and cities of refuge, vows, and other regulations. The remaining contents of the book are historical in the main and detail the Israelites' journeying in the wilderness, their trials and tribulations, their rebellions and punishments, their murmuring and fallings, and their deliverances and conquests. In murmuring spirit the people lust for flesh; they commit the sin of Baal-peor; they are visited by plagues; twice there is rebelliousness against Theocratic rule (Miriam and Aaron against Moses; and some Levites, headed by Korah and Dathan and Abiram, grasping for the priesthood appointed unto Aaron and his [illegible] Jehovah grants victory over [illegible]ites and Sehon and Og. [illegible] entrusts to him Balaam [illegible] result only in blessing [illegible]ntes, re spelled total [illegible] slain; and even [illegible] privilege of entering the [illegible]nd, because of their apostasy. (25:1-9; 31:1-12) Aaron shares in this latter sin, and he too is therefor precluded from entry into Canaan. In the fortieth year Eleazar is installed in Aaron's office of high priest, and Joshua is given a charge as Moses subcessor. In the final numbering if the Israelites on the plains of Moab there were 601,730 (males twenty years and over, and Levites excepted); only two of these, Caleb and Joshua, the two faithful of the twelve sent to spy out Canaan land, were also numbered in with the original 603,550 nearly thirty-nine years before. Telephone Talk

By IRVIN COMMANDER Your Telephone Manager

DIAMONDS ARE A girl's best friend, they say. Oddly enough they're also good friends of the telephone company. Industrial diamonds—black and greasy—are used as dies to reduce copper wires all to exactly the same size. Last year more than $200,000 worth of diamonds were used to streamline 48,000,000 miles of copper wire to uniform size. You don't ordinarily think of diamonds when you think of everyday telephone service, but it takes many products and many people to keep the calls going through.

Mixed Signals Caused Train Wreck Here (October) Involving 2 Freights

INVESTIGATION NOW COMPLETE ON BIG CRASH

An engineer's failure to operate his train in accordance with signal indications caused a head-on collision between two Louisville and Nashville Railroad freight trains at Clanton, Alabama., October 26th 1957, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported today.

The ICC report by Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle stated that a northbound freight train passed a stop signal and was traveling about 24 miles per hour when it collided with a southbound freight train moving at a speed of approximately 5 miles per hour. The engineer and fireman of each of the trains were injured.

According to the report, the southbound freight train departed from Birmingham at 4:55 a.m. and was passed at 9:14 a.m. by a southbound passenger train at a point north of Clanton. The train controller at Birmingham lined the route for entry of the passenger train to the siding at the north switch at Clanton. After the passenger train entered the siding, the train controller lined the routes for the southbound freight to follow it onto the siding, and for movement of a northbound freight train on the main track to the signal immediately south of the north switch of the siding.

In accordance with a signal indication, the southbound freight reduced its speed from 45 to 18 miles per hour as it aproached the siding. Shortly after the engineer released the brakes, the fireman observed the northbound freight approaching on the main track and called a warning. The engineer initiated a service brake application and then an emergency brake application when he became aware that the northbound train was not stopping.

The northbound freight earlier had passed a signal indicating "prepare to stop at next signal" after which the engineer gradually increased speed from about 12 to 27 miles per hour. He was unable to explain why he increased the train's speed. When the northbound train was about 740 feet from the signal immediately south of the north siding switch at Clanton, the fireman and front brakeman observed that it indicated "stop". They called a warning to the engineer. He immediately initiated an emergency brake application. Speed reduced from about 27 to 24 miles per hour when the collision occurred.

After the accident, examination of brake equipment of the northbound freight train disclosed that the brakes of two cars were inoperative and nine cars required brake adjustments due to excessive piston travel.

SPRAY TO SAVE A LAMB

Odor experts have stepped in to confuse the maternal instincts of mother sheep -- and thereby save the lives of neglected lambs.

Ewes that give birth to twins will neglect the first-born and give all their attention to the second arrival. One sheepman who noticed this maternal misbehavior thought of an unusual way to prevent it.

He took a spray - can of air freshner -- the type that destroys odors -- and sprayed it on the neglected lamb. Then he rubbed some on the mother's nose. She immediately gave equal attention to both of her children.

Subsequent trials showed that the trick also works in getting a ewe whose lamb has died to mother an orphan or a neglected twin. In this case, one of the twins is sprayed and given over to the lambless mother, who promptly accepts it.

TODD HERE WITH AREA HORTICULTURAL SUBSTATION

Hollis Elbert Todd, a native of Rogersville, Lauderdale County has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Chilton Area Horticultural Substation at Clanton. This announcement has been made by Dr. Ralph B. Draughon, API president.

Todd is a graduate of the Lauderdale County High School, Rogersville, received his B. S. degree in agricultural education from API in 1955, and will receive an M. S. in agricultural education at API in August. He spent two years in the armed forces 1955-57.

While at Auburn Todd participated in varsity track, was collegiate FFA president, and division counselor at Magnolia dormitories. He is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa, honor societies in education.

SPRAY WHEN YOU SEE WHITES OF THEIR EYES

The latest generation of insect pests is rapidly finding its way into juicy vegetable gardens and tender beds.

The best way to control these troublemakers, is to be on the watch for their arrival -- and to have in hand a dust gun containing Auburn-approved garden dust (rotenone) or five percent malathion.

Aphids, cutworms, and vegetable weevils are among the pests most likely to bother you.

HEALTHIER TREES IN FUTURE

Plant disease reduce the productivity of our forests more than any other agent, including fire.

A recent study published by the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, showed that 45 per cent -- almost half of the combined growth and mortality loses are due to tree diseases.

Most diseases affecting American trees are native.

These occasionally rise to epidemic proportions, for a variety of reasons. Some diseases -- white demic proportions, for a variety of pine blister rust and chestnut blight, for example -- have been introduced from other continents.

Though insect damage is the greatest single cause if tree mortality, when growth losses and mortality are added together, only half as much destruction is caused by insects as by disease. Fire damage is about as extensive as insect damage.

Tremendous work in forest fire prevention and control has reduced the harm caused by this menace, but of course, any relaxation in effort could make it once again the number one destroyer.

"We can expect further reduction in losses from all causes," "because many owners are gradually realizing how to prevent these losses through better management. Thinning, removal of infested trees in cutting operations, cutting diseased trees for fuel wood, and continued fire protection will help."

DOCTOR'S TELL SUMMER EATING RULES

Television, air conditioning, and eating between meals have combined to produce a new hot weather syndrome among children, two pediatricians stated recently.

It is characterized by the "pale, flabby, tired child who has gained excessive weight during the warm weather because he has stayed in an air-conditioned house watching television most of his waking hours and has indulged in frequent between-meal snacks that have spoiled his appetite for well-balanced meals."

Poor appetite in the summer and uncontrolled use of cold, high-calfaulty eating habits may result from oric drinks or food, from failure to take adequate exercise and from overindulgence in between-meal snacks

A procedure for avoiding these problems was outlined by Drs. Floyd A. Norman and Edward L. Pratt in a special report on feeding children during hot weather, prepared for the American Medical Association Council on Foods and Nutrition

They first pointed out that hot weather imposes no special dietary requirements for children. They need the same well-balanced diet they always need, along with extra water. They do not need additional quantities of salt. Only adults under "conditions of great physical activity associated with extremely outputs of sweat" need sodium chloride tablets.

The doctors pointed out that it is unwise for adults to condition children to dislike hot weather or to foist summertime food fads on them.

Their rules for maintaining good nutrition and eating habits among children are:

The habit of vigorous outdoor activity should be continued or developed. Children do not mind hot weather unless they are conditioned to dislike it.

Cool, but not cold, drinks are best, and, for the most part, water should be used to quench the thirst.

Between-meal foods and high caloric drinks may have to be controlled.

A short "cooling-off" and quiet period before meals may increase the child's appetite.

Limiting of high-caloric foods, such as peanut butter and ice cream, may be necessary.

The large and better balanced meal may best be served in the evening when the temperature is lower.

All of the usual measures and guides for developing good eating habits should be continued, irrespective of the weather.

They noted that if infants and children eating well-balanced diets do not tolerate ordinary heat, they should be examined for diets.

Honey can be used measure for measure instead of sugar in puddings, custards, pie fillings, baked apples and other fruits, and sweet-sour vegetables.

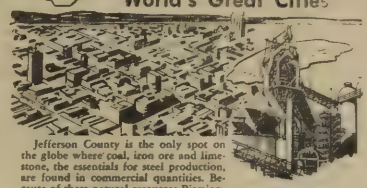
JEFFERSON COUNTY

★ Home of Birmingham "Youngest of the World's Great Cities"



Jefferson County is the only spot on the globe where coal, iron ore and limestone, the essentials for steel production, are found in commercial quantities. Because of these natural resources Birmingham, only 87 years of age, has become the industrial center of the South. Alabama's largest city is also a major national distributing center, serving a market of more than 5,000,000 persons. Steady growth, modernization and diversification has enabled Jefferson County to truly become the industrial "giant" of Alabama and the South.

In Jefferson and throughout Alabama, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to assure the sale of beer and ale—the light, bright beverages of moderation—under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of the people of Alabama, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing "self-regulation" program.

ANNOUNCEMENT
CENSUS COUNTY DIVISIONS
Chilton County, Alabama.

In a joint program with the State of Alabama and each of its counties, the Bureau of the Census is establishing areas known as "Census County Divisions," for use in statistical reporting. These areas will be used to replace the election precincts previously used as a census reporting unit

Mr. James Robert Kirby, a member from Washington, D. C., to confer of the Census Staff, was here sult with county officials and to solicit their advice in regard to the proposed areas.

Census County Divisions should be particularly useful for local statistical purposes. For the most part, they are based on the population centers which serve as a focal point of each division. The statistical data collected for these divisions in coming censuses will serve to measure the sphere of influence exercises by the population centers. It is believed that the Census County Divisions will be a handy tool for the use of County officials, local newspapers, and business organizations.

Mr. Kirby assures us that the county divisions setup by the Bureau of the Census will not interfere in any way with existing governmental units of the State or counties.

Census County Divisions: Clanton, Jemison, Isabella - Pletcher, Maplesville, Mineral Springs, Verbena.

LONNIE COST THANKS VOTERS

I also would like to congratulate my opponent, Mr. Dalton Champion for the clean and honorable campaign he conducted.

When or if I can ever be of any service to anyone please feel free to call on me at anytime. Yours for a better Chilton County in which to live, Lonnie L. Cost, Jemison, Rt. 2.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

Last Sunday was Father's Day we understand. They treated us right royally at our house too. We got up early -- about 6 o'clock while the ladies slept. They let us roam about the house for a couple of hours waiting for some breakfast. Then we got to dry the dishes and take the garbage to the ally and empty the garbage cans. Seems a few other chores had been put off during the week and we were allowed to do them, too. We went to town and got the morning papers. There we made a bad mistake when we came back. We put the paper down to wash our hands and that's all she wrote. The news section went one way and the funny papers the other. We had the magazine section left, but we always read it late Sunday night just before bedtime. Just a habit and being old and set in our ways we just won't read it any other time. As the day progressed the day got better though. Turned out they had a pretty card and a fancy sport shirt for us to celebrate the day. They wished us happy Father's Day and that started the darndest rain storm you ever saw -- something started it. Anyway we're all for these Father's Day. It makes you so darn glad to learn you're not just taken for granted and are really, deep down, appreciated by the other members of your household.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E Diefenderfer have returned after a month with their daughter in St. Louie. That Mr. Diet thinks there is no place in the world like Chilton County and he was plenty glad to get home. He does admit that he had a good time and took it pretty easy while there -- but Mr. Diet takes it pretty easy when here.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Bentley of Springfield, Tenn., were visitors to Mrs. E. E. Upchurch and Miss Della Latham this week. They are visiting before leaving on a world tour that will take them into the far away places for the next three months As we understand it the tour will be made by plane so besides seeing the far away places they will also learn how it feels to fly into the wild, blue yonder.

They were laughing at a guy in the barber shop because he was trying to sell a fellow some tonic to make his hair grow. The funny thing about it was he was bald as an onion. One of the customers ask him how he expected to sell hair tonic to make hair grow when he had no hair. He said that was nothing. He knew a fellow who sold brassiers.

Well mabe some people do give you a pain, but they had to give the airport hangar 138 panes to get it in shape for the Peach Festival. Now that's a lot of target practice for small boys with sling shots and air rifles and too darn expensive for the county. Boys should practice on tin cans and the like and not on our airport hangar window panes.

And speaking of the hangar we were riding around the other night and stopped to talk to T. C. Kincaid the new manager of the airport. He has been out there now for nearly two months and stays for 24 hours a day -- having living quarters in the rear of the building. It was badly needed, having someone out there all the time to protect the county's property. Mr. Kincaid says it gets awful lone-some sometimes out there in the wee small hours.

County Wheat Farmers to Vote On Important Referendum Friday

Chilton County wheat farmers will help make an important decision when they vote June 20 in the national wheat marketing quota referendum, Eddie Owen, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve quotas for the 1959 crop, Mr. Owen explained, the 1959 wheat program will include acreage allotments, marketing quotas (with penalties on "excess wheat) and price supports at a minimum national average of $1.81 per bushel or 75 percent of parity. If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, there will be no marketing quotas or penalties, bit allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support. The price support rat would be about $1.20 per bushel or 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

Chairman Owen pointed out that wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments operate only in commercial wheat states -- those with allotments of more t han 25,000 acres. Alabama has an allotment of 43,779 acres for the 1959 wheat crop.

Growers eligible to vote in the referendum are those who will be affected by the wheat quotas if they become effective. Thus, farmers who will have 15 acres or less of wheat for harvest as grain in 1959 and those who are taking part in the 1958 feed wheat program are not eligible to cast ballots in the 1959 wheat quota referendum on June 20.

The Referendum for Chilton County will be held at the office of the Agricultural Stablization and Conservation County Committee in Clanton. The polls will open at 8:00 A, M. and close at 7:00 P. M.

Those farmers who vote in the referendum will be the ones who decide whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1959 wheat crop.

NEWSPAPERS PROVE VALUABLE TO PENSIONERS

Newspaper reading has proved especially profitable to residents of this area in recent weeks, according to J. W. Overstreet, Jr., district manager for Social Security in Birmingham.

Mr. Overstreet reported that a large number of people have been coming to his office recently with newspaper clippings telling about benefits the applicants didn't know they could get.

The chief reason for these people not knowing earlier that they could get benefits, Mr. Overstreet said, was failure to understand that complete idleness or retirement is not required. "Under the law, any eligible person may earn up to $1,200 a year and still receive his full benefits every month," Mr Overstreet explained. "Ordinarily one month's check is forfeited for every $80.00 over $1,200 that the beneficiary earns in the year, but regardless of the total earnings for the year, benefits are payable for any month in which the applican: neither earns wages of more than $80.00 nor engages in self-employment."

Mr. Overstreet said that recent studies in his office of claims for benefits show that a significant percentage of applicants are losing money by failing to apply for Old Age or Survivors Insurance benefits on time. He attributed much of this to the mistaken belief that no benefits are payable to a person who is not completely retired. Since back benefits under the Social Security Law can in no case be paid for more than 12 months from the time application is made, people who delay too long in applying lose checks they could otherwise receive.

Mr. Overstreet particularly urges people over 72 covered by Social Security to get in touch with his office. "Anyone now 72 or over who has had Social Security coverage for as much as a year and a half, can get benefits even though he continues ti work fill time and has any amount of earnings," Mr Overstreet pointed out.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

A decisive vote of 317 to 98 in the House of Representatives last week sent the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Extension Act to the Senate for consideration. Since the measure was debated in the House under a rule which prohibited amendments, it was approved in the same form as reported by the House Ways and Means Committee.

An attempt to send the bill back to the committee was defeated. Members of the House also rejected a move to substitute a new bill for the committee measure. The substitute bill would have curbed the President's authority in negotiating trade agreements and would have limited extension of the Act to two years. It was defeated by a vote of 147 to 234.

EXTENDS FOR 5 YEARS

Approved by the House, the legislation extends for five years the President's authority to enter into reciprocal trade agreements. The present authority is scheduled to expire on June 30 of this year.

Although the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act has been extended eleven times since its enactment in 1934, the five year continuance provided in the House approved bill is the longest of any previous extension.

DEFENSE REORGANIZATIO

A bill designed to reorganize the Department of Defense was debated by the House of Representatives last week amidst charges and counter charges of partisan politics.

The purpose of this legislation is to simplify and modernize the Defense Department's basic organization in an effort to provide more effective and economical administration of our overall defense program. Particularly in recent months there has been increasing criticism of our various defense activities. Lack of coordination among the military departments has been cited as a reason for delays in certain scientific edvelopment programs. The house bill is aimed at reducing the causes of such criticism, and it follows generally the recommendations of the Hoover Commission's Committee on National Security Organization.

The most lively debate on the legislation was in connection with a provision of the bill which requires the Secretary of Defense to exercise his authority over the various military departments through the secretaries of those departments. An Administration-backed amendment, which would have eliminated this provision and given greater power to the Defense Secretary, was rejected by a 13-vote margin.

While the vote on that particular amendment was extremely close there was only one vote cast against

...SO. BELL WINS TOP SAFETY AWARD

Tele phone employees in Clanton have again in 1958 helped Southern Bell and the Bell System win the National Safety Council's top award the "Award of Honor," it was announced today.

The award, highest safety award in the nation, has gone to Southern Bell and Bell System employees for six out of the past seven years, according to I. M. Commander, Southern Bell Manager here.

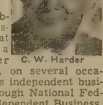
There was not a single lost-time injury among telephone employees in the Clanton exchange during 1957 and not even among employees driving Company vehicles.

"We are very proud of the safety record of Clanton employees," Mr. Commander said, "and the part they had in winning this award."

Throughout the Southern Bell territory there were only 54 lost-time injuries per million man-hours of operators. And there were no fatal on-th-job accidents. The Bell System's safety record makes the communications industry the safest of all industries according to the National Safety Council.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER



C. W. Harder

Many so-called economists express puzzlement over the fact that despite increasing unemployment, living costs continue to go up to new record highs.

A few short months ago, in the drive to stop inflation, the official word went out from Washington urging people to buy less. Now the tune has changed and people are asked to buy more.

This is probably no question but what inflation is a grave danger sign. In fact, on several occasions, nation's independent businessmen, through National Federation of Independent Business, have pointed out this danger.

The question then gets down as to what causes inflation to continue in a time of a business and job fall off.

Basically, a dollar does not have any magic value. In actuality, it is a measure of productivity. When dollars are exchanged for non-productivity, then the value of the dollar gets less; and this results in inflation.

Thus, today, government is undoubtedly the greatest inflationary force in the country; a far greater force than Mrs. Jones splurging at the apparel shop on Main Street, or her husband signing a contract to buy a flashy, expensive new convertible.

There are a few grim facts that cannot be escaped.

It has been the fashion in government to attribute inflation to people having too much money. Yet Commerce Dept. figures show the per capita income only increased from $1,727 per year in 1952 to $1,942 in 1956. This is all before taxes, of course.

But from 1947 through 1956 the federal government's civilian payroll expanded from $13 billion to $28 billion. In fact, this increase in bureaucratic payrolls in 9 years of almost $15 billion dollars far exceeds the pay for all the U. S. armed forces in 1956 of $9¾ billion.

Or to put it another way, the increase in the federal civilian payroll in this period equals the per capita income of 7½ million people. If you add to this the almost $4 billion now being sought in new foreign give away funds, this reaches the per capita income of almost 10 million people.

A dollar paid to a factory worker, for example, is a dollar paid for producing something of value which finds its way in the market place, creating commerce. But a dollar paid to a government worker is not money paid for productivity.

This is an appalaiable fact which many in government choose not to recognize, yet has done more harm to independent business along the nation's Main Streets than anything else.

As Wendell Barnes, head of the Small Business Administration recently pointed out, over half of the nation's working force is employed by small and independent business.

Thus, it logically follows, that no lasting prosperity can be attained in the nation if road blocks are continually thrown in the path of independent, free enterprise. The U. S. nation cannot support both free enterprise and a huge bureaucracy. Eventually, one, or the other, will go. And if free enterprise becomes the victim, it is a certainty that communism, or socialism, in some form will follow.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW CONNIE B. FOUND "THE WAY BACK"

Every person in the world has a story to tell. Sometimes it begins with hope and ends with despair. Then there are others who have traveled a road of disappointment and shame that seemingly led to oblivion, yet through a miracle they reappear with a heart-warming story of recovery. They are those who come back from "life's other side."

Connie B. has tasted the dregs of life. She was a person whose every moment was spent in trying to get enough alcoholic beverage to satisfy her craving. But no person who is an alcoholic can ever get enough to drink. They simply drink themselves into unconsciousness, and when they wake up, they are ready to start all over. But Connie came back! Here is her story telling how she did its

"I was once an alcoholic. I was hopelessly addicted. But nearly two years ago, when I had literally gone the last mile of the way, I picked up a copy of a religious magazine that a friend had left in my home. In it I read the Arthur Lock story telling of his miraculous deliverance from alcoholism.

"A very short time later I was listening halfheartedly to a religious program when suddenly a familiar name stood out. . . . The voice continued, '. . . an alcoholic on Houston's skid row for years . . . will be here to give his testimony August 1. . . . Be sure to hear ARTHUR LOCK!'

"I attended that service that night. While Arthur Lock spoke, I wept as I listened to a story much like my own. Every word described the agony I was experiencing — the terrible remorse, loneliness and defeat. At the close of the message, through blinding tears, I made my way down the aisle of that church and surrendered my life to the Lord Jesus Christ. At that same moment the burning desire for alcohol left me completely.

"Soon after my conversion and deliverance I traveled widely giving my testimony. My secular proicssion paid my expenses (I was a dairy food specialist and broker). But it was not long until such a deep compassion for others filled my heart that now all my efforts are spent in ministering to alcoholics.

"Since January I have had 27 decisions for Christ. I have corresponded with over 100 men and women (alcoholics), and fed, clothed and found jobs for many.

"I have washed and ironed for these people, cared for them when they were sick, and hospitalized two of them. I know, with God's help, I can continue to minister to people who have come to the end of their way as I once did.

"Yes, I have come back from the 'other side of life' and have found abundant life through Jesus Christ."

And to my readers, I say: "If Connie B. can come back, you can too. There are no hopeless cases with God. He is always willing and eager to help you."

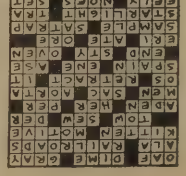
Answer to Puzzle



THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

We have an option of either having renewed faith in the honesty of our fellowman or believing that one of us is crooked. Conscience's being a vital part of our everyday make-up, that could have something to do with it. Anyhow, for several weeks now we have had paper and a container (for the nickel) in front of the News plant so that after-hour readers could enjoy the fruits of our labors. Other day we observed that there were three cents in the box along with the other change. Well, we thought someone wanted the News pretty bad to pay two cents short for it, and we passed it off to our supply and their demand. A few hours later, we had occasion to check the box again and the contents were--you guessed it--two Abraham Lincoln's. Now we don't know if the first party came back to pay his debt or if there were two crooks in front of the News that day. In a sense, we likek to think the first party came around to complete his transaction on the other hand it is good to think that folks want the News bad enough to short change the old money box for it.

Which reminds us of another experience which is the exception to the rule. One day recently we did not have change or something like that and Mrs. Sandlin wanted two papers. We said she could just owe us for them (as we've said a thousand times) and we passed it off as another public service. This week Mrs. Sandlin called us up front from the back of the plant and gave us the dime she „owed" us. Not much, but it gives you a sort of warm feeling when people these days have time to remember so trivial a thing as paying for a copy of their newspaper.

Love is a many splendored thing--such as your car breaking down while on your way to "honeymoon Hotel". That's just what happened to a Birmingham "Just Married" couple this week. The hottest part of the day is the time the "family" car chose to conk out and Sir Galahad to fix it--the hard way. He had the sweetest looking little bride you ever saw and he was out tinkering with a dadgum car engine. Well, what ya gonna do?

Preacher gave us a tongue lashing Sunday. What we want to know is just where WERE you other hypocrits anyhow? If there's anything we can't stand it's a chicken-hearted hypocrit

Any of you so-called Conservatives who say we're not progressing are due for a shock just by looking down literally any block in Clanton. There has been more modernization of buildings and business houses in the past five years than in any of Clanton's history. The slogan used during the recent campaign was very appropriate for our situation and it described the obvious trend to do something about it "let's get Chilton County out of the mud and dust." There are cobwebs in some of Chilton County's phase of life and we predict a "house-cleaning" job the likes of which we've never seen is being evidenced and will be evidenced for the next few years. Keep your eye on Clanton and Chilton County where big things are happening for the betterment of our way of life.

TEN PERCENT PRORATION OF SCHOOL FUNDS MADE

Funds Cut By State Dept.

W. A. (Bing- LeCroy, Superintendent of Education has just been notified by the State Department of Education that it has been necessary to make a ten per cent proration of school funds. This was made after schools had iperated for eight months on the budget of the present fiscal year and it means that Chilton County loses $83,529.00 from the regular state appropriation.

The cost of opration of the schools for the remainer of the fiscal year which ends on September 30, will be approximately the same as the amount the county is losing.

In addition to the loss of $83,592.00 the appropriation for Thorsby High School has likewise suffered a ten per cent proration which means a deduction of $4,000.

It simply means that the boys and girls if Chilton County and over the State of Alabama will be the ones to suffer. Can we afford to let this happen to the boys and girls of Alabama -- our boys and girls?

AIR CONDITIONER NEED BEST CARE

With warm weather here, it's a good idea to check air conditioners to see if they are operating properly.

Frequent causes of air conditioner troubles, are dirty air filters and inadequate wiring.

Machines with a three-fourths horsepower motor, or larger, should be run on a separate 230 volt circuit, he added.

Number 10 wire is large enough for any size up to one and one-half tons, but number 8 wire is best for a two-ton unit on long runs. And the air filter should be cleaned and coated with the recommended material every two weeks

Alabama Peach Packers are Usually Under $1 Minimum

Chilton County peach-packing houses illustrate the basic rules for applying the "area-of-production" exemption in the Federal Wage and Hour Law ,according to Hugh B. Campbell, Labor Department supervisor.

"This is true because packing sheds in Thorsby make one test, while those in Clanton make another, " Campbell said, "and requirement for payment of the $1-an-hour minimum wage is determined by these tests."

The exemption, which applies under proper circumstances to certain employees of packers of fruits and vegetables ,is based upon these two tests:

1. Population - Plants located within one air mile of a city of 2,500 or more population are not exempt.

2. Source of fruit - To be exempt, packing houses must receive 95 percent of fruit from a radius of 15 miles of the plant, even though in a community of less than 2,500 or in the open country.

"In the two peach centers in this county, peach packers in Clanton, with a 1950 population of 4,450, are automatically under the wage provisions of the law; while plants in Thorsby, with a population of 828 should make the second test before paying less than the minimum wage.

A separte exemption, which is not restricted by these 'area-of-production' tests exempts overtime pay legally unnecessary for 14 workweeks in each year for packers of fresh fruits and vegetables. This generally covers the peach season, and the exemption applies to all workers if the plant is devoted solely to packing peaches."

Mr. Campbell warned that the wage and hour exemptions had no effect on the employment of children. He said these rules apply to hiring children in peach-packing houses:

1. Don't hire those under 14.

2. For 14's and 15's, be sure to observe the limitations which prohibit night work and long hours (no work between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m., daily hours not over 8, weekly hours not over 40.

3. For 16's and 17's most jobs can be held

4. Don't use [illegible] hazardous work, such as driving of helping on trucks, operation of fork-life equipment, elevators or automatic box-stapling or woodworking machinery

"And be sure to get [illegible] ment Certificates on all children 14 [illegible] 18 who are employed," he added.

His office can supply additional information about wage-hour exemptions or about child labor regulations. Address: Hugh B. Campbell, U. S. Labor Department, Wage and Hour Division, Bush Building, Columbus, Georgia.

KILL WASPS AT NIGHT

The best time to go after those spring builders with the vicious stings, is under cover of darkness.

Of the more than 2,500 species of wasps in North America, only a few are troublesome to man. These are the hornet, yellow-jacket, polistes wasp, and mud dauber. And ,they could be classed as beneficial insects were it not for their habit of building nests close to the house or in garden shrubbery and then dealing a stinging rebuke to anyone who disturbs them. Wasps in general, kill and eat such pests as house flies, blow flies, corn earworms, and army worms.

Night is the best time to destroy a wasp nest because the insects are less active then, and most of them are in the nest. Suggested poisons are DDT or chlordane.

FOLKS and THINGS About Town by Ben

President Eisenhower just doesn't know when to quit. No sooner does he get the Adams stink quited down than he announces a conference in the White House with the Negroe leaders on segregation. Hasn't the poor man learned that the segregation question is dynamite?

Bob Sellers is dead! That news will sadden many in Chilton County who called Bob Sellers their friend. He was as well known among the businessmen of the county as a native. He died last Friday after a long illness and many here grieve with his widow, Alma Allen Sellers.

Things have come to a pretty pass. The other morning Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson was sweeping the walk in front of the Dixie Cafe. Now Ruby the waitress, says the early morning coffee drinkers will take turn about sweeping the front sidewalk. Funny, but we don't drink early morning coffee anymore. Sweeping is work -- and that could get to be a habit.

Young Ervin Dailey is a fellow who will go places. He has been elected Outreach Chairman for the Alabama-West Florida Conference of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. It is a signal honor for young Ervin and one for which his many friends are proud. But, he is a very capable boy and we'll be watching with much personal interest his progress.

Shades of Isaac Walton, now they're catching three foot fish on the highways of Chilton County. We been telling the world that this was a fishing paradise but it took W. W. Barron and E. J. Higgins to prove our point. Last Thursday night they were driving to work down U. S. 45 when just this side of Deatsville they saw a gar about three feet long flopping around on the highway. They got out made their catch and went on to work. They never said what they did with the fish. Now, by gar, that's some fish story.

We've just learned that Callen Allred's Drug Store is for the birds. That is, a small portion of it is anyway. According to Mrs. Callen you can get one of the dandy peachiest bird houses there that you ever saw. We're not advertising the store. This is for a worthy cause. The Garden Club of Clanton is having them made and selling them to raise money for the Community Center building that a certain group are determined to have here regardless. You can do a good turn and also help the building fund by buying a bird house. They're handmade and vari-colored for varying tests. The Garden Club of Clanton has already donated $500 to the building fund of the new Community Center and are now working on their second $500.

They've been kidding the sox off Grady Heflin about his "green front". They had a new paint job done on the Peoples Savings Bank and they painted it green. Now every prohibitionist in Chilton County know what a "green front," is and just about everyone else too. Anyway Grady,it looks good and that's a mighty substantial night depository you have just installed too.

A local vegetable farmer saw two rabbits eating his vegetables. He ran off to get a stick and by the time he got back there were more rabbits than he could shake a stick at.

DIVISION IN SUMMER CAMP, FT. MCCLELLAN

The 167th Infantry Regiment, part of the Dixie Division now in Summer camp, paraded today in honor of two colonels and a sergeant.

The parade, marking the end of the first week of camp, honored Col. William T. Moore, Co. Edward C. Krause and Master Sgt. Leo F. Winterburn, Jr.

Moore, commander of Fort McClellan, and Krause, regular Army advisor to the Dixie Division, were awarded the Alabama Commendation medal. It was presented by Brig. Gen. John D. Sides, Assistant 31st Division Commander.

Sgt. Winterburn received the Certificate of Achievement.

Here's a new contest with no strings attached. It's all cord!

Tom Shirley Goodyear farm tire dealer at Goodyear Service Store in Clanton has placed a 10.28 Super-Grip rear tractor tire in his display window and is asking the question, "How many feet of 3-T Cord are in a tire like this?"

The person making the closest estimate will be awarded a DLX Ber-B-Q Grill. There will be additional prizes for other persons coming close, too

"All a person has to do to participate in the contest is to come into the store and jot down an estimate of the amount of cord in the tire," related Mr. Shirley, manager. "There's nothing to buy no jingles to write, no hoxtops to get. Just make an estimate."

The contest will end with the store's closing hour on Saturday June 28. Actual number of feet in the 10-28 Super-Grip rear tractor tire will be announced by the store early in July. Prizes will be awarded at this time.

LOCAL GUARDSMEN COMMENDED FOR EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE

PARTICIPATED IN FIELD TRAINING EXERCISE

Specialist Third Class William J Wilson, son of Mrs. Irene J. Wilson, Verbena, Ala., recently participated in a field training exercise conducted by the 8th Infantry Division near Baumholder, Germany

The men of "I" Company returned June 22 from their annual summer encampment at Ft. McClellan, Alabama. The training this year was directed toward completion of the Advanced Individual phase of training preparatory to reorganization under the Pentomic concept. Under this new concept the unit will be characterized by greater mobility and fire power placing a greater possibility on the officers and NCO's of the Company and placing a higher premium on these Non-Coms.

The Standards for a NCO in "I" Company have always been high as the performance of the Company depends to a large extent on their ability. These high standards justified themselves in the excellent manner in which the Company performed its assignments during this past encampment.

Special recognition is due PFC William E. Smith, who, although not an NCO, successfully completed the 31st Infantry (Dixie) Division's NCO School of Standards.

The people of Chilton County can take pride in the men representing this county in the Dixie Division. -- Fred C. Blackmon, Commanding.

School Census

In accordance with the laws of the State of Alabama, census enumerators will be calling on every home in Chilton County during the month of July to enumerate children, ages 2 through 20. This count is very important for several reasons. It helps the State in the distribution of school funds to the various counties and cities. It is also accepted as an official document in aiding in securing driver's licenses, birth certificates, and in various other legal matters.

Parents and guardians can be helpful to the enumerators by having the information readily available. The information to be obtained will include:

1. The full names, addresses, and occupation of both parents.
2. The full names of all children, 2 to 20 inclusive, the name of the school they will attend, the accurate birth date and the highest grade completed.

Children within the age limits who are temporarily away from home should be enumerated. This will include those in college, in the armed forces, or away at work provided they are still considered a part of the immediate family. (Usually if they are still single.)

Parents are urged to have birth certificates convenient to show the enumeratir as evidence of birth date. When these are not available, Bible records, old insurance policies, or Baptismal records will be helpful.

Enumerators have been selected Principals and teachers of the various communities will be doing the enumeration.

"It is wise to give narrow-minded people a wide margin."

COUNTY COUNCIL PTA TO HAVE INSTRUCTION

The Chilton County Council of Parents and Teachers is preparing to have a school of instruction for the benefit of incoming officers and chairmen of local P.-TA groups throughout the county. This school will be held Friday June 27, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. at the City Grill in Clanton, where arrangements have been made for your comfort in their air-conditioned dining room.

The discussions at this meeting will be informal, designed to help every officer and chairman understand his duties and responsibilities, and to suggest ways and means to encourage enthusiasm in all phases of P.-TA work. Therefore all officers and chairmen are urged to attend, bringing any problems confronting them, as well as suggestions that may be helpful to others.

Let's make this school a success and thereby enable ourselves to continue to improve our quality of work and to move ahead with the progress of our P.-TA's.

Many of these boys will use this stand to market their projects, (peaches, tomatoes, berries, and all types of trick crops). It is a good business too! It is located just outside of Jemison on highway 31. It's believed that this is one of the most traveled highways in the state.

HOW dignified some men can get on such small capital.

TRY to smile -- only if the smile is skin deep.

AS a man thinks, he acts. And that is why so few ever act.

IT is a proven fact that economy is never really fashionable.

THE man that thinks he is always right loses many bets.

REASON ROUTS RECESSION --

There is some reason to believe that the recession has come full circle - and it is the automobile that is bringing us out again!

Spirited efforts of dealers over the country to persuade their prospects that "you auto buy now" are paying off. And, as production goes up in Detroit this increasing activity carries with it improvement in the steel, rubber, plastics and glass industries - and generally increasing employment.

Back of the you-auto-buy-now campaign is Detroit's belief that one car owner in seven can afford a new car and needs or wants one. This being so, the car-builders have been convinced that the feeling of uncertainty or even fear that had frozen this logical prospect's bank account could be melted by a forthright appeal to reason.

For instance, the man-with-the-money - or a reasonably assured income - is in the saddle and probably in a better position to drive a bargain than ever before. In their anxiety to speed up sales, dealers are slicing their normal profit to the bone, making it easier for buyers to "trade-up" to bigger cars, or to acquire at low cost those power accessories that many car owners have felt were too expensive.

Financing, usually a major consideration, is easier than at any time in the past three years. Interest rates are lower and better terms are available - advantages that are unlikely to continue into the next model year when the present surplus will have been absorbed. Further, all indications point to higher prices on next year's cars.

Today, we are in a buyer's market, the first in a long time and one which - in view of the increasing activity noted above - is not expected to last through the year. To cash in on it (if you are that one car - owner in seven) "you auto buy now"!

DO THEY NEED ALL THIS LAND?

Have you any idea how much of the US has been commandeered by our armed forces?

Can you visualize 29 million acres? It is some 40,000 square miles. And if that is beyond comprehension, it would constitute a belt 14 miles wide from New York to San Francisco! This is the vast empire that has been preempted by our defenders - who are demanding six million more acres.

Charles Stevenson, writing in the July issue of Reader's Digest, presents a shocking survey of this nationwide land grab that should arouse Americans to the support of their representatives in Congress who are fighting a losing battle against the military real estate fanciers.

To cite a few of Mr. Stevenson's points:

The armed forces now own one acre out of every 100 in Virginia, two out of every 100 in Florida and five-and-a-half million acres of California - "an area larger than Connecticut, Deleware and Rhode Island combined". The Air Force has a bombing range adjacent to as Vegas, Nevada, that is 135 miles long and 50 miles wide: and the Navy, instead of sharing this test area - of which the Air Force needs only a third - is taking over 700,000 more Nevada acres for its own. In addition to a three million acre missile range in New Mexico, "the Army moved in on an adjacent 470,000 acres of ublic property embracing some of the lushest grazing land in the state", and followed this up by taking over 21 adioining ranch properties. In Louisiana, Utah and Oklahoma, the depreredations of the services are equally outrageous.

The standard argument of the military, that defense must come first, still seems unanswerable. Yet, as the article points out, a two year Congressional investigation headed by Rep. Clair Engle of California revealed that:

The services have refused to use land they already own.

It costs $21 million a year to maintain over 200 idle installations, bases and camps that usurp a million acres.

There are six-and-a-half million additional acres still preempted but no longer required by the services.

The time is rapidly approaching, it seems, when we must decide whether it is the function of the military to defend the nation, or whether the nation exists for the support and aggrandizement of the military.

DOES IT TAKE A LITTLE LIFE ?

LIFE'S POSSIBILITIES --

Does it take the Heaven sent blessing of a child's life to jar you to the realization that letting your child handle your automobile foolishly is in reality an imposition on your neighbors?

It's not so much a case of doting parents -- that seems to be a general trend of today's world anyhow. No, t's even simpler than that! It's the "don't give a darn" attitude of many parents who obviously think that since it's their child then it must be alright. Since when, we ask you? Is your child so special that he can come through an accident alive or without a mangled body? Is your child so special that he cannot kill someone wth his carelessness and thereby involve you in a lawsuit; one you likely cannot afford?

Is your child so much more special than others that he needs no guidance, needs no one to show him the way? Most of all, isn't your child dear enough to you for you to want him to keep that healthy body -- all in one piece and don't you want him to grow up with a conscience unmarred by the memory of an accident which he was responsible for & which he took someone less fortunate than himself?

Frankly, we're getting sick and tired of evidencing such stupidity on the part of parents whom we know, and we think it's well past time that they took account of themselves and their family and got it back under control again. Does it take a child's life to show you the possibilties of living -- and dying?

Across the Editor's Desk

On July 15 citizens of Chilton County will be called upon to relevy the 3-mill and 1-mill school taxes and again on August 12 they will be asked to vote to re-levy the District A and District B three mill taxes. As you know, these are taxes that the Chilton County Board of Education has been receiving for the past forty years and these taxes are re-levied for twenty years each time. The last re-levy was in 1938. Therefore, we are asking the citizens to re-levy these taxes at this time. There are a few things that the citizens of this county should knowabout these taxes:

1. This definitely is not a new tax nor an additional tax.
2. The people of Chilton County pay only about one-half of the amount collected from these taxes and public utilities pay approximately one-half.
3. These are the only local taxes collected for our schools and this rate has remained the same for the past forty years.
4. Chilton County is required to put this amount of money collected from taxes into our schools in order that we can qualify for approximately $835,000 of state money.
5. A number of citizens have asked why we hold two elections in order to re-levy the taxes. Title 52, Section 255, Code of Alabama, 1940, provides the following:

"No election in any rural or city school tax district shall be held for the purpose of levying and collecting a special school tax purposes unless the county in which said rural or city school tax district is located shall be levying and collecting special county taxes for school purposes of not less than thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in such county."

As your Superintendent of Education I wish to impress upon the citizens of this county the importance of re-levying these taxes for without them there is no possible way for us to receive enough state money to operate our schools. I feel confident that the citizens of this county will go to the polls on July 15 and August 15 and re-levy these taxes which will give the children of Chilton County the educational opportunities that are being provided by other counties throughout this state. — Signed W. A. LeCroy, Superintendent.

1500 WIDOWS BEING SOUGHT FOR CIVIL WAR PENSIONS

Rep. Armistead Selden said today the Veterans Administration has requested his assistance in trying to locate an estimated 1,500 widows of Confederate veterans believed to be entitled to federal pensions.

The request was made by Sumner G. Whittier, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, who told Congressman Selden of the VA's problem in trying to identify the widows, who for the first time are eligible for VA uensions under new Public Law 85-245.

The new law also provides pensions for the two living Confederate veterans, Walter W. Williams of Franklin, Tex., and John Salling of Slant, Va. Both men have been contacted by VA field representatives and assisted in filling their claims.

The widows however, present another problem, Congressman Selden explained. Only those Southern states which pay similar benefits have partial rolls of Confederate beneficiaries. The United States government has no official records on these beneficiaries and, since the benefits are not automatic, the widows will have to fill out application forms which may be obtained in person or by writing to an VA office.

Widows under 70 are entitled to $40.64 per month, and those over 70 wil lreceive $65. If the widow was married to the veteran during the Civil War Service, she is entitled to $75 a month.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Members of the House of Representatives gave overwhelming approval last week to a revised public works authorization bill. The original version, passed earlier in the session, was vetoed by the President on April 15.

Since the House measure differs slightly from the Senate - passed bill, a compromise must be worked out by a joint conference committee. However, both bills contain a authorization of approximately $19 million for the Tombigbee River flood control project. Plans for improving the Tombigbee call for clearing snags from the river and its tributaries and excavating channel cutofs and enlargements. Two of the Tombigbee's tributaries -- the Sipsey and the Noxubee Rivers -- are located partly in the Sixth District.

Several projects opposed by President Eisenhower that were authorized in the original bill were omitted in the legislation adopted last week by the House of Representatives. Therefore, there is every reason to believe the President will sign the new measure.

RIVER FUNDS VOTED IN

Another bill containing funds for river improvements in Alabama received House approval last week. Included in Public Works Appropriation Bill for fiscal year 1959 are appropriations of $6 million for the Jackson Lock and Dam and $11.7 million for the Fort Gaines Lock and Dam.

The Jackson Lock and Dam will replace three antiquated locks and dams on the lower reaches of the Tombigbee River. The amount appropriated by the House is sufficient to continue on schedule the construction of this important installation.

The Fort Gaines Lock and Dam on the Chattahoochee River near Columbia, Ala., and Ft. Gaines, Ga., is scheduled to be completed in 1952.

ATOMIC ENERGY BILL

Legislation which will permit a greater exchange of atomic information between the United States and its allies also gained House approval last week.

Provisions of the bill are designed to bring about more cooperation between our country and friendly nations in the field of atomic energy in order to conserve the scientific talent of the free world, strengthen our mutual security, and discourage our allies from independently setting up their own atomic weapons programs.

The original Atomic Energy Act of 1946 prohibited the United States from exchanging with any nation restricted data on design and fabrication of atomic weapons. The original law was amended in 1954 to permit certain exchanges under appropriate safeguards. Both the law and the ensuing amendments, however, contained provisions recognizing that future events might necessitate a greater degree of cooperation, such as that provided for in the House-approved bill.

And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God... —(St. Luke 9, 43.)

Almighty God's power to heal us, physically, mentally, spiritually, has to be experienced to be believed—and it is available to all who love and obey Him. Truly, God is "the Great Physician, Who has never lost a cace." His prescription is Faith; He expects no payment other than our love.

Figure Perfect

THAT'S THE WAY to be with figure-following beachwear such as this Hawaiian-idea shirred maillot by Alfred Shaheen. It's exotic flowered cotton—and note the new "deep see" plunge neck. Underneath, a Playtex panty brief of Latex assures a neat seat. The cap is Playtex, too—a new crystal-pleat import with dramatic applique leaf trim.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE

The Jemson Babe Ruth Baseball Team under the management of Billy Oakes and Durwood Plier is off to a very fine start with two wins and one loss. The latest win was Friday, June 20th over the Clanton Blues by a score of 2 - 0. It was an excellent played game by both team. Dick Northcutt pitched a brilliant three hitter, and was backed up on fine plays by Dwight Cobb, Douglas Holcombe, Gene Sorrell, Charlie Price, Harold Clements, Charles Easterling, John Gamble, and Larry Cobb. Jemison scored their two runs on five hits, timely bunts and fine base running.

All remaining home games are going to be played at night if possible. The only way they can be played is by your support and contributions. No charge can be made for the public to see the games, since it is against Babe Ruth League rules. Give your contributions to Billy Oakes or Durwood Plier. Also containers are being placed in business establishments for you to make your contributions. Give and lets give the boys in our community the same chance and support other communities have given theirs.

On Thursday night, June 26th at 7 P. M. Jemison plays the Clanton Greens at Clanton, then on Friday night at 7 P. M. Jemison plays Montevallo at Jemison. Lets carry a nice crowd from Jemison to Clanton to back our boys Thursday night and by all means lets come out and support our boys Friday night against Montevallo, and all the remaining games. Remember, the boys you support today will be our men of tomorrow.

SEE YOU AT THE BALL GAME.

THINGS We see and hear

by "TUCK"

Mrs. Clois Robinson is a hard person to understand and a bit difficult to know sometimes but she is tops in our book when it comes to handling a group of voices -- that is getting the full potentil out of them for the most effective rendition of a song. We certainly want to extend our warm thanks to her for the way in which she manages the choir at First Methodist Church here in Clanton Why, we believe she could even make us sound good. That in itself is enough to show you just what kind of talent she has. Second only to her talent along this line is her devotion to her duty which she performs with the efficiency of a machine though sometimes combined with the outward coolness of one. If it is a distinction to be in her position then we certainly think she is deserving of it for her long and faithful service to her church and community.

We've done it so we know how he feels. One of the most amusing and downright entertaining situations we ever see is the man in the middle aisle when taking up offering or collection at a church meetings. We feel for him in his plight of handling what seems like sixteen plates at one time, but it's still amusing to us to see the way they juggle, figure and jump trying to get everybody's money without stepping on anyone's toes or without repeating an aisle and trying to get too much. It's strictly a case of "you make the first move, and I'll follow suit".

Well, they couldn't have made a better choice for Peach Queen; at least that's what Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wood thinks since their daughter has gained the distinction of "Miss Chilton County Peach of 1958". We congratulate her on a most significant achievement due to the fact that the field was crowded. We know she will represent us well in Washington when presenting the prize peaches to our Congressman. That's the thing about Chilton County peaches, they not only taste good, they "look" good too.

A Chilton County citizen, or as the little girl said "resident" since they don't accept their citizenship, was responsible last week for the bashing in of a visiting Georgia man's car door. We had dealings with the man and we know, and you can imagine the opinion he holds of Clanton (he told us so) since the accident took place while his car was parked and the offending party took to the hills. Why don't we have the guts to stand up and say "Yes, I did it" and then do what we can to relieve our situation rather than slinking off like a weazel ever to be reminded by our conscience that we committed a wrong doing to a fellow human being. You, the guilty party, have done more against your community than you did to yourself or the man's car. You know full well just what his sizing up of out town will be to others. Is that good relations? Public, human, or otherwise !

Clanton is either the cleanest town you ever saw or it's the slowest to dispose of unwanted material. Other night we observed a trash can down in center of town that was literally brimming over with paper, cardboard, ect. Now, that's what we call neat. Only thing is we don't know whether we keep the trash up real well or just have more trash than we normally should have. One way or the other, we still make use of our garbage containers.

To obtain the month's gain, the telephone company connected 10 telephones for applicants and disconnected 2.

EMOTIONAL REACTION TO SURGERY

Emotional reaction to surgical operation often has a bearing on the condition of the patient before and after the operation. Such emotional reactions range from mild tension to psychotic disturbances which sometimes verges on mental amnesia, over-excited or maniacal behavior just prior to surgery.

Greens Lead In Local Babe Ruth League

With one-third of the season behind, the Babe Ruth League now has the Clanton Greens leading with a record of 4 wins and 2 losses. Jemison and Montevallo are tied with records of 2 and 1, while the Blue team from Clanton is trailing with one victory in six starts. However, the Blues are beginning to make their move now and stand a good chance of showing the other clubs a loss or so along the way.

Tonight (Thursday) Jemison plays in City Park. Jemison will be out to reverse a licking the Greens administered on Friday the thirteenth with a little better luck, just might come off with a win. On Friday June 27th, Montevallo will visit Jemison with the game scheduled for 3:00 p. m.

All the folks associated with the Babe Ruth Baseball really appreciate some of the good cooperatio that has been received so far this year. Campbell Auto Parts paid the light bill for us on Thursday, June 12 while William Thomas, Agent for The Standard Oil Co, did as much for us on June 19. Without this kind of help it is impossible for these boys to play night baseball -- and that would place them at quite a disadvantage in tournament play.

At the same time, it does seem that more of the parents, the uncles, aunts and cousins would make a bigger crowd at some of the games than we are now having. Besides these youngsters are playing interesting ball. For instance Jemison defeated the Blues by scores of 2-0 and 4 - 2 -- and any fan will verify the fact that those scores indicate good baseball We all hope you ALL will come out and support the kids, and entertain yourselves. There is no charge for the games. Only a hat offerings are taken.

Little League Data

Little League fans were entertained across Tuesday night by two good games. The first game was between Lions and Kiwanis with Mr. Cecil Mason as umpire. Sparkling pitching work enabled pitchers Bill Thrash and Bobby Powers with catchers Freddie Bradley and Lowell [illegible] to defeat the Kiwanis 6 to 2. Jimmie Mashew and Donnie Barker were pitchers for the Kiwanis with Mike Cox catching.

Lights for the evening were furnished by Rockets Hardware. The loud speaker by Carter Radio and TV.

The hapless Braves faced the undefeated JC's for the second game. The Braves used Wayne Johnson, Joe Mashew and [illegible] pitchers to Ray Smitherman and Buddy Edison Perry Palmer was pitcher for the JC's and Ray Mashew was catcher. Highlights of the game was Jim Cox hitting 3 bases loaded home to help win the game 21-10.

Little League Baseball at 5:00 at City Park, Lions vs JC's and Braves vs Kiwanis.

The travel booklets all agree that Prince Edward Island — Canada's "Garden of the Gulf" — has beaches that are outstanding; "beaten broad and smooth by the constant action of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, with the sand sloping gently down into deep water making them especially safe. Temperature is ideal, the air is invigorating, and the water is warmer than at many points hundreds of miles to the south." — And, they might have added without fear of contradiction, that Prince Edward Island beach scenery is well worth looking at. ROSES NEED CARE AFTER BLOOMING

The rose is often called the queen of flowers and like a queen, it needs plenty of attention.

Some people think roses need care only when blooming. But the common rose diseases and insects don't wait until the flowers bloom to attack. Concerned only with the leaves, these pests weaken the plants and make them much less likely to bear good blossoms later in the summer and fall.

This is a good time, to apply or renew mulches on the ground under rose bushes. These ground covers are most often made of peat moss but can also be made of old straw or strawey manure which is free from weed and grain. The function of mulch is twofold: it protects the ground from rapid evaporation in hot weather, therefore helping to maintain good moisture conditions around the roots; and it helps prevent black spot infection, which is spread from leaf to leaf by the splashing of raindrops on the soil.

A practice which many growers find well worth the trouble, is regular spraying with appropriate materials. Since some of the insects pests that attack the rose are so small they are seldom observed, it's best not to wait until you find them at work. Assume that sooner or later they'll be around, and spray before you find damaging evidence. Be sure that the spray touches the undeside of the leaves as well as the top side.

State Docks Celebrate 30th Year

A quiet, unheralded June 25th will mark an anniversary date for one of the greatest investments the people of Alabama ever made. Just 30 years ago -- June 25, 1928 -- the Alabama State Docks had its official beginning when the S. S. EDGAR F. LUCKENBACH pulled into dock at Mobile and discharged 750 tons of sugar.

Ironically, the EDGAR F. LUCKENBACH calls again this month. Thirty years have elapsed since her first call, and the name is on another ship original EDGAR F. LUCKENBACH was drowned in the Mississippi River.)

The ship that made the first call at Alabama's modern ocean terminal is not the same, and neither is the scene. For, during the 30 years that have elapsed many changes have taken place at the State Docks. It has grown with the needs of the U. S. importer exporter.

Today in addition to the steel and concrete wharves and the adjacent protected areas (transit sheds) that make up the general cargo piers, there have been added other units to accommodate special commodities moving in world trade.

Some of the products require refrigeration and freezer storage. Through the refrigerated rooms of the five-story shipside cold storage and freezin gplant move coconut meat from the Philippines for U. S. candy manufacturers, and frozen fish from Norway. Also, produce and meats are distributed through this plant to schools and military installations in this area.

What makes the Alabama State Docks so efficient is its compactness and diversity. For, in addition to the cold storage plant at shipside, there is a one and one-half million bushel shipside public grain elevator; an 1800 ton an hour capacity ore terminal, where ores of iron, chrome, maganese, and aluminum (bauxite) are discharged for Alabama industry along with nitrate form Chile for Alabama's farmers.

There is a high density of cotton compress that reduces the bale by two thirds before it goes aboard ship. Furthermore, over 2,200,000 square feet of covered warehouse space is provided for the assemblage of cargo. In fact, the Alabama State Docks is a complete ocean port, one terminal, that is often called "America's Model ties from newly-emerging nations Port" and studied by port authorisuch as Indonesia, India, and Korea for application as port construction is planned for their own countries.

Yes, if the EDGAR F. would call again 30 years hence, it is likely that the scene would also be greatly changed. Already, the physical features are changing again as 3 new piers are being pushed along the Mobile River bank, reaching to downtown Mobile. When they are complete there will be 28 berths for the huge ocean vessels to dock in 36 feet of water. A new unloading tower is being constructed at the ore terminal, and the Docks have joined with a non-profit industrial development group of Mobile in developing a 7,400 acre dock and industrial site north of the Docks.

Citizens of the State of Alabama can be proud of their port facilities and take pride in the fact that for man humble beginning in 1928 has arisen one of the top ten ports in the United States.

CLANTON HAS 3177 PHONES IN USE

The number of telephones serving Clanton continues to increase. I. M. Commander, local Southern Bell manager, reports that 24 more telephones were in service here at the end of May than at the end of last month. The increase raised the total to 3177.

To obtain the month's gain, the telephone company connected 59 telephones for applicants and disconnected 35. During the same period, higher grades of service were provided one subscriber who had a request on file at the utility's business office.

At the beginning of May, the company had 66 requests on file from subscribers for higher grades of service and 72 applications for new service.

Mr. Commander said applications are being filled as quickly as facilities can be made available.

Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh...—(Ecclesiastes 12, 1.)

We may send our children to Sunday School, and that is right and good. But can we expect them to understand the love of God, the power of His good, unless they experience the glory of righteous living exemplified in their parents, their homes?

FOLKS and THINGS About Town

by Ben

The other day we received a package from daughter, June, with a nice Father's Day gift, With the package was a small tie cut out of construction paper and fixed to resemuel a four-in-hand tie. On the center fold were these lines:

It's Father's Day, dear daddy
And I've made this, you see
To TIE us all together;
You, MOMMY, God and me."

Now those are about the sweetest lines a guy ever got from a gal.

One of our favorite grocerymen was talking the other afternoon about business. He said: "I bet I have waited on 500 customers since dinner -- and they ain't showed up yet."

Bill Clack has come up with a brand new idea. He got tired of seeing automobiles all over town with "Visit Silver Springs". "See Lookout Mountain". "Visit Beautiful Panama City Beach," and a dozen other bumper stickers worn by people who had been on their vacation and picked up the stickers. Bill came out Tuesday with a sign on the rear bumper of his automobile which read: ,,I ain't been no where."

Minnie Wade has been busy as a bee this week getting ready for the Ninety - Nines, Inc., who hold their annual convention at Montgomery this week end. The convention will climax the Powder Puff Derby that originate at San Diago, Calif., and ends in Charleston. Mrs. Wade is on the publicity committee for the affair.

Girls still have hidden charm. But they don't hide them as well as they once did.

Doggone if the burglars didn't wait until the new store got the safe full of money and then make off with the safe. Looks like they locked the barn-door before the horse was stolen alright, but the burglars made off with the barn.

We like a politician who lays his cards on the table -- face up. Pig Headley says that he will be a candidate for Probate Judge next term. One thing for sure, you can's say you can't tell what Pig Headley is going to do. He sets his goal and then keeps going in that direction and don't mind telling you so.

A preacher went into the backwoods to preach. He met an old man and started a conversation with him. "Brother, are you lost?" the preacher asked. "Reckon as how I'm not," replied the old man. "Been living in these hills for the past 70 years and know every cowpath." "You don't understand," explained the preacher, "I mean are you ready for the Judgement Day?" When's it coming? asked the old man. "Well it might be today or it might be tomorrow," replied the preacher. The old man became quite excited and exclaimed "Gol dern, don't tell my old lady or she'll want to go both days."

SEWAGE DISPOSAL IN OPERATION

As of June 30, 1958 at 2:00 p. m. Clanton has been served with a sewage disposal plant:

This realization of a dream is the culmination of many hours of hard work put in by Mayor Hollis Jackson and the City Councilmen.

For the past several years a health hazard has covered over east Clanton and in the mayor's own words "It's a wonder we haven't had an epidemic of some sort", due to this distressing situation.

Clanton's new Disposal Plant was built at a total cost of $255,000 with Uncle Sam pitching in $79,000 and a bond Issue covering $190,000.

Contractors will take over operation of the Plant for the first month of service. Afterwards Clanton's Claud Wood and Herman Blalock, who supervise the City Water Plant will be in charge of maintaining the Plant and its facilities. Blalock has attended a course on this subject at Auburn and is well-informed as of now.

The present City Council and Mayor Jackson are due an extended vote of thanks from Clanton residents for this decided improvement in our living conditions.

The reason for this evidence of progress? Mayor Jackson says: "We have the best City Council in the State of Alabama. They all cooperative and go to work on a thing and really thrash it out and get the job done. We all come away from a task good friends." This speaks well of Clanton and is further evidence of our sincere desire to attract new industry here along with our efforts to improve our community and live up to our very encouraging motto.

Thanks to the Alabama Journal for the very flattering way in which they presented the Chilton County Peach and the Peach Grower in a recent editorial. We are not only grateful for their sincere interest in our number one crop, but we also appreciate their very fine coverage with pctures and features during our Peach Festival and the weeks building up to it.

The Journal is truly living up to its name of being "Alabama's" Journal and not confining its reporting to its immediate location as do other publications of its magnitude in the State.

We welcome them to Chilton County at all times.

We have reproduced the Journal's words for the benefit of those of you who did not get the opportunity to read it previously.

(In Ala. Journal, June 24, 1958)

BOON TO THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE

The Chilton County Peach Festival focuses attention on a notable case of an area lifting itself by its own bootstraps, going places with a product on sheer merit. Georgia got the start on us in peach production, in the all-important matter of propaganda and established reputation that counts so much. But Chilton County, long known for its alert and enterprising farmers and business men, has challenged the Crackers and beat them at their own game. Its peaches are not merely "as good" but better; better for us, if for no other reason, because nearer and fresher.

It has long been known, of course, that peaches thrive in Alabama. Trees on farm and backyard plantings have proved that. But here, as in many other lines of human activity, the tendency is to leave it to the professionals. In the case of the peach, there is sound reason for doing so. The peach is assailed and preyed upon by pests, many of them unknown to our grandfathers. A perfect peach is a work of art, to be achieved only by expert attention, by repeated sprayings at just the right stages. The Middle Alabama home owner may do well with figs, pears, scuppermongs, with little effort. But unless he is an exceptional individual, he is well advised to leave peach production to the experts, than whom there are none keener and better posted than those of Chilton County.

To eulogize the peach is like gilding the lily. Luscious, melting, unmatched flavor, versatile in its uses from eating out of hand to ice cream and pies, it is the fruit supreme. To Alabamians the peach, if not absolute necessity, is very nearly so. We could survive without the peach, but it is an indispensable adjunct to good living, to extracting the most from our sojourn here below. Especially is this true since Chilton County producers have risen to new heights in standards of peach abundance and goodness. More power to 'em.

NOW THEY'RE NOT ASKING --

Notice on front page of your News this week a story concerning your responsibilities as a citizen with reference to the situation of garbage disposal around your home.

Prior to this time they have urged, begged, pleaded, requested etc., etc. and apparently most of their talk has gone upheeded.

It is now up to you to comply with this City Ordinance or you shall be chastized in due course of the law.

Containers not meeting specifications will be tagged "unsatisfactory" or with a reasonable facsimile and you may be approached by an official of the health department.

We are advised this week by C. C. Gay that there will be no splitting of hairs in the matter. If you have a container which is in good shape, of the right size (not too large) and has a lid on it then yours will pass inspection. You do not have to purchase a store bought container in order to meet the requirements.

This is a necessity which is our responsibility. If you want a clean city then you must cooperate with the "clean-up" committee in disposing of unwanted trash and debris. The garbage collectors are just that "collectors"; they are not employed to get out and clean up your garbage for you. That is your small part. The health department and the City would appreciate your profound cooperation

THE FOUNDATION

July 4th is Independence Day. Strange, but to some of us "Independence" means simply the right to do what we want to when we want. We can't see the forest for the trees. In our hurly-burly self-centered everyday world we cannot see the real meaning of our "Independence or what we have paid and are paying to maintain it. Our independence is our heritage. But, it does not come to us by way of a gravy train. We must constantly be on the vigil for new threats to our independence by those forces who would take it from us for their own greedy purposes. We in return, as red blooded Americans must not default our heritage by passing off lightly the significans of the day which represents our "freedoms". We hold many things sacred in our day and not in the least of these is the dollar bill and the pleasures it, and others like it will buy for us. You have a charge to keep as a citizen of this great country of ours. You must at all times uphold the principles upon which our nation was founded; you must guard with your life if necessary our rights as citizens; you must in your every action show that you are proud to be a part of America; finally, you must do your level best to maintain high standards of decency, morality and faith in God and the future that has been the standard of Christian people down through the ages. We salute the Fourth of July, not because it is Friday, July 4th; but because it is the symbol of America and we are proud to stand under the protective flag which flies so gloriously over our land of the free.

Take Care On 4th of July Driving Weekend

Vacationing by car today is almost always a family affair and it is well to check over the things that are needed to make your trip as comfortable pleasant and safe as possible.

Being comfortable on your trip is important. Not only does this assure greater enjoyment, but it makes for greater safety as well. Casual clothes and shoes help put one at ease. Store as much of your belongings in the trunk as possible so as to provide maximum space for children in the back seat. A small pillow can make napping comfortable for sleepy passengers. A light blanket can prove helpful in providing warmth on cool mornings and later be used as a ground cover for picnic or play time.

Car trouble can ruin the best planned vacation, so be sure your automobile is gone over thoroughly before you leave. Have a mechanic carefully check, brakes, front lights and turn signals, rear and stop lights, steering exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, horn and tires. The hot summer months produce hot streets and highways -- that's why it's especially important to be sure the tires will stand up to the vigorous test of summer heat at open road speeds. If the walls are cracked or badly checked or if the threads are worn dangerously thin, better get something more substantial between you and the ground.

When you start on your actual trip, remember it's a vacation, not a mileage marathon. For safety's sake, as well as greater driving pleasure, keep the miles-per-hour down to local speed limits or less. Keep the day's mileage down to 350, allow plenty of time for frequent stops. By stopping for 20 minutes every two hours or so, you'll prevent driver fatigue and give the children a chance to romp around.

To keep youngsters in the back seat amused, take along a few small toys. Coloring books, guessing games, songs, and contests to find the most animals or different auto license plates will keep them occupied. Rotating the seating arrangement occasionally will help give everyone a new perspective.

Getting an early start each morning gives a traveler two or three hours of almost traffic-free driving, plus a view of the countryside that most folks rarely see. Around 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon the selection of motels is still good, you if you've phoned or wired ahead "No vacancy" signs needn's worry for reservations, particularly in tourist-crowded areas.

If serious car trouble arises, or you should need a doctor quickly, call the Highway Patrol, local police or sheriff's office. For emergency car repairs or to change tires, make sure you park completely off the traveled portion of the highway.

When you have cause for feeling irritated, try to see the humorous side of the situation rather than bemoan your lack of luck. Determine that you and your family will get the most fun possible out of the trip.

And above all, drive safely. Obey the speed limit signs, keep in the proper lane, avoid foolishly overtaking other cars near hills or curves, and keep a safe distance from other vehicles. Take time to enjoy your trip. Let your family vacation this summer be an experience to reflect upon fondly next winter.

"If We Print It--It's True"

Report from Washington

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Democratic representatives from big-city districts joined with Republicans last week to kill a general farm bill that was scheduled for debate in the House. On a vote of 153 to 171, House members defeated the rule which would have allowed the farm legislation to be considered.

The Democratic-sponsored farm bill was drafted by the House Agriculture Committee, and it provides for new three-year support programs for cotton, wheat, rice milk and feed grains. One of the provisions called for setting up a cotton program whereby the farmer would be given a choice between higher suports and less acreage or lower suports and more acreage. It would have also set up the 1958 national acreage allotment at 17,700,00 acres.

Members of the Agriculture Committee have indicated that they will press for enactment of some type farm legislation before adjournment either in another general measure or in separate bills.

In the meantime, the Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a bill designed to deal with problems of corn, cotton, and rice producers. This measure would give more planting freedom to farmers in return for lower price support. The committee-approved bill has not yet been taken up by the Senate.

EXCISE TAXES VOTED

Both the House and Senate have approved a compromise version of the bill to extend excise taxes and have sent the legislation to the White House.

The compromise measure repeal the three per cent levy on the transportation of freight, the four per cent levy on the transportation of coal, and the 4½ per cent excise on transporting oil by pipeline. But the bill extends corporate income and excise taxes generally.

Although President Eisenhower has indicated he is opposed to the tax repeal which will result in an approximate revenue loss of more than $400 million, he is expected to sign the extension bill in order to prevent the scheduled expiration of other excise taxes. Those to be extended include taxes on corporate income, automobiles and automotive part, cigarettes, and alcoholic beverages.

Elimination of the 10per cent passenger tax on train, airline, bus and ship fares had been endorsed by the Senate, but the joint conference committee removed this provision from the bill in order to make the legislation more acceptable to the House of Representatives.

HOSPITAL LOANS

Two bills pertaining to the Hill Burton hospital construction program also received House approval last week. One measure extends for three years the program which makes available federal grants for the construction of hospitals and other medical facilities.

The other bill authorizes religious organizations to apply for loans rather than grants, for the construction of such facilities. The purpose of the legislation is to make it possible for those religious organizations which oppose the acceptance of grants to share in the feedral aid program. Under the terms of the House bill, loans will be made to those groups if they meet all qualifications required for grants. The loans would be made for periods up to 40 years.

PEACH QUEEN VISITS

It was a pleasure to welcome to Washington last week Miss Janie Wood, 1958 Peach Festival Queen from Chilton County. Miss Wood was accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Harold Smith of Clanton a festival official, and by E. A. Shirley of Clanton, producer of the prize-winning basket of peaches.

WASHINGTON REPORT "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It has now become the fashion among the so-called intellectuals, parlor pinks, and others, to throw stones at American auto industry.

* * *

And while perhaps in the present time of stress when the recession is in part due to the failure of the auto industry to maintain a steady pace, the Big Three of Detroit are entitled to some lumps, Detroit is not the entire auto industry.

C. W. Harder

What these critics forget, and what unfortunately the Big Three forgot, is that the lifeblood of the auto industry is the nationwide corps of auto dealers who for the most part are independent businessmen with their own money tied up in sales and service facilities.

* * *

It is these dealers who made America a nation on wheels, but as soon as lax law enforcement and a fuzzy governmental attitude permitted huge concentration of auto making power, dealers were forced to go along with policies many, if not most, are not in sympathy with.

* * *

The American motorcar today is an outstanding engineering achievement. Perhaps they are bigger than absolutely necessary; perhaps they even have too much glittering chrome.

But it is quite possible that these things have added only insignificantly to prices of autos.

One of the most potent points in this entire situation was made by Charles Kettering, veteran inventor of General Motors, when in a recent article in a national magazine he stated that almost one fourth of the retail price of each car is now tax money. Thus, on a car, selling for example, at $3,000, $750 is tax. Thus, probably in no industry, with the exception of whiskey, is so much taxes incorporated in the selling price.

And while perhaps whiskey is not an essential, in today's economy, an automobile is essential to practically every family. This is a fact which bureaucrats have long refused to recognize, maintaining the same old stand when cars were but rich men's luxury playthings, and thus subject to taxation on that basis.

But today, there is hardly a salesman, factory worker, a business, or an executive that can exist without a car.

And thus the enigma of the auto business today is probably due to the disparity between the price of a new car, and the trade-in value of a used car, as compared to the pre-war ratio.

Yet greater depreciation in a used car today is undoubtedly largely accounted for by the fact new cars carry not a price "pack," but a "tax pack" of 25%.

Big Autos claim that Reuther's Big Auto Labor has forced up the prices. Reuther retorts that excessive profit taking by Detroit has forced up prices. Perhaps both in a measure are correct.

But claims of Big Auto and Big Labor do not seem of major importance at this time.

But the first step, it would seem logically, would be to eliminate the "tax pack" in new cars to immediately bring aid and relief to the thousands of hard pressed independent car dealers. Unless this is done, and done promptly, one of the most valuable economic forces on every Main Street in America could disappear with an irreparable loss to every community.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

Dr. Herbert Rice, speaker at First Methodist Church Sunday expressed an opinion that one should not read morning papers due to the depressing content of newspapers in general. He also said that one should read a good devotional or from the Bible in the morning to start the day off right. With one of these items we agree wholeheartedly. However, we cannot agree with his assertion that all newspapers reporting is depressing. On the contrary, a large percentage of news, particularly in the nation's weekly press, is of the boosting type. Much of it is of the good-natured variety and the weekly press, tends to "play down" much "depressing" news. We will not go so far as to say that newspapers dwell entirely on "good news" because much of a newspapers effectiveness is in its factual reportings of life and living. The press is not responsible for the way in which we live -- it simply keeps us informed of just how we do live. When it comes to campaigning for worthy causes the press is second to none and its effectiveness is widespread and long-lasting. The press is of, and for the people. It does not take upon itself to dictate how we should live or what we are doing wrong except through its editorial policy and that is entirely up to the individual newspaper. News is news Dr. Rice. We don't make it, we just print it as we see it with the naked eye. One thing we do agree with -- we do wish people would learn to live together. It would certainly cut down on sensationalism -- which some newspapers thrive on -- and we'd have a much better place to live. Basically that's what a newspaper does anyhow -- remind us of just how to live. It's a good thing -- otherwise we wouldn't realize just how sorry we really are some me.

We might add that we think Dr Rice is a very effective speaker. He appears to be wisdom, open-mindness, honesty and goodness all built into one. We certainly enjoyed his visit with us. One never tires of a good influence.
